

enusalem pog

THE WORLD

A to hole warning

strike

MIOTTOW

JUDY SIEGEL

David Adem at

pour warring said

pin tomatter ... the station personal a

BONCE CALLS for help-ac

ands for adding made is set to some

ing of MOAstraids

at the in ....

and blood early and the the paternalia

e the ray =

by hospital - mental

see despendent if a

Money Tong

this said the factor

the fresh to the

sine cruss to your and THE WATER OF STATE

attige office differ etterper -BOOKER WAS E. THE TOTAL

no antiques of T

OUGHT

idaism A-Z

W Nowman and Gard

e are consers:

here effect and

h heritage 2-0 As naving As " e a E

avology, Tag. a...

HORN EVET SEE 2

CON CLASSORS 3

act of the rec

of Israe Conse

FOR INTEREST OF THE

2 S-4:03 24

SCORE Education

Price NIS 35.00

pay are not

THE JERUSALEM

POST Only $59 To order: Call 02-531-5621 Fax. 02-531-5622 e-mail-correct dipost co.l. noary 1992 November 198

VOLUME LXV. NUMBER 19534

MONDAY, MARCH 17, 1997 • ADAR II 8, 5757 • 9 THU AL-QADAH 1417

NIS 4.50 (Eilat NIS 3.80)

The New Hork Cimes William Safire on Helsinki hopes

Tel Aviv recalls Jerry Garcia

Arts & Entertainment, Page 5

Culture clash in Zichron Ya'acov

Arts & Entertainment . . . . . Crossword ......11

in the case of the particle of

Erekat denies secret talks

By ARIEH O'SULLIVAN

Saeb Erekat, head of the Palestinian steering committee overseeing the Israeli-Palestinian negotiations, denied yesterday that there were any secret talks going on in an attempt to reduce tensions and achieve some kind of compromise on Har Homa.

There is no dialogue between Israel and the Palestinians and there can be no dialogue unless [Prime Minister Binyamin] Netanyahu reverses his decision to begin work at Har Homa," Erekat told Itim.

Meanwhile, the IDF and police have moved to meet any Palestinian unrest in the territories over the construction of Har Homa with an iron fist, rushing troops to the West Bank to prevent any outbreak of violence.

Defense Minister Yitzhak Mordechai called on the Palestinians to refrain from violence and avoid needless con-flict with the IDF. Mordechai convened top security officials in his Jerusalem office prior to King Hussein's visit yesterday to consolidate and review the measures ordered.

Mordechai had told the cabinet on Friday that he does not believe there will be any violence, but the government is not taking any chances and has ordered the rein-

Meeting in Mordechai's office

Continued on Page 2

EU: No

Albania

force yet

King Hussein and Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu pay a condolence call yesterday at the Beit Shemesh home of the Fathi family, whose daughter Sivan was one of the schoolgirls murdered by a Jordanian soldier Thursday.

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

Hussein visit shows strength of peace with Jordan

News agencies APELDOORN, Netherlands -European Union foreign ministers, struggling with the divisive ques-tion of whether to send troops into Albania, decided yesterday to send a high-level evaluation mission instead. The ministers were dealing with a request by the Albanian government for troops to restore order and a suggestion by former Austrian chancellor Franz Vranitzky, who headed a team sent to Albania by the 54-nation Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe, that Western Europe send in troops and police to quell the violence.

Severely splintered over the question, the 15-nation EU was able to agree only on a statement urging the Albanians to accept responsibility for rebuilding their own country and sending an argent mission of representatives from the EU executive, the OSCE and Albania's EU neighbors. The mission will be in Terana today and return tomorrow, officials said. In Albania, US marines stormed out of helicopters onto Golem Beach south of Durres yesterday to rescue American, Turkish and Italian citizens. in Tirana, 3,000 Albanians chanting "Peace, peace" gathered in the capital's central square as part of government attempts to restore order.

President Sali Berisha, facing Continued on Page 2

By HERB KEINON Jordan's King Hussein came to us yesterday like a distant relative who manages to visit every once the nation. in a while for a funeral. The gesture of the visit is greatly appreciated, but something is missing. The relatives burying their dead can be heard whispering, "Why doesn't he ever come on a happy occasion, or even just to visit? Why does he wait so long?"

Since the peace accord was signed with Jordan in 1994, Hussein has publicly visited four times. Once for Yitzhak Rabin's funeral, once to dedicate a trauma center named after Rabin at Tel Aviv's Ichilov Hospital, and now for the shiva call. One time, soon after the signing, he did come just to say hello. "I appreciate his visit," said

Beit Shemesh shopkeeper Gregory Ya'acovov, whose store was on one of the streets closed down because it was on the king's route. 'I just wish he could come once for a celebration."

A handful of Beit Shemesh residents stood outside the house of Adi Malka, the king's first stop in the town, to catch a glimpse of the king, even to pay him homage. Had Hussein come under better circumstances, it is likely that the empty streets despite the rain - would have been full of people standing under Jordanian and Israeli flags, throwing rice and flowers. Israel likes the king, despite all the ups and downs. · Hussein, with gestures such as those he made yesterday, has charmed the country. It is to Hussein's infinite credit that he used the horror at Naharayim as a way to try and patch up relations that were severely sourced last

His visit to the bereaved, his shiva call, was both unprecedented and poignant. Watching him kneel in the homes and - in his resonant, empathetic, royal voice - offer his condolences did an Arab state?

have a balm-like effect, if not on the families suffering heyond comfort, then at least on much of

"Words cannot express how I personally feel, how my family feels, how my people feel. We consider this a loss that all of us suffered," Hussein said in the Malka home, his words, delivered

> "Words cannot express how I personally feel, how my family feels, how my people feel."

> > -King Hussein

slowly, swiftly translated into sign language for the grieving parents, who are both deaf.

"I feel that I have lost a child, and I feel that if there is anything in life, it is to ensure that all the children enjoy peace and security. I hope you consider me a brother and a member of the family."

When was the last time an Arab leader so mourned the victims of terror? Who would have dreamed a few year ago that such words would be uttered by the head of

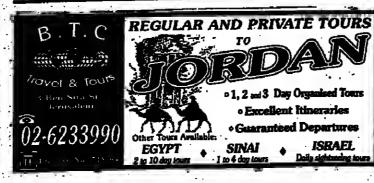

It is, likewise, to Israel's credit that the king was welcomed so openly, so warmly. It is difficult to imagine such a greeting had the shoe been on the other foot, had Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu needed to pay a condolence call on the families of Jordanian youths killed by an Israeli soldier.

Beit Shomesh, hot-blooded Beit Shemesh, known to many only as the place where Labor leader Shimon Peres was pelted with tomatoes during a campaign stop in the 1980s, greeted Hussein with restraint, with respect. This, even though the town of 25,000, many of whom are linked by family ties, was still in shock, still licking its wounds after the killing of the young girls.

That the king made the visit, and that the Israelis accepted him so readily, shows that the peace between Israelis and the Jordanian leadership has sunk

"Sad, so sad," murmured Esther Afriati, watching in the rain as Hussein was hustled from his limousine into the Malka home. Her daughter is in the eighthgrade class at the AMIT Fuerst school that went to Naharayim, but because of financial constraints, didn't join the group. "It is nice that he came; it does an aching heart good," she said. "Next time he should come for a happy event."

Gaza airport now open for Arafat

Hussein wins concession on visit

By DAVID MAKOVSKY and JON HAMANUEL

King Hussein's gesture of going house to house to visit the bereaved families in Beit Shemesh was met yesterday by a gesture from Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu: In response to a request from the king, the premier will allow Palestinian Authority Chairman Yasser Arafat to fly in and out of the Dahaniya airport in Netanyahu and Arafat may meety in two days, Israel Radio quoted a senior Palestinian source as saying last night.

Netanyahu, Hussein arranged a phone call with Arafat. During the conversation it was agreed that Arafat could fly his plane in and out of Dahaniya without special permission. Until now his plane would take off from Egyptian territory.

Defense Minister Yitzbak Mordechai confirmed on Channel

During his meeting with King Hussein bows his head to the Israeli flag upon his arrival at Ben-Gurion Airport yester-

1 that an arrangement for Arafat's flights could be made "within days." But be made no commitment to opening the airport to general Palestinian air traffic, which be said "depends on Palestinian

According to a statement issued by the Prime Minister's Office last night, Arafat would now be permitted to fly his plane out of Dahaniya, if be adheres to "security precautions" which apparently include checking the plane before departure and upon arrival.

The Prince of Peace. Page 2 Husseln pays hospital visit to Weizman, Page 3

"Jordan has provided itself to be an essential bridge between Israel and the Palestinian Authority,' said Dore Gold, Netanyahu's forcign policy adviser. Hussein was also instrumental in helping clinch the Hebron accord.

The phone call "was a constructive conversation and I hope that the results will speak for themselves," Hussein said at a joint news conference with Netanyahu. But former Arafat spokesman Kanafani Marwan Netanyahn's gesture is not significant. "The problem is not the airport or the seaport," he said. "This does not change the crisis atmosphere. Without addressing Har Homa and redeployment, which

Continued on Page 2

ISRAEL'S ECONOMY IS ON THE MOVE.

We offer you a comprehensive and diverse range of banking and financial services, based oo six decades of unrivaled expertise. Talk to as first, and prafit from a fully informed picture with professional services specifically tailored to your needs, including a special program of highly competitive financing opportunities. ■ Open a tax free foreign currency account and enjoy: · Strict confidentiality · Shart & medium term convertible into all major foreign currencies . Highly competitive interest rates . No estate doties, tax free

■Should you choose to diversify your assets, consider investing through the Bank, in bonds and stocks, traded worldwide and nn the Tel Aviv Stack Exchange. ■A real estate purchase in Israel entitles you to loans of np to 50% (60% under special circumstances) of the deposits in all major foreign currencies . Deposits For details, visit any branch of Israel Discount Bank, or contact our Business Promotion & Marketing Department, 16 Mapu St., Tel Aviv. Tel: 03-5216223,5247279. interest in Israel . Funds transferable worldwide. Fax: 03-5242343. E.Mail: men@netvisioo.net.il

ISRAEL DISCOUNT BANK

The American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee JDC-Israel and the JDC-Brookdale Institute extend deepest condolences to Drs. Ruth and Zvi Feine and the entire Mann family on the profound loss of

Prof. KALMAN J. MANN 573

May his memory be a blessing

On the first anniversary of the passing of my beloved husband, our father and grandfather

R.H. GEFFNER 5"

we will visit his grave at 4 pm. on Tuesday, March 18, 1997 (9 Adar !!) at the Kiryat Shaul Cemetery. We will meet at the gate.

The Family

The Prince of Peace

Jordan's King Hussein proved yesterday why so many Israelis view him as the "Prince of

He seems to be the only Arab leader in the region who demonstrates be favors an expansive definition of peace favored by Israel and yet unfulfilled, namely not just a political accommodation between states, but rather personal reconciliation between peoples.

Consoling bereaved families gives peace a burnan face, of which a hundred speeches at symposia or endless photo-ops between leaders cannot convey. Indeed, such actions only serve to underscore Hussein's sincerity when be makes clear that he wants to take bold steps for peace for posterity.

Beyond that, it seems that Hussein's actions are designed to create a new standard of peace. namely setting as its aim the alleHUSSEIN gri in Israel viation of suffering of a single individual caught in the crossfire of an old conflict. The history of the region details governments, wars and even peace treaties, but in this part of the world, too little attention is paid to those families who bear the brunt of suffering.

One hopes that Hussein's condolence calls will reverberate around the region and maybe other leaders will emulate his last time Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu, Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak or Palestinian Authority Chairman Yasser Arafat visited the bereaved families of the other. side, who have been struck down by a terrorist or accident, for that

However, Hussein set more than a bumanitarian standard yesterday. Specifically, by helping reestab-lish phone contact between Netanyahu and Arafat, Hussein has demonstrated his own importance to Middle East peace-making. Despite being a leader of a small buffer state, this is the second time - Hebron being the first - that he is seeking to bring Israelis and Palestinians together.

The lack of trust between Netanyahn and Arafat necessitates that there will have to be a third party go-between, and therefore, along with the US, Hussein's peace brokering is likely to continue for some time to come.

IDF Continued from Page 1

yesterday were Deputy Chief of General Staff Maj.-Gen. Matan Vilna'i, General Security Service bead Ami Ayalon, Coordinator of Government Activities in the Territories Maj.-Gen. Ya'acov Ort, OC Central Command Maj.-Gen. Uzi Dayan, OC Intelligence Maj. Gen. Moshe Ya'alon, OC Planning Branch Maj.-Gen. Shaul Mofaz, the prime minister's adviser on fighting terrorism Meir Dagan, and senior police commanders from the Jerusalem and Judea and Samaria districts.

Mordechai told them that getting back to the negotiating table is the main objective, but that forces must be prepared for violence.

Central Command sources said that even though only surveyors - not buildozers - are expected to begin work on Har Homa this week, IDF forces are being put on alert.

There are no tanks, but reinforcements are being deployed in key areas. Soldiers have been briefed on open-fire regulations, and senior commanders have met with settlers to discuss their safety," said one source. "The army is preparing for any and all

The periodic beefing up of forces and unrest alerts in the Central Command has started to interfere with training. Some of the forces being readied have had to put their training on hold.

"But we are taking all the measures needed to meet any scenario. The events will certainly go up a step once bulldozers are on the ground, but there is a possibility that anything could trigger nnrest, even surveyors," the Central Command source said.

Soldiers have been briefed on conclusions reached following the September riots, but IDF sources insist that open-fire orders have not been changed.

We are preparing for the worst case, in which riots erupt in the territories after construction starts on Har Homa," Vilna'i was quoted as saying by Ha' aretz. We see before our eyes the events of September 1996 and are deploying accordingly. We will not allow unrest or rioting in the territories, and if there is any, we shall react immediately and accordingly.

在海湖山區的東西 照用的医院

A 2 . . .

85

125.35.2.1 12.

Fag. . . .

F-6. ......

28 10 1

X : .

ರಾಜಕಾಗಿ

Sec.

EE 2 2 3 3 3 5

*** :- - :

Lab

By MICH

Vilna'i also said that such a massive show of force would deter the Palestinians.

On the occasion of the 20th yahrzeit of the passing of our beloved Rebbe

Rav PINKY BAK 5"

a memorial service will be held at the Eretz Hachaim Cemetery, Beit Shemesh, in the chapel, at 8 p.m., Thursday, March 20, 1997, Motza'ei Ta'anit Esther, followed by an aliyah lakever. Akiva Bak will be with us.

His Students and Friends

mourns the loss of its dear friend

ILSE MÖLLER FLOERSHEIM 777

a devoted board member and philanthropist who established the university's Carl Alexander Floersheim Museum of Jewish Art in memory of his late father > and received a Bar-llan honorary doctorate in 1988. The university expresses deepest sympathies to daughter-in-law Yonat Floersheim and grandson Alexander Floersheim

May you be comforted among the moumers of Zion and Jerusalem

ALBANIA Continued from Page 1

mounting criticism since the collapse of shady investment schemes into which thousands of Albanians had poured their savings, defied demands from southern rebels that be should quit.

Celebratory gunfire erupted in the southern rebel stronghold of Gjirokaster when rumors that Berisha had quit circulated. The guns were fired again, in anger, when the resignation was official Berisha announced that he had pardoned opposition leader Fatos vano, who had been jailed in 1993 on corruption charges the opposition said were politically motivated. He has been mentioned as a possible new leader to unite Albania.

ARAFAT Continued from Page 1

led to this situation, the crisis today is the same as the crisis yes-

There was no indication last night that talks on the final disposition of the territories would resume as scheduled today. The Palestinians have said they will: boycott these talks until there is a: reversal of the decision to build on Har Homa. Kanafani said that Netanyahu's statement at the press conference that building at Har Homa would means nothing has proceed

Sonrces close to Palestinian negotiator Saeb Erekat denied that he was planning a meeting with Yitzhak Molcho, Netanyahu's chief negotiator, last

Apart from the political issues; it was Hussein's personal act of visiting the mourning families. which won the hearts of Israelis; demonstrating that - as he told the bereaved families in Beit. Shemesh — we are all one fami-

In his condolence calls and atthe press conference, Hussein' decried the Naharayim shooting, and expressed "shame" that a Jordanian soldier would commit such a heinous act.

At their press conference. working with Netanyahu to forther the peace process. Netanyahu stressed the need for both Israelis and Palestinians to continue a dialogue, even when there are differences between them. Hussein seemed to agree that Israelis and Palestinians must,

"I am for direct talks by those. parties involved so they can solve their own problems," he said. 'Jordan can only provide a ser-

But Hussein could not prevail npon Netanyahu to stop the building at Har Homa.

"I said that the bulldozers would start this week. They will start this week," Netanyahu declared at the press conference. "There is no change in our deci-

During the press conference Hussein pledged to establish a "children's park" at Nahayaran.

AMIT WOMEN

in Israel and the United States together with

THE AMIT NETWORK OF EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS

join with Klal Yisrael in mourning the tragic and untimely deaths of their

STUDENTS FROM THE AMIT FUERST SCHOOL IN BEIT SHEMESH

> Natali Alkalai Shiri Badayev Keren Cohen Nirit Cohen Sivan Fathi Adi Malka Ya'ala Me'iri

יהי זכרן ברוך

We extend our heartfelt condolences to their families and pray for a true and everlasting peace in Israel.

המקום ינחם אתכם ואותנו בתוך שאר אבלי ציון וירושלים TD the israel museum, jerusalem its Board of Directors and Staff deeply mourn the passing of our beloved friend

SHNEUR ZALMAN ABRAMOV

Dear Ayala, we are all with you in your sorrow.

THE HEBREW UNION COLLEGE -JEWISH INSTITUTE OF RELIGION

The Students, Faculty and Staff

mourn the loss of

SHNEUR ZALMAN ABRAMOV

Chairman of the Board of Overseers Hebrew Union College - Jewish institute of Religion, Jerusalem Distinguished Pillar of Democracy and Religious Pluralism in Israel We shall forever cherish his memory

Rabbi Sheldon Zimmerman, President. Dr. Alfred Gottschalk, Chancellor. Burton Lehman, Chair, Board of Governora. Richard J. Scheuer, Chair, Jerusalem School Committee. Dr. Michael L. Klein, Dean.

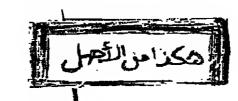

We deeply mourn the passing of our beloved

SHNEUR ZALMAN ABRAMOV

The funeral will take place on Tuesday, March 18, 1997, leaving from the Sanhedna Funeral Home at 1 p.m. and proceeding to the Mount of Olives Cemetery.

> His wife, Ayala Zacks-Abramov Brother, Yitzhak and Shoshana Avrahami Daughter, Carmela and Benjamin Kedem Daughter, Edna and Ouri Dollar-Camar Son, Hillel and Dana Abramov Grandchilden, Edly, Calanit, Gilad, Shira, Liby Great-grandson, Yoel

The family will sit shive at the home of the deceased in Jerusalem

Hussein pays visit to Weizman

By BATSHEVA TSUR

A Post

Early and all stores in the started to see Some of Red have had ect any sce.

dozers are on

is a possibil could prigger veyors," purce said

on briefed on ed following

ors, but IDF

nat open-fire

g for the worst is empt in the construction

Vilna'i was

by Ha'aren

our eyes the r 1996 and are ngly. We will

r rioting in the

here is any, we ediately and id that such a f force would

FAT

en Page 1

tion, the crisis

is the crisis yes-indication last

the final dispo-mitorics would nled today. The said they will

B until there is a ecision to build bat Netanyahu's

press conference

lar Homa would i nothing has to Palestinian

Erekat denied

oning a meeting of negotiator, last

e politicai issues.

s personal act of

ourning families

bearts of Isselis

wit - as he rold the uties in Ben

are all one far-ence calls and a ference. Hussein harayim shootise.

er would commit

mess conference.

e is committed to Netanyahu to fur-bressed the need for and Palestinges to

alogue, even who Herences between a seemed to agree

id Palestinians mas.

arect talks by those ed so they can solic toblems, he said only provide a ser-

thu to stop the build that the bulldotten

his work They will cook. Neumann

he prose conference.

change in our deci-

press conference.

derd to establish t

process.

"shame" that a

Molcho.

on hold i all the mea-

"Our legacy for all our children must be peace, security, and friendship - all the things that we, in our generation, have missed," King Hussein declared after embracing and kissing President Ezer Weizman in his hospital bed at Hadassah-University Hospital in Jerusalem's Ein Kerem

"We have had a few days of real sorrow and national shame over this terrible crime," Hussein said. "I tried to express [to the bereaved families] that we shared that loss. Don't be surprised to see me here, that loss is very personal."

Weizman described the king's visit as "a brave and courageous act in these terrible circumstances."

He said that "we have to look for the positive side even in disaster... The king knelt before the people whose daughters were killed by his soldier. It is an important visit both from the humanifarian and the political points of view. I too will do everything possible to bring everyone closer."

Weizman then invited Hussein to pay another visit, under happier circumstances. "You see our country in sadness," he said. "I invite you to come and see us also when it is blooming and industrious."

Weizman, who was clearly in pain, nevertheless kept up his good spirits as his hospital bed was wheeled into a large room in the orthopedic ward, where carpets had been laid down to receive Hussein. It was soon far too small to contain all those who crowded in, including Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu and other cabinet members. Reuma

Jordan's King Hussein and Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu talk to President Ezer Weizman yesterday at Hadassah-University Hospital in Jerusalem's Ein Kerem.

Weizman. who accompanied Hussein all day, returned to join her husband at his bedside, where he had been tended by his daughter, Michal. "What are you doing in bed?" Hussein said jovially as he came

"We are both pilots, but you flew here today and I am grounded," Weizman replied.

Turning to Hussein's daughter, Princess Aisha, who was dressed in her Jurdanian army uniform, Weizman said: "I watched you admiringly on my TV screen."

Defense Minister Yitzhak

Mardechai took the opportunity to invite Aisha and her brother, Prince Faisal, to visit as guests of the IDF. On the seventh floor, the atmosphere was less jovial. Hussein visited Yaffa Shmuel, one of the pupils seriously wounded in the Naharayim attack, and presented her with a pendant and gold hamsa. To her teacher, Yaffa Shukrun, lying alongside her, Hussein extended an invitation to

The king: Consider me one of the family

King Hussein of Jordan went to Beit Shemesh yesterday to pay a condolence call, in a strange combination of royal pomp and common prayer.

In a driving rain and surrounded by a convoy of security men on the ground and in the air, Hussein knelt at the feet of the families of the seven schoolgirls gunned down by a Jordanian soldier last week, offering words of solace and prayers for

No words can eyer express how Lipersqually feel, how my family feels, how my people feel, Hussein told the Malka family, whose daughter Adi was one of

"We consider this a loss that all of us suffered. I feel that I've lost a child, and ... I hope you will consider me a brother and a member of the family."

His comments to the Malka family, his first stop in the town, were especially poignant, as Adi's parcuts are deaf. They spoke through a sign-language interpreter to Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu, who then translated the Hebrew into English for the king.
Aliya Malka fainted when the king and Netanyahu, whn accompanied Hussein on all his rounds, first sat before them. She was quickly revived.

Outside in the pouring rain, a few dozen residents stood hoping to catch a glimpse of the king. For the most part, they were receptive.

"There are mixed views," said Deborah Zwebner, a mother of an eighth-grade boy at the Fuerst School. "There are those who don't welcome it and don't feel this is the time, that it's too soon, that the wounds haven't healed. "I feel it's a respectful gesture on his part I give the king a lot of could come here to possible negative feelings, and yet he still

Zwebner said she had worked all morning at City Hall collating the e-mail messages that had poured in to the Beit Shemesh website, to give to Hussein, to Netanyahu, and to the families of the victims.

"We've received over 500 messages of condnlence, and offers of help to contribute money toward a fund for the families," she said, adding that the letters had come from all over the world, including Sweden, Puerto Rico, New Zealand, Mexico, Jordan, Belgium, Panama, Costa Rica, Venezuela.

Zwebner also had to deal with a problem affecting the whole town: the massive security detail had cleared the streets in the king's path, and her car was towed from in nf City Hall.

Hussein, accompanied by his son, Faisal, and daughter, Aisha, began his condolence calls - 10 to 15 minutes in each house - with a stop at the Fatihi family in Moshav Tzelafon, before coming to Beit Shemesh.

The first stop in town, on a main street called Shiva, was a media circus, with television crews and townsfolk gathered to witness the historic sight of an Arab king mimicking the Jewish mitzva of a shiva

Up the street, past the town bulletin board with the girls' death notices pasted up, was his second stop, the Mei'ri family at 42 Rehov Arlozoroff. In the hours before his visit, the street and sidewalk were empty, as much from the rain as from the security. It looked almost deserted, until you noticed the policemen, soldiers, border policemen, and GSS agents tucked inside every doorway and on many roofs. guns at the ready. It looked like a scene from High Noon, everyone standing quietly waiting for the drama to unfold.

As the motorcade sped by, there wasn't much to see, just the passing limousine with the Jordanian flag flying from the front fender telling you who was inside. Hana Jomo didn't care. The year-old Beit Shemesh resident said she felt she had to be on the street to show her support. I give him a lot of credit that he came here, and I came out to salute him," she said. "Even in the rain. Even if it would have snowed - he deserves it. I believe he was sincere in enming here, and be came because of genuine feeling and not because he felt any obligation. It really hunt him."

Moreover, she said, his visit had less to do with Beit Shemesh than it did with his own countrymen. "He's trying to send a message back to Jordan that this is the way to behave," she said.

For the families in mourning, the visit was downplayed as much as possible, given the overwhelming media presence.

"We were waiting for him like we were waiting for anyone else who was coming to visit," said Yehudit Yaish, an aunt of Adi Mei'ri. "There was a bit of excitement, but we're not involved that much in politics, either right or left. It was just as if it was the prime minister, or the president, the same degree of excitement." Despite the sadness in the town, where no one was more than two degree of separation removed from one of the girls who had been killed, that degree of excitement was felt.

But even more, there was a feeling that people all over, including a king, were touched by the tragedy that had befallen the town.

The outpouring from the world has been so heartfelt and has touched so many here," said Zwebner. "Everyone here sees that people from outside in the world truly care, and one small town has made the whole world a small town."

in brief

Pressler Commission begins work

The Pressler Commission, appointed by the Education Ministry to investigate Thursday's murder of seven Beit Shemesh schoolgirls by a Jordanian soldier at Naharayim, began its administrative work yesterday. Today, it is to begin taking testimony from ministry officials involved with school outings. After the shiva, the panel will visit Beit Shemesh to take testimony.

Commission head Brig.-Gen. (res.) Yigal Pressler called npon anyone with relevant information to fax it to the commission at Jerusalem Post Staff

Hammer asks to meet Jordan, Egypt counterparts

Education Minister Zevulun Hammer is to invite his counterparts in Jordan and Egypt to a meeting on teaching pupils in all three countries about the value of the peace process.

Hammer made the suggestion to members of King Hussein's entourage yesterday during the king's condolence visits to the families of the schoolgirls killed at Naharayim. The Jordanians responded positively and said they would encourage their edn-Jerusalem Post Staff cation minister to attend.

Jordanian bar to defend schoolgirls' killer

The Inrdan Bar Association said yesterday that it is organizing lawyers to prepare for the trial of Ahmed Dagamsa, who is accused of killing seven Israell schoolgirls. Hussein Mjali, the association president, said he will head a defense team to be named in the next several days.

Daqamsa, 28, an army corporal, is expected to be tried before a military court after investigations are complete. No trial date has been set. Jordan has military prosecutors, but the defendants in military cases are represented by private lawyers.

Hizbullah leader praises Jordanian murderer

Hizhullah official Mohammed Yizbak praised the Jurdanian soldier who murdered seven schoolgirls last week.

"It is impossible that the fascist police will dominate the free and honorable nations. There will enme a day when all of the Arab nations will go nut to demonstrate their opposition to the contempoble agreements, as did the Jordanian soldier on March 13," he said on Friday.

Prof. Kalman Mann buried

Prof. Kalman Mann, the longtime director-general of the Hadassah Medical Organization (HMO) and most recently chairman of the presidium of Yad Sarah. who died on Friday at 84, was buried yesterday at Sanhedria Cemetery in Jenusalem. Mann was born in Jerusalem and studied medicine at the University of London. He became deputy director-general of HMO in 1949 and director-general two years later, holding the position for 30 years. He oversaw the construction of the Ein Kerem campus and the rebuilding of the Mt. Scopus campus after the Six Day

Kalman Mann (Avroham Hozan)

Six Injured in traffic accidents

A woman and her two children were injured in Beit Yerah in the Jordan Valley yesterday afternoon when their car crashed to a truck nead-on. Incy were the mother is in serious condition. The toddlers, who suffered moderate injuries, were flown to the Rabin Medical Center-Beilinson Campus in Petah Tikva for treatment. A man was was seriously injured in a traffic accident in

Tel Aviv last night and taken in Sheba Hospital at Tel

Two people were lightly injured yesterday evening when a patch of nil on the Jerusalem-Givat Ze'ev road caused a sevencar pile-up. The road was closed in both directions after the

Labor no-confidence motion today

By MICHAL YUDELMAN

The Labor Party leadership yesterday decided to submit its no-confidence motion in the goveriment today, despite the mur-derous attack in Jordan last week. MK Efraim Sneh, who is to present the motion, said at the end of a meeting held in party chairman Shimon Peres's office that beginning the construction on Har Homa will bring about a general explosion in the territories. It's only a matter of time - days

Sneb said: Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu's aim is to end the negotiations with the Palestinians and blow up the peace process. "[Justice Minister Tzahi]

Hanegbi's attack on Palestinian Anthority Chairman Yasser Arafat and the timing of the building in Har Hnma expose Netanyahu's real intentinns," he said

The meeting was attended by Peres, party secretary-general Nissim Zvilli, Knesset faction ehairman Ra'anan Cnhen, and MKs Ehud Barak, Uzi Baram, Ynssi Beilin, Sneh, Binyamin Ben-Eliezer, and Avraham

The government doesn't put off its shortenmings, sn wby should we give it a week's extension?" asked Cohen. "The government's dangerous decisions are eausing nur relations with the Arab states to deteriorate and jenpardizing the future of the people of Israel.

us to hold the vote of no-confidence in the prime minister and the flaws in his functioning."

Other MKs said that before another disaster is brought upon the country by Netanyahu and his cabinet, Labor must do all it can to topple the government.

Party sources noted that if Netanyahu really wanted to bring about national unity, he would bave invited Peres and the opposition leadership to join the eon-dnlence visits he made with King Hussein yesterday.

The sources said the visit was supposed to have been a private one, hut Netanyahu and Foreign Minister David Levy cynically used it for their own political purposes, as was evident from their constant upstaging of Hussein.

TANTUR PUBLIC LECTURE Ecumenical Institute for Theological Studies

Thursday, March 20, at 3:45 p.m.

Prof. Harvey Cox, Harvard University, USA The Historical Jesus in Jewish/Christian/Muslim Conversations

Dr. Meir Tamari Jerusalem Center for Business Ethics

Sins in the Marketplace

Entrance NIS 10

Tel. 972-2-524-9167 Fax. 972-2-624-9168 E-mail: mayanot@netviaion.net.il

PURIM PARTY

Hear Jeff Barak, Editor of The Jerusalem Post "The Role of Media in Israeli Society"

NIS 10. Wed., March 19, 6:00 p.m. Goldbloom Center, Central Carmel, 124 Hanassi Ave., Haifa. AACI 04-838-7140, 838-4319

▼ .IORDAN

Petra 2 days with flights from Tel Aviv and back, every Wednesday:

3 stars from $ 269 3 stars from $ 299

Swiss Private Banking in Israel

Serving clients around the world with safety, discretion, know-how, experience. highly individualised services for investment success which satisfy the highest demands

by achieving excellent performance. Meet the delegate.

Mr. Josef Hess. on his monthly visit to Israel March 17 - 20, 1997

For appointments call 0041-61-2729525 or fax 0041-61-2729533 or call during his stay in Israel 050-298764

Bank Heusser Base

Private Banking, Asset Management Since 1855.

a CREDIT SUISSE GROUP company

Final-status talks delayed

By JON IMMANUEL

The final-status talks, due to start today, will not open unless the Har Homa controversy is resolved, Palestinian officials said yesterday.

They also said that they hoped King Hussein could convince Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu not to let bulldozers start work on the

The date for the final-status talks was fixed in the talks with the Palestinian Authority on Hebron last December, when Hussein also mediated at the last moment. Israel is prepared to begin the talks, the Foreign Ministry said yesterday. Foreign Minister David Levy told this to Mahmond Ahbas, PA Chairman Yasser Arafat's deputy, in a meeting last week, hut Abbas replied that only Arafat could decide to go forward with them. As of last night, Arafat had not responded, the Foreign Ministry spokesman said, adding, "Israel expects that the Palestinian Authority will answer the invitation and fulfill its obligation, under to the [Hebron] agreement, to renew talks." Explaining why the final-status talks could not begin today, Ahmed Qurie, the chief Palestinian negotiator of the Oslo accords, said, "What we have here is a conceptual disagreement on the Oslo agree-ments, of which Har Homa is the tip of the iceberg.

If Har Homa had not appeared the iceberg may have remained submerged and unseen. But bow can we talk about settlements when we see that such blatant settlement continues?"

Palestinian Authority cabinet secretary Ahmed Abdel-Rahman said that he understood from the beginning that King Hussein was not only on a con-"His is a message that the Arab world is ready for does not understand the message." Abdel-Rahman, a close associate of Arafat, said that the tension could be resolved without causing Netanyahu to lose face.

peace. It will be yet another shock if Netanyahu

"All we ask is that he not fix a day for bringing buildozers to the hill. He should find room to delay it for technical reasons. The Palestinian side will understand that means Israeli flexibility." Without such a delay "there is no peace process and there can be no final talks since we cannot sit at the same table." Abdel-Rahman said the PA does not see Hussein's possible intervention as an attempt to usurp the PA's elaims on Jerusalem. "It doesn't matter to whom Netanyahu makes the gesture: He can speak with Hussein, [Morocco's King] Hassan, [Egypt's President] Mubarak or Itim contributed to this report.

Tentur Andianium, Helmon Road towards Bethlehem, at Gilo junction. Parking

Buses 22 (to Bethlehem) and 30 (through Gilo) stop at gate.

will discuss his new book

Join in Purim festivities, with refreshments.

NEOT HAKIKAR TOURING Co.

Wednesday and Friday from- 19.2.97 - 30.3.97 !! Special price:

Friday: 03-5205858, 03-5221020

iami

qem

dem.

CAIRO (Reuter) - US politicians cannot take a tough line on Israeli policy in Jerusalem because of domestic political pressures, President Hosni Mubarak said, in an interview hroadcast on state television yes-

"When you sit with the Congress people and the American president himself, you feel that they could be forced to take any measure for certain political circumstances," he said.

Mubarak was speaking in the Muroccan capital Rabat oo Saturday morning, on his way home from the US.

Washington upset its Arab allies earlier this month by vetoing a UN Security Council resolution condemning the decision to build on Har Homa.

That does not mean that the United States is not in favor of Arab rights and the Palestinian cause," Muharak said. "On the contrary, the United States is a main element in the peace process, an effective and basic element. But it's political conditions that make them do that."

Asked if he had a message for Prime Minister Bioyamin Netanyahu, he said he would tell him peace was worth any coocessions and extremism would ooly add to violeoce io the

"I said this to [former prime ministers] Yitzhak Shamir, Yitzhak Rabin, and Shimon Peres. They understood the matter, perhaps because they had lots of experience," he added.

By RAINE MARCUS

Tel Aviv police are investigating several complaints against two companies that allegedly defrauded potential employees who had applied to them to work

The companies published ads in the Hehrew and Russian press asking for workers who could earn money abroad by transferring vehicles from country to country in Europe. The potential mooey for a one-way plane ticket, and were promised their return air fares, plus $1,000 for each vehicle moved from one advertised in a Russian newspaper. Potential employees came to the company's Tel Aviv offices, signed contracts and paid the one-

The first firm, Eurocompany,

European country to another.

Prisoners of Zion recognized

Knesset Speaker Dan Tichon presents a certificate to Hila Sa'ada in bonor of her busband, who was killed for his involvement in Zionist activities in Yemen. He was one of 150 martyrs and Prisoners of Zion from a variety of countries who were commended at a Knesset ceremony yesterday.

PA official: Israel infected Palestinians with AIDS

The centuries-old blood libel levelled at Jews was revived yet again last week at a human-rights forum in Geoeva, when Palestinian representative Nahil Ramlawi accused the "Israeli authorities" of having "infected by injection 300 Palestinian children with the HIV virus during the years of the intifada."

The same charge was printed in late January by the Egyptian daily Al-Ahram. However, it was retract-

But when their dates to leave the country arrived, they returned to the company offices to find that they had closed and the own-

Last Thursday, the fraud squad received several more complaints from people who bad answered

ads placed in the Hebrew press hy

a company calling itself Corvet.

Using the same pitch as Eurocompany, the firm is believed to have collected thou-wishing to work ahroad. When the first departure dates arrived.

however, the workers found that this office, in the oew Tel Aviv

Central Bus Statioo, also had

Police investigating the scams are trying to determine if there is a link between the two bogus

sands of shekels from people

ers had fled ....

ed several days later, Al-Ahram admitted on its front page that the story was completely false.

Responding to Ramlawi's accusation at the session of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, Christian Solidarity International representative David Littman called upon the commission to "challenge manifest antisemitism ... and prepare a declaration from the chair outlawing such racist statements."

Calling the charge "false" and "grotesque," Littman lameoted lances during the day.

scheduled for 11:30 a.m.

By JUDY SIEGEL

The Magen David Adom workers union decided yesterday to postpone a one-hour warning strike of all staffers, scheduled for noon today, to give a chance to talks with Health Minister Yehoshua Matza and Treasury officials. Instead of a full strike, starting at patients unless accompanied by another medic; this will reduce by half the oumber of available ambu-

Mobile intensive care units, which are manned by a

The union had planned to refuse to answer all calls for help at ooon, but decided to postpone the action

because of the meeting to discuss their demands of MDA's national coovention at Ramat Efal this afternoon. The event will be highlighted by the awarding of citations to three MDA teams who saved the lives of a nine-year-old boy severely hurt at a huilding site, a woman seriously wounded in the Bus

No. 26 terror attack in Jerusalem and a Bnei Brak

Although MDA staffers have not been invited to attend the gathering, which the union says is of an "irrelevant body," they will send representatives to yeshiva student who was electrocuted.

paramedic and physician, will function oormally.

The strike was to have coincided with the ope

p.m. today, no amhulance driver/medic will take

"the foul accusations, ... [which were] followed so tragically albeit in a different context - hy the cold-blooded shonting of Israeli schoolgirls by a demented Jordanian soldier, who would probably have believed every single word of hatred pronounced three days ago." The Israeli representative to the commission, Yosef Landan, urged the president of the 53rd Session of the Commission on Human Rights to expose the "hideous libel" and cease to take Ramawi seriously.

MDA workers postpone strike

MDA event.

well-trained technique of the 'hig lie," Lamdan wrote in a letter to the president.

In his speech, Littman reminded the commission that this was oot the first time such libels were produced against Israel. In 1983, then-chairman of the PLO Yasser Arafat accused Israel of "poisoning Palestinian schoolgiris" in a letter addressed to the UN secretary-general, a charge later confirmed as false by a team of independent medical experts.

hold protest signs. Union head Eli Ben-Khassous called on members to behave with restraint at the Future plans regarding sanctions will be decided after the union meeting with Health and Finance Ministry officials. Workers at MDA - the first-aid, ambulance and blood-supply organization - have been begging for the last five years for a medic to

Because of severe budgetary constraints, the organization came under the aegis of the Health Ministry and is subject to orders from the Finance Ministry.

This resulted in the closing of ambulance stations, renting them out to private interests and establishing mere ambulance start-off points in most towns and young volunteers to accompany medic drivers

(except for in Jerusalem), and when out on a call, the drivers have to worry about traffic while the patient is alone in the back. MDA workers are demanding not only that every ambulance be manned by an extra medic, but also the special duty pay received by hospital workers and an allotment for dangerous duty,

such as evacuation of injured at chemical installations. The Treasury has so far refused these demands, even though Fire Service workers do receive this

This severely reduced the facilities for absorbing accompany ambulance drivers during their rounds.

Kisangani firmly in rebel hands

KISANGANI - The center of Zaire's third largest city of Kisangani was calin and in rebel hands yesterday after government troops fled.

There was no gunfire yesterday evening and scores of rebel sol-diers patrolled the airport near the Rebels celebrated their higgest victory after taking Kisangani and vowed to pursue government troops and foreign mercenaries fleeing westwards.

"We are advancing even beyond Kisangani in all the directions that the enemy has taken in retreat," rebel information chief Raphael Ghenda told reporters in Goma, capital of the rebel-held east.

Now that Zairian rebels have seized their greatest prize so far in the six-month civil war. UN Secretary General Knfi Annan is hoping they will soon be ready to accept UN call for a cease-fire and talks with the Zairian government. But there was no immediate indicatioo that rebel leader Laurent Kabila was ready to accept a cease-fire despite the capture of Kisangani.

The Security Council bas urged Kabila to accept a cease-fire and begin talks based on the five-point

UN peace plan.
There has been the suspicion that after Kisangani, they may be ready for talks." Annan said after meeting with senior staff at UN headquarters.

Annan conferred by telephone with his special envoy, Mohamed Sahnnun of Algeria, who was meeting with Kahila in the eastern Zairian city of Goma as the rebels were overrunning Kisangani.

The Tutsi-led rebels who began their fight five months ago now control about one-fifth of the vast

Central African nation. Ghenda said forces of the Alliance of Democratic Forces for the Liberation of Congo-Zaire had crossed to the west bank of the hroad Zaire river at Kisangani, to which remnants of the defending Zairean force fied after Saturday's Rebels encountered pockets of resistance yesterday morning from mainly Serb mercenaries but have now cleared the town, according to a senior aid official.

Residents reported few casualties before or after the rebels marched into town. "I didn't see any dead and wounded. It was a peaceful takeover within central Kisangani, said hntel worker Pele Lesondia. The rebels, advancing on several fronts, said they were aiming next for the southern mining hub of Luhumbashi. But the ultimate goal was Kinshasa, Zaire's capital. Lubumhashi is the next big target...hut all the towns of the josti j

Te au

7 7

He. :

has seen

0. The 1.

icate is a

200 213

2 100

republic are targets including Kinshasa itself," Ghenda said. Luhumbashi, Zaire's second largest city, is the capital of Shaba. region and has long been a centre for opposition to Mobutu, who has ruled since seizing power in 1965;

Clinton-Yeltsin summit delayed a day

WASHINGTON (Reoter) -President Bill Clinton and Russian President Boris Yeltsin will delay a Helsinki summit hy one day this week to give Clinton more time to recuperate from emergency knee surgery, the White House said yes-

Spokesman David Johnson said the postponement was worked out by Clinton and Yeltsin aides "over last night and this morning" to give the US president "another day to get ready" for his talks with Yeltsin on NATO expansion and In order to provide the president with an additional day to recuper-President Clinton and President Yeltsin have agreed to delay the start of the summit in Helsinki by one day," Johnson said.

from Bethesda National Navy Medical Centre just before midday yesterday, will leave Washington late on Wednesday March 19 and arrive in Helsinki midday Thursday for two days of talks with the Russian leader.

A Clinton visit to Denmark that had been planned for after the summit will be rescheduled for July, Johnson said.

The White Honse had first said

delaying or significantly altering Clintoo's plans for the summit with Yeltsin, whose own health has been more of a concern than that of Clinton's. "We took a look at the schedule."

and just decided it would be better to delay it hy one day," Johnson:

Clinton tore a teodon in his right. knee in a accident on Friday when he lost his footing on a step at the; Florida home of Australian wiff-professional Greg Norman He underwent surgery the same day.

The two presidents were to shart their summit with a working tim-ner in the Finnish capital and hold the bulk of their talks the next day at the secluded seaside residence of Finnish President Martin Ahtisaari.

Johnson said that ti announced schedule would remain essentially the same. "There might be some trimming here and adding there, but it's essentially the same schedule," he said.

In addition to NATO expansion Clinton and Yeltsin were to focus on arms cnotrol and Russia's transformation to a market econo-

A US official said Clinton would pass along US ideas for structural there had been no discussion of and legal reforms in Russia.

Would you buy a car if it was on sale

Police probing two fly-by-night car firms

but you didn't know how to drive?

Would you buy a house if it was pretty but you worked 200 kilometers away?

just because the prospectus sounded good?

Purchasing for your portfolio is no different than any other major purchase in your life. Before you buy, consider whether you can really use your purchase. Do you need immediate income or long-term growth? Can you take a risk for higher profits or must your investments be safe and steady? Will financial needs like retirement or university tuitioo soon be a part of your life?

Bring your financial shopping list to CommStock and let our experienced portfollo planners use their expertise to help you find best buys oo the market. For a consultation with no abligation, please call Douglas Goldstein at our Jerusalem office, (02) 624-4963.

COMMSTOCK

EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO SUCCEED

CommStock Trading Ltd. (Est. 1981) Futures, Options, and Stock Brokers Jerusalem: City Tower, 34 Ben Yehuda St. Tel. 02-624-4963; Fax. 02-625-9515 Ramat Gan: Beit Silver, 7 Abba Hillel St. Tel. 03-575-8826/27; Fax. 03-575-6990

rail: commstock@pobox.com http://www.commstock.co.i

The National Insurance Institute Serves You All the Way

additional pay.

New Service for Non-Salaried workers Advances on Nil Payments by Standing Bank Order

As part of our endeavors to improve services, non-salaried workers may now pay advances on their NII dues by a standing bank order. For your convenience, payments will be deducted from your account on the date fixed by law.

This will save you unnecessary expense and inconvenience. Forms for standing orders will be sent to the self-employed within the next few days. Those who are not salaried and not self-employed can obtain forms at their nearest post office.

There will be a hot line for questions on the subject today, Monday, March 17 and tomorrow Tuesday, March 18 from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. Please call 177-022-3141.

Peru terrorists allege army offensive

rebel movement holding 72 VIPs claimed yesterday the army was "engaged in a major operation" in flush the guerrillas out of their jungle strongholds despite talks to end the hostage siege peaceful-senior Tupac Amaru Revolutionary Movement (MRTA) leader said the army was deploying more than 500 soldiers to sweep through the central jungle provinces of Oxapampa and Chanchamayo in a hid deactivate the group's military hases.

"The army has engaged in a major operation looking for our camps," Comrade Alejandro, who identified himself as a member of the MRTA's high-command, or policy-making body, said in a communication from the jungle county of Junin. The army denies there is any military operation. But local media has reported several MRTA captures over the last two

LIMA (Reuter) - The Marxist weeks in the central jungle - the ebel movement holding 72 VIPs only area where the MRTA has a permanent armed presence.

Alejandro said that during the operation, which started in early March, there have been three incidents of distant gunfire exchanges between the rebels and

The MRTA's fighters, who number no more than 200 according to analysts, usually clash with the army on average once a month in the area, he added.

The army had not captured any rebels io the operation, but had detained village peasants alleging they were members of the MRTA. he claimed. "They want to find. our camps but the only thing they are doing is detaining peasants, he said.

Comrade Alejandro claimed the army's action was in response to a series of Reuters reports late February about MRTA training and peasant collaboration in the central jungle.

Violinist Joseph Fuchs dies at 97

NEW YORK (AP) – American violinist Joseph Fuchs, a teacher at the Juilliard School of Music and performer who remained before the musical public longer than any violinist in history, has died of cardiac arrest, his daughter said. He was 97.

Fuchs died at his Manhattan apartment Friday, his daughter Elinor

Fuchs, who was born in New York City April 26, 1899, played violing with a vigorous, large-scaled style, a masterful technique and a rick, warm, tone. He also was praised for his interpretive power and musical After graduating from the School of Musical Art, now the Iniliard

School, and studying with Franz Kneisel, who knew Braining Pichs became concertmaster of the Cleveland Orchestra in 1926. He resigned in 1940 to pursue a solo career. During World War II he

Musalem Pos

Algeria who Kabla in the each tions as the idea and kisangani

ded rebels who best in the months ago by

the months ago by

and one-fifth of the ig nation. Pernocratic Forces for e west psuk of the alver at Kisangan es of the defend te fled after Samuel countered pockets mercenaries but he town, accoming seponed few carely didn't see an be It was a people thin central Kiomen under Pele Lessula advancing on sea some But the above the towns of e targets made Mett, Ghende Ric is the capital of far thes long been a :

ecizing power in the plans for the Where Arm a look at the scal Company of the Control by our day, in tore a tenant nate meistern en France formular avera er of Australian Circa Strain a properdense were de Pinni harra all the the said of the term Mark Service 1882 President VI THE RESERVE THE TANK THE TANK to the same of the same be say eonimi and Ru mantice to a market est col stated by telephone

On the road to nowhere The initial half hour of Lost Highway, David Lynch's latest plunge into the great pulp unconscious, seems to promise a mellowing of the director's usual revved-up tone: there's no sudden cardiac arrest like the one that of Congo Zaire opened Blue Velvet, or brutal murder as in the first scene of Wild ar

LOST HIGHWAY

MOVIE REVIEW

★1/2 Directed by David Lynch Written by David Lynch and Barry Gifford. Hebrew title: Kvish Avud. 140 minutes. English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Children under 17 not admitted without an adult. With Bill Pullman, Patricia Arquette, Balthazar Getty, Robert Blake, Robert Loggia, Gary Busey and Richard Pryor Heart. Instead, he huilds bis creepy-crawly atmosphere in near silence, panning around the cool, flat exterior and sparsely furnished living room of an almost windowless bungalow in what appears to be the Hollywood Hills.

Inside, an agitated-looking man (Bill Pullman) sucks on a cigarene, then exchanges a few coded words catch a shivery glimpse of somewith his nervous wife (Patricia Arquette), a smoothly pretty, onlyin-the-movies kind of girl, who wears a silky dressing gown, a smudge of red lipstick and dark china-doll bangs cut in a straight line across her pale forehead. What is going on? Who are these people? Because the director is so exacting with his imagery (in Lynch's hands, even the retro-suburban couch and chairs exude a peculiar menace) we trust that he is in control and is just waiting for the right moment to let us in on the mystery. Visually and in terms of sly, suspense-building tools, Lost Highway borrows from Hitchcock

Vertigo, Psycho and Rear Window come to mind - and one finds oneself watching the film with the heightened awareness that those tantly, wrought movies demand, scanning the corners of the screeo for carefully placed clues about the characters' identity about the significance of the wife's hlack nail polish. The camera zooms in with flourish oo her painted fingertips as they dig into her husband's bare back, and it lingers on this picture for what feels like ages. Aside from playing his usual perspective-warping games, Lynch seems to want us to

We may wonder, for example,

thing dark and twisted about the woman.... Or maybe he doesn't. As always with his work, one may feel a bit foolish and overliteral as one tries to string the lurid details together into some logical sequence, or a meaningful emotional pattern. Perhaps he intends something in old-fashioned, hintdropping narrative terms by this camera angle, but there is, too, always the strong possibility that he's toying with us, throwing us such deliberately freaky scraps just for the hell of it, as a means of creating a random, wacked-out tex-

A complete recounting of the corkscrew twists and turns of plot that follows is difficult. Suffice it to say that Arquette's character seems to be murdered in a brutal fashion by her husband, but the actress turns up later as a blonde femme famle; meanwhile, Pullman's character, sentenced to the electric chair, is plagued by a series of hallucination-induciog headaches, then disappears mysteriously from death row and is replaced in his cell by a dazed young mechanic, played by Balthazar Getty, who soon hooks up with Arquette's fairhaired vamp....

But summary is pointless, too, and rather maddening, because as the movie goes on it becomes

Patricia Arquette and Balthazar Getty share a few coded words.

Lynch nor his co-writer Barry Gifford gives a hoot whether the story makes the slightest sense; neither do they invest the film's irrational side with the force that - Lynch and Gifford believed that a might justify such sloppiness. (Lynch is no Luis Bunuel) The weirder things get, the more the movie suggests an especially aim-less episode of The Twilight Zone and, in the end, it all turns out to have been one long, strangely humorless tease. We never figure out why or even how the characters Highway is just a bad trip.

increasingly clear that neither do what they do; they just do it, like a group of stylishly dressed zom-bies with telekenetic powers.

Worse still, the script's illogic appears to be deliberate, as though confusing storyline were part and parcel of the film's psychological truth, or that the more impenetrable a character's actions, the deeper and more profound. Perhaps diehard Lynch fans will see more going on beneath the surface here; for the non-initiate, however, Lost

of the muse

Accountant replaces parents

Home Alone star Macaulay Culkin can use some of his $17 million fortune to keep his family from homelessness, a judge ruled Tuesday. State Supreme Court Justice David Saxe also removed the young actor's warring parents as guardians of his property and replaced them with Macaulay's choice, his longtime accountant Billy D. Breitner.

Culkin, reportedly the highest-paid child actor in history, earned up to $8 million a movie after starring in Home Alone at age 10 in 1990. Most of a child star's earnings are protected in accounts that usually can be tapped only by court order.

The Pryce of villainy

British actor Jonathan Pryce, last seen as Juan Peron in Evita will play the villain, a power-crazed mogul, in the 18th James Bond movie, otled Tomorrow Never Dies, filmmaker Eoo Productions announced Monday. The movie, with a $56 million budget, has begun filming outside London. It will be released at Christmas and stars Pierce Brosnan as 007 and Michelle Yeoh, a product of London's Royal Academy of Dance, as his beautiful

In love with the rebbetzin

A new YiddiShpiel (formerly the Israel Yiddish Theater) production of Morris Schwartz's adaptation of I.Y. Singer's celebrated romantic novel Yoshe Kalb opens March 29 at ZOA House in Tel Aviv. It's the sad, comical tale of Nahumtche, nicknamed Yossi the Calf (Itzik Atzmon), who falls in love with his rabhi's new wife. The hig complication is that he's married to the rabbi's daughter. Yoshe Kalb was first produced at Schwartz's famed New York Yiddish theater in the '20s. Here the show was done both at the Ohel, with Schwartz as the rabbi, and then at Habimah in Hebrew. YiddiShpiel founder and artistic director Shmuel Atzmon reports that the first three shows are sold out.

International women

"Women Speak and Write Peace" is a three-day regional conference, the first of its kind, to be held at the Suzanne Dellal Center in Tel Aviv, March 25 through 27. So far there are some 80 participants with 30 coming from ahroad, including representatives from Morocco, Egypt, Cyprus, Turkey, Greece and Italy. The conference aims to examine the status of women authors, poets, playwrights, screenwriters and so on.

Municipal arts department head Dr. Shosh Avigal, playwright Miriam Kainey and former Meretz head Shulamit Aloni are among the organizers and speakers. Helen Kaye

Germans focus on Israel

The Focus Israel Festival which was held recently io Würzburg, Germany, featured numerous works by Israeli composers performed by local German musicians. Among the composers whose work was performed at the festival were Zvi Avni, Ari Ben-Shabtai, Yinam Leef, Menahem Tzur, Mark Kopytman, Haim Alexander, Menahem Wiesenberg, Betti Olivero and Oded Zehavi. There are talks about organizing a reciprocal festival in Jerusalem.

Michael Ajzenstadt

Dana and Anna win big Two young women were declared the winners at the recent 21st François Shapira Competition for Young Musicians at the Tel Aviv Museum. The annual event is organized by the America

Israel Cultural Foundation. In the vocal/brass/recorder division the winner was 28-year-old Israeli-born soprano Dana Giazer who sang in the final round two very difficult arias by Verdi. In the piano division the winner was Anna Kaiserman, 24, who was born in the former Soviet Union and immigrated to Israel at the age of four. In the final round she played Mozart's 27th Piano Michael Ajzenstadt

Short plays at Tzavta

The first Short Play Festival gets underway at Tzavta Tel Aviv on April-3 and 4. There are nine plays from five to 30 minutes each, most of them written by established playwrights such as Yehoshua Sobol, Miriam Kainey and Gilad Evron. The festival is the idea of actor Shalom Shmuelov.

Kingdom's subjects

By HELEN KAYE

ast time British actor Bob Kingdom was here five years dago, he performed Dylan Thomas: the Return Journey, his one-man show about the great Welsh poet who played with language like a child with sunbeams, and drank himself to death at only 39.

He's coming back March 27 through April 6 with that same show, and with The Truman Capote

Bob Kingdom as the poet Dylan Thomas

Talk Show. It chronicles the meteoric rise and fall of the American icoooclast who wrote In Cold Blood and Breakfast at Tiffany's and died at 59, destroyed by alcohol and drugs.

"I'm fascinated by people who are born with gifts," says Kingdom over the phone from his London borbe, his own way with words in full cry. "You spend years working innocently in tandem with the Giver of the gift, with God, and then you become feted and fated. The ego takes over, telling you that it's you and you alone that have done this. Then that channel [through which the gift flowed] dries up because of the destruction caused by the drink or the drugs." When Kingdom plays Thomas, he looks like his double. The same is true when he does Capote. Even the lines of his face change subtly. He likes that, saying, "I'm attracted by people whom I look like and can become, whom I can inhabit. There's a spiritual logic in that, as though fate is giving me permission to do these people."

It's a coincidence that both men were self-destructive, he observes, because after all "the addictive personality is part of the human condition. Yet apart from the cultural differences both had a cynicism and a dryness to them. I think that the gifted, creative person despises those be creates for. Capote despised all the beautiful people that hung around him.".

A Welshman himself, and a lover of language like both his alter egos, Kingdom started with Dylan Thomas at pub theaters in London and then took it to the Edinburgh Festival in 1985 where it got raves from critics and andiences. He's been performing the show all over the world ever since, and added Capote about four years ago.

Critics talk about how character and actor seem to merge, yet Kingdom is firmly in control in a interview five years ago, he said of Thomas that "if he took over my life, I'd stop doing him.... I love being me." He's stoutish, curly-haired, has a bit of a double chin and became an actor by accident. Certainly he's never had the reliable career with a pension at the end of it that his parents wanted for him. He grew up in Cardiff, left school at 15 and evenmally landed up working at an ad agency near London where his gift for graphics landed him a design job which developed into art direction and copywriting. He also wrote and performed satirical skits for the BBC Welsh Service, but his acting career really began with impressions at parties. The show on Thomas had its genesis there. It's directed by Kingdom's friend and fellow Welshman, Sir Anthony Hopkins. Capote is directed by Kevin Knight. Dylan Thomas quotes the poet's letters, prose and the poetry of course. Talk Show "is all mine, except for quotes from TV shows. The Capote estate wouldn't let me use any quotes [from the books] or other sources, and I'm glad because otherwise I wouldn't have come up with such a good show."

He is performing both plays on separate evenings in Jerusalem, Tel Aviv and Haifa. Rehovot, Kfar Sava, and Beit Gabriel on the Kinneret will get only the Thomas show, and the Capote piece will be performed at Ben-Gurioo University in Beersheba.

Nearly 18 months since Jerry Garcia (center) died, the Grateful Dead remain popular.

Remembering Jerry Garcia

ometimes you get shown the light in the strangest of places if you look at it right. That's the mantra of the Deadheads, the Grateful Dead fanatics who, 18 months after lead singer and guitar wizard Jerry Garcia's death, still adore the oow-defunct band.

This Purim, there will be another chance for Deadheads to see the light, and for novices to discover the psychedelic hoopla. A Grateful Dead Purim video party will take place on Sunday, March 23, at 10 p.m. at the Tel Aviv Cinematheoue.

For the more than 500 Deadheads who converged from around the country on Tel Aviv for the last Dead video night in August 1996, the event was a flashback to a real Dead concert.

"People who knew the Dead told me that it was the next best thing to being at a real concert, and those who had oever seen the Dead said, 'Now I know what you're talking about," says the organizer of the event, author, journalist and radio personality Uri Lotan. He promises the same high-quality wide screen, superb concertquality sound system and good vibes this time

The highlight will be a tape from a 1987 New Year's Eve performance in California, traditionally a high point of the band's concert season. Founder of a weekly Dead-based radio show, Lotan says he puts on the video mights for love and for fun. His radio program has been broadcast on Army Radio and Kol Haderech, but is currently betweeo stations.

"I barely cover my expenses," he said. "I just enjoy bringing everyone together. What impressed me was the cross-section of people who showed up. Kibhutzniks, people with kippot, eveo a Habadnik." And of course wherever there's a Dead happening, there are expat Americans.

In the US, the band's organization cootinues to release live CDs from various shows at regular intervals, the Internet is full of Dead-related sites and chat lines, and a minor cottage industry in Jerry Garcia books has sprung up. Despite the less-than-flower-child image that has emerged of Garcia's years of drug abuse, and a nasty public battle over his fortune between his widow and his ex-wives, most Deadheads are concerned only with the music. "The legend and myth grow and grow," says

Lotan. The [countless bootleg audio and video] tapes will always be around. This is not the last we've heard of the Grateful Dead."

Tickets for the video night are available from the Cinematheque box office at (03) 691-7181. Be forewarned that, ast year's show sold out.

An incredible journey to the lost empire of the Khazars

By MICHAEL AJZENSTADT

year and half ago, Ehud Ya'ari, Israeli Television's Leading authority on Middle Eastern matters, was about to miss a momentous event: Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk Shara was going to speak for the first time to Israeli correspondents. "I was in Crimea at the time... When I told [US peace team coordinator] Dennis Ross and [US Ambassador to Israel] Martin Indyk that it would have been all right with me to miss it, they thought I was

Why was Ya'ari willing to miss such an exceptional event and what was he doing in Crimea?

For several years Ya'ari has been working on a documentary about the kingdom of the Khazars, the legendary Jewish kingdom of horsemen in the Caucasus which existed in the latter part of the first millermium. The result of this ongoing journey will be seen on Channel 1 in The Kingdom of the Khazars three one-hour episodes starting tonight and continuing nightly through Wednesday at 10 p.m. The series is the realization of a childhood dream. "As a child I heard that our family has some Khazarian blood and for 30 years now I have been trying to find information about this exciting subject." Before the collapse of communist regimes in Eastern Europe, it was virtually impossible to get information. "Stalin even forbade studying this topic altogether and there was an ongoing effort to rub out all evidence of the existence of the Khazars."

Ya'an, 52, explains that the "Khazarian kingdom was the first actual state that existed in Eastern Europe. The Russians were probably ashamed that actual Jewish kings existed on Mother Russia's soil. "We Jews somehow disregarded school curriculum and not even one university professor has studied them. It seems that even the Jews all over the world were not sure if the Khazars were characters of them too. They do not exist in the reality or of a fictional myth. But kings reigned. We also discovered Pharaohs in the Pyramids."

Ehud Ya'ari realizes a childbood dream.

from 740 to 970 they had the their fortress city Sarkel which stretching from the mountains of the Urals to Hungary." Ya'ari set out to film this lost chapter in Jewish history as a documentary adventure for television. Out of the 120 hours of footage recorded by his cameras, three will eventually reach the screen. "For three years we traveled in the we needed to use bribery to get information, and there were occasions in which we needed to trick people in order to see things. It is all captured on camera."

In this exciting journey of discovery Ya'ari and his crew came across the golden treasure of the Khazars, including jewelry and artifacts, Jewish tombstones and Torah scrolls. "I believe we reached the actual remains of the legendary capital Itil where the largest kingdom in the world, Stalin drowned in an artificial lake. We found golden jewelry hidden in matchboxes in stinking cellars."

Ehud Ya'ari sees himself as "a soldier in the last battle of the Khazar kingdom, a battle for the right to be remembered." He hopes that, following the screening of his documentary this week, and its eventual broadcast by TV stations remotest parts of the world in the abroad, "someone will arrange for Caucasus and in Ukraine. At times a major exhibition of these treasures to be presented in museums in Israel and all over the world. I also hope for an extensive academic symposium on the topic.

"And finally I would like to secure funds to continue excavations in several places which looked quite promising. My sexiest dream is to find the actual tomb of one of the Khazar kings. I believe that if we achieve that it will be as important at least as the discovery of Troy or of the treasures of the

SEEIT IN HEBREW-HEAR IT IN ENGLISH!

TWELFTH NIGHT March 18 at 8:30 part

The Cameris new production of Shakespeare's amorous comedy anysterical love triangle between a man, woman and teenage boy.

THE INSPECTOR GENERAL

March 25 at 8 30 p.m.

Gogol's famous satire transported to a small southern Israeli town, where identities are instaken and corrupt officials convergent.

"An explosion of laughter." Ma'ariv
"Stinging wit, sool isticated script, highly polished performances, and imposing direction."

The Jenssuen Post.

BOX OFFICE 03-523-3335 FAX: 03-523-0172
SUBSCRIPTIONS: 03-524-5211

The Camer Treater can now be found on the internet (Address as internet) filto www.camer virtual.co.il

Located in the bear of its Aviv on lively Dizengoff Street, the Camer is just a few minutes walk from bear of its instanted.

THE ACTURE Example Easily accessible by one of taxi

The Best of Israeli Theatre, with simultaneous translation into English every Tuesday night

THE JERUSALEM

F. DAVID RADLER Chairman, Board of Directors YEHUDA LEVY, President & Publisher

Founded in 1932 by GERSHON AGRON

JEFF BARAK, Editor CARL SCHRAG, Managing Editor AMOTZ ASA-EL, Associate Editor, Business DAVID BRINN, News Editor ELIOT ZIMELMAN, Night Editor LEORA EREN FRUCHT, Features Editor THOMAS O'OWYER, Foreign Editor JUDY MONTAGU, Op-Ed Editor

AVI GOLAN, Executive Vice President, Marketing & Advertising PAUL STASZEWSKI, CPA, Vice President, Finance YOSSI HORN, Vice President, Production

BENZION MILLER, Tel Aviv Office Manager

EDITORIAL OFFICES AND ADMINISTRATION The Jernsalem Post Building, P.O. Box 81, Romema, Jerusalem 91000 Telephone 02-531-5666, Fax 02-538-9527. CIRCULATION— 02-531-5610. Fax 02-538-9017. ADVERTISING - 02-531-5608, 02-531-3637-40 Fax 02-538-8408. TEL AVIV: 5 Rehov Hamasger, POB 28398 (61283) Telephone 03-6390333, Fax 6390277. HAIFA 20 Nordau, Hadar Hacarmel, Telephone 04-8623166, Published daily except Saturday, in Jerusalem, Israel by The Palestine Post Lat. Printed by The Jerusalem Post Press in Jerusalem. Registered at the G.P.O. © The Jerusalem Post 1997, Reproduction, or storage in a retrieval system, or in any other form, is prohibited without permission. Editors: 1932-1955 GERSHON AGRON, 1955-1974 TED LURIE, 1974-1975 LEA BEN-DOR, 1975-1989 ARI RATH and ERWIN FRENKEL, 1990-1992 N. DAVID GROSS. 1992-1996 DAVID BAR-ILLAN INTERNET EDITION: http://www.ipost.co.il . General E-mail: ipedt@jpost.co.il Editorial E-mail:editors@jpost.co.il

Studies in contrasts

The Middle East is a region of striking jux- are unacceptable. tapositions, but seldom are they as sbarply contrasted as those surrounding the moving condolence visit of King Hussein bere yesterday.

On the one hand, the king's gesture, at once grand and humble, in the wake of the terrible massacre of seven schoolgirls by one of his country's soldiers. On the other, the freezing of the peace process by the Palestinians, coupled with a looming threat of violence if and when building begins on Jerusalem's Har Homa.

This is not the king's first visit to Israel, but in terms of the significance for the relationship between the two peoples, no visit from an Arab leader has had such an impact since that of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat almost twenty years ago. Sadat's visit broke through the seemingly impenetrable wall between the Arab world and Israel; King Hussein's visit was a rescue mission with two aims: To restore the faith of Israelis in the peace with Jordan, and to break the crisis in Palestinian-Israeli relations.

The contrast with a similar incident in 1985, in which an Egyptian border policeman gunned down seven Israeli tourists at Ras Bourka in the Sinai, is striking. No Egyptian leader came to offer condolences at that time, and Israeli interest in traveling to Egypt and bopes for a warmer peace plummeted. Egypt, in effect, did nothing to remove the bitter taste left by the incident, uncorrected, and the peace with Egypt has never fully recovered. One could even contrast it with the behavior of our own leaders: Though Israeli officials condemned and expressed borror at the massacre committed in Hebron by Baruch Goldstein, no leader visited grieving Palestinian

But the singularity of Hussein's gesture cannot totally blot out Palestinian Authority Chairman Yasser Arafat's continued efforts to foster a crisis atmosphere.

Though Arafat bas not yet come straight out and advocated a violent response to the planned construction at Har Homa, his continued vitriol finally snapped something in Justice Minister Tzahi Hanegbi, who threatened that Arafat personally could suffer Israeli retribution if Palestinians got into a shooting war with the IDF.

The Hanegbi outburst, besides being undiplomatic to the point of thuggishness, was just the excuse the Palestinians needed to claim that it is not they, but Israel, who is threatening violence. that threats against the Palestinian leadership breaks down.

That said, the Gaza conference arranged this weekend by Arafat "to save the peace process' actually poured oil on the fire. Arafat himself refused to reject violence as an option, saying the "Palestinian masses" will decide their own response to Israeli actions. Other Palestinian leaders were even more blunt.

"I think the peace process is finished with this government," PA cabinet secretary Ahmed Abde!-Rahman said. "The Israeli government is ignoring its own security services' warnings of violence if they send bulldozers to Har Homa. Netanyahu's statements, his ministers' statements, destroy peace, and if there is no peace there will be war.

In response to these threats, there is a deafening silence from the one element that could make the critical difference in preventing violence: the United States. The US bas come out publicly and unequivocally against Israel's decision to build on Har Homa, its veto of the UN Security Council resolution on the matter notwithstanding. Regarding Palestinian threats of violence, however, the US has not taken as vocal a stance.

After the Naharayim massacre, President Clinton repeated America's generic rejection of violence. But no specific Palestinian statement has been criticized, and the US participation in Arafat's overblown weekend "briefing" - as US Ambassador Martin Indyk preferred to call it could well be taken as a sign of sympathy for Palestinian grievances.

The American silence is mystifying. Presumably, the US does not want to be seen as automatically taking Israel's side in any dispute. But the desire to avoid violence is not some Israeli idiosyncrasy - it is a fundamental building block of the peace process. There can be no worse violation of not only the spirit, but the letter of Oslo than resorting to violence, and no violation could be more dangerous to the very survival of the peace process.

It is understandable that the US might want Israel to show some flexibility in alleviating Palestinian concerns. Reportedly, a "package deal" to resolve some of the issues is in the offing, the result of the telephone consultation yesterday between Hussein, Netanyahu and Arafat. But for its part, the US must state clearly that threats of violence are a severe violation of the Oslo Accords, and whoever makes them Netanyahu should bave immediately made clear will be held responsible if the peace process

Walking the plank

AARON LERNER

o what's Israel going to do next as a confidence-building measure? Release some more murderers? Delay construction on Har Homa indefinitely? Double the extent of redeploy-

Allies and enemies alike are waiting for the prime minister to announce the next round of CBMs. After all, could King Hussein leave Israel empty-handed after visiting the families of the

Any normal leader would be demanding confidence-building measures from Arafat girls his soldier murdered? And Yasser Arafat? He certainly deserves compensation for our refusal to withdraw from 30 percent of the West Bank this round. That's just for starters. If the bulldozers start plowing on Har Homa and the Palestinians don't react "too sharply," the pressure will be on for a really special Israeli CBM.

But... if anyone ought to have lost confidence in the peace process by now, it's Israel. Which means it's time for some serious Palestinian confidence-building

This isn't a cynical joke - it's what any normal country would be demanding today. And for good

Confidence in the Palestinians and the Palestinian Authority is non-existent. They are preparing for war, not peace.

Bad enough that they have yet to take serious measures to collect illegal weapons and close down the militias; the PA itself is believed to be behind the smugrifles to anti-tank missiles and And its official incitement has been so successful that a stunning 41 percent of Palestinians in Jerusalem, Hebron and Bethlehem surveyed last week by The Palestinian Center for Public Opinion "favor suicidal attacks against Israeli targets." We bave lost confidence in America because of its cavalier attitude toward our genuine security concerns. Not only does the US ignore serious Palestinian security violations, President

Clinton had the gall last week to suggest that Israel drop its legiti-mate demands for security control of the Palestinian airport and seaport [firmly established in Oslo 2] as a "gesture" to the Palestinians. This isn't a matter of honor. If Israel doesn't control movement through the ports, the Palestinians will be able to bring anyone and anything into their state-in-themaking.

WITHOUT Palestinian CBMs, Israel has no reason to continue with what has turned into a "walking-the-plank process."

In what looks like a dress rehearsal for the impasse expected in the final status negotiations, the Palestinians have embarked on a PR extravaganza, drawing support from both the Arab and Western worlds to pressure Israel for concessions. And the world is playing Forget about what is actually written in the agreements. Arafat isn't happy, and the world is at his

So instead of telling the ra'is to stop his oblique threats of violence and his stories about Har Homa (where he claims the Jews plan a copy of Bethlehem to dupe the tourists) and about tunnels under the Temple Mount (to bring the Dome of the Rock tumbling down, to be replaced by a Third gling in of everything from assault Temple), Clinton nods patiently Dry Bones and glares at Israel.

"Only Israel can give, while the Palestinians can only take" was the opening negotiating position of Shimon Peres et. al. But today, thanks to the peace process, the Palestinians have much to give Israel: terrorist mnrderers, illegal weapons, and stolen cars, for a start.

Any step in the process - withdrawal, or a transfer of authority increases Israel's reliance on others for its security. But if the world ignores serious Palestinian violations and remains silent in the face of gross misrepresentations of the agreements when Israel still hasn't . conceded everything, we have every reason to expect things to get worse once Israel has nothing left to offer:

The prime minister seems to be taking a defensive posture and hoping for the best. But the result can only be a PR fiasco, inviting more pressure on him to take a few more steps down the plank "to keep the process going." If be were to go on the offensive, coming out and insisting on Palestinian confidence-building measures as a precondition for further progress, then maybe just maybe - this walk-the-plank process could turn into a true peace process.

The writer directs IMRA. (Independent Media Review &.

Israel would be taking no further.

security risks, and any shortcoming or omission would not make its position "on the ground" any worse than the existing one. On the contrary, we would enjoy now,

Bedfellows – like it or not

ajor stumbling blocks between Israel and the "Palestinians - like Har Homa and Jerusalem - are usually perceived as a "zero-sum game, one side's gain being inevitably the other side's loss. But this need Creative lateral (and multilateral) thinking suggests that a confederation between Israel, Jordan and the Palestinians could accommodate all sides' genuine concerns and interests.

сипепі Jordanian tensions, resulting from King Hussein's need to consider his own East Bank Palestinians -70 percent of his population demonstrate the reality of interdependence between these three players. They are bedfellows whether they like it or not.

The underlining concept, from Israel's viewpoint, would be minimizing further actual "on-theground" concessions while ceding a lot of ground where honor and pride, those cornerstones of Arab culture, are concerned. This would be done mainly by accepting a Palestinian state as an equal partner with Israel and Jordan. Such a state would be constricted by the framework of the confederation, whose powers (in military endeavors, for example) would be laid down by the member states. In other respects, all three member states would remain distinct, like those of the European Union. Although Jordan is ruled by the are Palestinians. The Hashemites and Israel thus share fundamental common interests in restraining perilous Palestinian aspirations. The Israeli-Jordanian majority in the confederate institutions could, while strictly limiting the confederation's scope and powers, safe-

Hashemite clan, most of its subjects

ODED TIRA and RON TIRA

education levels and "kick-starting" the Palestinian - economy. With confederate institutions ensuring the adequate appropriation of budgets, the dominant Palestinian democratic middle class that would emerge could be the key to a genuine peace.

Since Palestinian society is relatively small, and since the Palestinian people's role vis-a-vis responsibility division differing compared with other Arab sociimproved early-warning capabili-ties, and our "defense border" would be pushed further to the east. Moreover, the aided emergence. of an educated, mortgage-paying Palestinian society would be just the kind of structural change that could lead to a viable peace.

Palesimian leadershi would enjoy respectability and bonor, as equals of their Israeli: and Jordanian peers; and the improved economic and social environment would weaken that leadership's prime challengers.

the Moslem fundamentalists. The Palestinian people would prosper from their "Marshall Plan." They would also not be bumiliated. by a "non-state" status, demilitarization (anyway unenforceable), or a total detachment from Jerusalem.

The Hashemites would enjoy Israeli protection against Iraq and Syria, both of which aspire to subjoin Iordan. They would: also gain from the channeling of their Palestinian subjects' national aspirations to the confederate framework, thereby strengthen-

Oded Tira, a former : IDF. brigadier-general, is president of Phoenicia America-Israel. Ron Tira, former head of a section in IAF intelligence, practices corporate law:

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR I

ADOPT THE GENTILE

Sir. - Jews are marrying non-Jews in the Diaspora simply because they become normal and fully accepted citizens of the general society in most of the countries in which they live. As a matter of fact, it is rather amazing that close to 50% of them still manage to marry coreligionists when Jews constitute less than one quarter of 1% of the "pool" of available mates! Chances are, however that this proportion will continue to

If we are concerned about the continuity of Judaism in the Diaspora, the statistic to look at is the percentage of children of mixed couples that remain Jewisb. A determining factor in the decision of which religion to bring up the children will be the way the non-Jew is received by the Jewish family and the Jewish community Basically, Jewish people will have to make a decision when confronted with this kind of situations: Reject the Jew or adopt the Gentile? Conversion is not essential if the non-Jewish parent accepts that the children will receive a Jewish education (and will be converted if the mother is the non-Jew). The essential part, bowever, is the warmth and sincere acceptance extended to the newcomer by the community. Without this, the near disappearance of the Jewish people in the Diaspora will be a classic case of the self-fulfilling prophecy.

Sir, - The Har Homa controver-

Jerusalem

HAIM GLOTTMAN

Elazar. SEMITES

AMUSEMENT PARK

BUZZY GORDON

sy gives us an opportunity to crecessions and so on. ate a community of coexistence, The "Peace Train Park" can be rather than a neighborhood of Jerusalem is conspicuously lacking in permanent recreational areas for its growing and young population. Let us use the site for a mini-amusement park, for the enjoyment of all ethnic groups: Jews - secular and haredi - and Arabs. the main attraction could be a miniature train ride. - aptly named the "peace train" - wending its

Jerusalem.

TWIN PRINCIPLES

Arab policy at its most enlight-ened has been "What's mine is mine, wbai's yours is nego-

And recently Israeli negotiators have waived our legitimate rights in the Sinai in hopes of keeping the West Bank; then in the West Bank, in hopes of keeping the Golan; and then in the Golan, in hopes of keeping way along the picturesque scenery, bearing delighted passengers of all ages. There could also be a miniature golf course,

Jerusalem. Now, the theory is that by waiving our rights to part of Jerusalem rollerblading course, rides, con-planned and financed by both lews and Arabs, in a partnership of the public and private sector. Once this bone of contention is behind us, I am sure we can find other areas to build homes - areas that can be negotiated to avoid any future flashpoints. And those residential developments would never be transformed into symbols of enmity, and never become permanent targets for potential violence or vandalism for years to

Sir. - For 50 years, declared we will keep the rest of it off the negotiating table. But as long as history here is driven by the twin principles that we, as good Jews, cannot claim territory to the exclusion of Arabs, while they, as good Arabs, musi be masters wherever they live, we will lose in negotiations even over the partition of Tel

MARK L. LEVINSON

Herzliya

ZIONIST RELIC

Sir. - There is no question that building on Har Horna contradicts the spirit of the Oslo agreements. And Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu will have to face that contradiction.

The spirit behind Oslo is that Israel of the 1990s is vulnerable to violence and terror in a way that it never was in the past. That spirit has created a political culture that says that if the Arabs want something badly enough to kill Jews (or even to threaten to), then after appropriate hemming and having, we will give it to them. Building on Har Homa seems to be saying that we are prepared to fight that spirit and stand up to terror like some Zionist relic of the 1970s. For some reason I suspect that the prime minister is not up to that task.

ISRAEL PICKHOLTZ

Sir, – Apropos of the Egyptian foreign minister, as reported in TheJerusalem Postof March 9, to the effect that Arabs, hence Egyptians and Palestinians, cannot be antisemites, since they are Semites themselves, see the following secret Nazi order of May 17, 1943: When the Grand Mufti visited Reichsleiter [Alfred] Rosenberg, the Reichsleiter promised to instruct the press that the word 'antisemitism' was henceforth to be abandoned. This term seemed to include the Arab world which, according to the Grand Mufti, was overwhelmingly pro-German. The Allies utilize your use of that term in order to falsely to argue that it is the national socialist intention to view Jews and Arabs in the same light."

ĔMIL L. FACKENHEIM

CAMOUFLAGE WALLS

Sir. - Jon Immanuel in "A different view of Oslo," (March 14), raises yet another dire consequence of Har Homa construction: the resultant buildings will be visible from Bethlehem. Perhaps the walls facing Bethlehem should be camouflaged. Perhaps all the walls in Israel which Arabs can see should be camouflaged so as not to be distressingly visible to them.

FRANCINE FIERSTEIN

guard Israel's essential interests. Choosing Jerusalem as the seat of those institutions would provide Arabs with an honorable attachment to the boly city; yet Israel's sovereignty there would be no more undermined than Belgium's sovereignty in Brussels is compromised by the presence of the EU.

Resembling NATO, confederate

peace supported by three pillars from the political borders. For example, the IDF would have to be exclusively responsible for the entire territory west of the

By ceding ground without creating 'facts'

Israel could draw the Palestinians into a River Jordan, and the Jordanian army would be responsible for territories east of it. Since the Palestinian state would border only Israel and Jordan, its contribution to confederate security could be the deployment of a well-defined force, for instance along the confederate-Saudi border (in a manner non-threatening to both Israel and Jordan). Confederate security arrangements could allow Israel to share intelligence stations, and eventually even assign some army and air force units to the Jordanian-Syrian and Jordanian-Iraqi borders, providing the strategic depth

Israel has always longed for. Another confederate power could be the implementation of a single market and a Palestinian "Marshall Plan" aimed at raising eties, such a plan could be workable, and its cost acceptable. This "Marshall Plan" could also tackle the thorny problem of the Palestinian refugees, rehabilitating them entirely in their current places of residence. Preventing their entry into the territory west of the river could be agreed upon within a demographic status-quo arrangement, in exchange for Israel's agreeing to limit the growth of associated settlement blocks inside Palestinian territory to their natural rate (this would not apply to annexed territories). No peace accord should negate the Zionist ethos. Accordingly, the confederation's constitution would have to recognize Zionism's principal allegiance to the entire historic Land of Israel. Some might even argue that the Palestinian state should, therefore, be binational.

WHY is such a plan both workable and advantageous?

The destabilizing effect of such dishonor cannot be overestimated.

ing their grip on Trans-Jordan. Curiously, the architecture of this innovative plan could revive Jabotinsky's vision of "both banks" of the Jordan River," historically a single geographical and political 100mm -$100mm -

200

Second

 $\mathfrak{t}_{\overline{a}} \, \underline{b}_{\overline{a}, \underline{b}, \underline{b}_{\overline{a}}}$

7ged 157

 $\delta \eta_{\overline{Q}}|_{\mathbb{S}_{+}^{p_{1}}(\Delta)}$

 $\eta_{\theta_{0}^{*}(x)}|_{W_{0}}$

te shear

ر الارتاط الارتاط الارتاط

. . .

Detailers:

White its

17.4-

5740-4, 55

fieal:

ligation Con-

ung.

Cor.

Bright lights and bitter music

Te are a nation of parents who bury their children, the victims of wars, accidents, suicides, and terror. Last Thursday another seven joined the brigades that lie silent under

It is exactly two years since I lost my daughter; for seven new pairs of parents, the dismal count is just starting. In the end, each person is left with his private grief, with the specific circumstances of his child's death, and with the need to go on. The dignified, touching - and immediate - response of King Hussein and Crown Prince Hassan to Thursday's attack by a Jordanian soldier, and its concrete expression in the king's visit here yesterday, needs no comment. If there is "insanity" in the Hashemite dynasty, as a senior Israeli official apparently told twn foreign journalists, may it flourish in our region.

Among our ministers, the one who seemed most to match the Hashemite brothers' dignity was Delense Minister Mordechai. The more I observe

SUSAN HATTIS ROLEF

this rugged, grim-faced former general, the more I feel that of all Likud leaders, he is the one I would most welcome as prime minister. And I have a sneaking feeling that the Arab leaders would welcome

In contrast, Binyamin Netanyahu's appearances after the murderous attack left a bitter taste. The man lacks all spontaneity, and the excessive security around him only added to the unpleasant impression.

accompanied the prime minister to four of the funerals. "This is a funeral, not a performance by the prime minister," cried Hezi Cohen, father of slain Keren, as he complained to security men that his friends were not being allowed anywhere near the open grave. "I want them here, not him."

THE premier's security arrangements are becoming more than just а пиізапсе

According to Ha'aretz's Yoel

When massive security adds to a family's grief, it's time for official rethinking

Marcus, before Netanyahu's departure for Russia last week security men put soldiers in the guard of At least two bereaved families honor through a stringent check protested bitterly at the bright involving metal detectors, body lights and stringent measures that

> One can understand the GSS's hysteria after it failed to keep Yitzhak Rabin alive. But if the only tion from their guns.

searches, and removal of ammuni-

way it can protect Netanyahu is by degrading others, perhaps the prime minister should stay home.

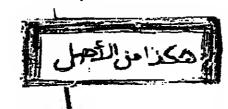

Who threatens his life? Ironically, the same people from whose midst Rabin's assassin emerged. They are a negligible minority with no Knesset representatives, people who would have applanded had last week's attack been by an Israeli on Arabs.

So why isn't anything being done to uproot these "wild weeds."? Perhaps it's because the authorities are so busy investigating public figures accused of bad faith andcorruption, and the public cares more about the growing secular-religious kulturkampf.

These are important. But we must not lose sight of the fact that our real enemies are the Baruch Goldsteins, the Yigal Amins, the Hamas terrorists, and deranged soldiers who take it upon themselves to change the course of history

The writer is a political scientist, with a buller selem Post

rive posture and

PR fiasco, inviting en him to take a gown the plank to

to going.

To go on the offen.

That and insisting on Confidence building precondition for then maybe . waik-the-pizzi fram 1510 2 me

directs MA

Minician, went be in mutter manage Sections (

aring the state

Common Currency

Do Francs and Yen Corrupt? Absolutely.

By CRAIG R. WHITNEY

HE American system of regulating campaign and party finances, to plagiarize Winstoo Churchill, is probably the worst of any big industrial democracy's, except for all the rest. Nothing the Democratic Party ever dreamed of doing in the 1996 campaign seems to have come close to the things virtually every party in Italy, Japan and France had been doing for years before the late 1980's, when people finally said they'd had enough and demanded change, much as Americans did after Watergate.

The repercussions are still being felt in Italy, where the parties who had run Governments for 50 years were so completely discredited that they collapsed, and in Japan, where the dominant party is staggering. Io France, the widespread corruption of mainstream parties is one reason for the rise of the far-right National Front.

Money and political power are inevitably attracted to each other, and until recently Europeans seemed more willing than Amerlcans to accept this idea cynically. But this is changing. As American voters have become more blasé about events like the current scandals in Washington, Europeans have been moving closer to the American sense that laws and regulations are needed to keep things from going out of control.

In fact, any idea being suggested in America for regulating spending and donations has probably already been tried in Europe, where campaigns don't cost anywhere oear as much. The surprise is that money still seems to corrupt politics even more here than it does in the United States.

One problem is that the spirit behind such laws is as important as the letter. What's wrong, the weekly Moscow News asked last week, with President Clinton inviting big donors to spend a night in the Lincoln bedroom at Democratic Party expense, compared to the hunting expeditions, sauna parties and flights on Kremlin planes that President Boris N. Yeltsin treats his supporters to at the Russian taxpayers' expense?

"There is a recelpt, a bill, a memo, after every step you take in the United States," the newspaper's New York correspondent. Dmitri Radyshevsky, reported. "The Americans don't tempt other people by trusting in

Continued on page 4

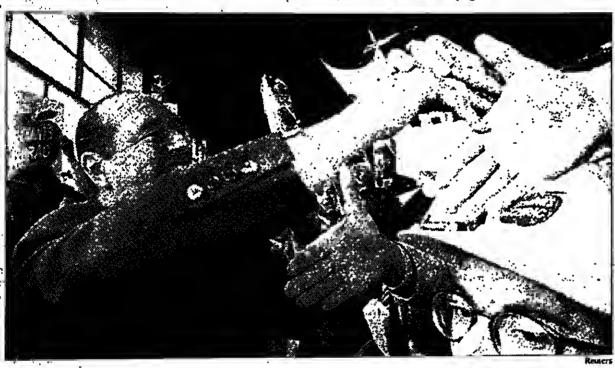

In Britain, Laissez-Faire

Britain has few laws to regulate campaign donations, which pay for advertising like this attack against Labor's leader, Tony Blair.

In Germany, State Funding

Germany has tried to control campaign abuses for years but its courts, as in America, have barred some curbs on donations. Chancellor Helmut Kohl, left, and his unsuc-

France Tries to Reform Shakedowns led to campaign finance laws in France, where Jacques Chirac ran in 1995.

Collapse in Italy

Scandals brought down Italy's major parties. Here, posters for Silvio Berlusconi last April.

The H.M.O. Catch

When Healthier Isn't Cheaper

"Investing in preventive care is a are doing it, they're doing it because cornerstone of our business because of the tremendous returns it provides ... It keeps health care costs low by preventing serious illness and promoting a healthy lifestyle." - U.S. Healthcare annual report

By ELISABETH ROSENTHAL

REVENTION saves money" has become a refrain of managed care, repeated in ads and by H.M.O. executives so often that It has taken on the aura of truth.

This wisdom, the industry's version of "a stitch in time saves nine," is backed by a certaio logic: if managed care plans detect illness early and offer good preventive care, patieots will remain healthier and will be cheaper to care for in the long

Prestol Health and profits are in perfect alignment. Patients get benefits like free immunizations and mammograms, even subsidized health-club memberships. H.M.O.'s, which care for patients for a fixed yearly fee, will incur fewer bills.

There is only one hitch: While studies have shown that preventive care is generally good for your health, they have also shown that it often does not save money.

The central problem is that the early detection of many diseases, like high cholesterol and H.I.V. infection, is often followed by a lifetime of costly treatments and drugs. Expensive hospitalizations may only be forestalled. So in many cases, total medical costs actually rise.

"An awful lot of preventive care has no payoff economically - it actually costs money," said Uwe Reinhardt, a health economist at Princeton University. "If the plans they think it gives them a good image. A lot of this stuff is overhyped."

To their credit, H.M.O.'s cover more "wellness care" than traditional insurance — and marketing de-partments know that even a small package of preventive services is a big draw. But bealth experts say consumers should not rest assured that the self-interest of the H.M.O.'s will lead them to provide top-notch early detection and prevention programs. As legislators around the country who are increasingly scrutinizing and regulating the H.M.O.'s have found, it does not.

What's more, even in situations where good preventive care might save money in the long run, H.M.O.'s often have little incentive to act, since patients tend to change health plans every few years.

"If I run a commercial H.M.O. with Wall Street breathing down my neck and there is an intervention that cost me now but will save me money in 10 years, I won't do it," Dr. Reinhardt said. "Or I might do it if it wasn't too expensive and I could parlay it into a perception of quali-

Delayed Benefits

For example, studies have shown that diagnosing and treating high cholesterol in adults will ward off heart attacks and strokes as those patients age. But standard drug treatments for high cholesterol cost more than $1,000 a year, and the big benefits do not accrue for well over a decade.

"If you are a company looking at what gives you a return on your investment, immunizations certainly have a payoff, and smoking cessation in pregnant women is probably also a slam dunk," said Dr. David Plocher,

Continued on page 3

H.M.O.-sponsored stress control at Griffin Hospital in Derby, Conn.

Bill and Boris Russians aren't enemies now. Or friends.

By Steven Erlanger

Silly Question If the inflation index is wrong, why not scrap it? By Louis Uchitelle Society's Cure-All How schools resemble chicken soup.

By Peter Applebome

One agency rarely repeats mishaps; the other reports every one.

By Matthew L. Wald

The World

Let Russia Feel Important (But Not Too Important)

By STEVEN ERLANGER

O if the Russians aren't enemies any more, and they don't quite seem to be friends, what are they exactly?

Do they still have a central role in the American oational psyche, let alone American foreign policy? Do Americans still fear them too much? Or are Americans taking the Russians too much for granted?

Those questions have sharp significance this week at what seems another pivotal moment in American-Russian relations. President Clinton, hobbled after knee surgery last week, is preparing to meet in HelsInki on Wednesday and Thursday with the newly reanimated Russian President, Boris N. Yeltsin, after stage-setting meetings here between American officials and Foreign Minister Yevgeny Primakov. Moscow's opposition to NATO's enlargement is the contentious issue at hand. American attitudes to the Russians, and the Russians' view of the United States' and their own changed circumstances, are an important part of the oegotiating equation

The central reality underlying the meeting is Russia's diminished stature. Although Russia still counts—it is, after all, a ouclear power capable of destroying the United States—it is much weakened, and therefore doesn't count as much. To negotiate successfully with Mr. Yeltsin, as well as to hedge against the future, Mr.

Clinton's challenge is to give a resentful Moscow respect it may no longer deserve.

Clinton oeeds to find ways to allow Mr. Yeltsin to convince the Russians that they do still matter — that Washington and NATO are willing to give Moscow a prominence and defereoce that it may no longer deserve.

It's a downer for Moscow, for it used to be that its importance needed no inflating. Russia was the true American nightmare — evoked in the superman Soviet boxer confronting Rocky Balboa, or in the film "Invasioo of the Body Snatchers," which many took as an allegory for insidious Russian Communism, or in maps of the world coated creeping red from Vietnam and Ethiopia to Cuba and Central America.

Just as important, perhaps, ordinary Russians took a certain pride in the fear they engendered. Fear meant respect, and the Soviet Unioo insisted that Washington treat Moscow not only as a superpower but as an equal.

It was a form of acceptance, however twisted, for a society that missed the Enlighteoment and was oever even considered a European country, let alone a European power, until the 18th century and Peter the Great.

But oow the Russians, more than anyone else, are deeply conscious and resentful of their fall. The great payoff from the West that was supposed to come with their abandonment of Soviet Communism bas not materialized. Capitalism has stoked no great industrial boom; foreign investment remains desultory, especially when compared with the money flowing to a still nominally Communist China; a vulgar, nouveau riche class of criminals and kleptocrats seems to dominate the still-feudal Government; Eastern Europe is fleeing into the arms of NATO, the former enemy — and Russia, rather than being welcomed by the West as a partner, is still excluded.

Distrust

A Russian official in Moscow said there was a growing feeling "that oothing we are doing is working the way it should, that nothing we do is ever quite enough, and that we may be a historically failed civilization."

The Russians see NATO enlargement as evidence of their decline, and of Washington's eagerness — despite soothing words of partnership — to take advantage of Russian weakness and change the map of Europe. Peter Reddaway of George Washington University, who has analyzed polls by the All-Russian Center for Public Opinion and Market Research, says most Russians associate the chaos of their lives with an American plan to destroy the Soviet Union and turn Russia into a source of cheap natural resources for the West.

.The Russian Government isn't much more trusting. It clearly doesn't know how to react to the plan to enlarge NATO — with invitations in July to the first group of countries, probably Hungary. Poland and the Czech Republic — and NATO's parallel offer to Russia of a cooperative charter, regular consultation and new limits on conventional forces in Europe. Mr. Primakov mixes talk of cooperation with bluster and threat in a time-tested fashion, trying to extract what concessions Russia can from the West before NATO enlarges in any event, while still holding on to all options: make a deal now, make a deal later or make no deal at all.

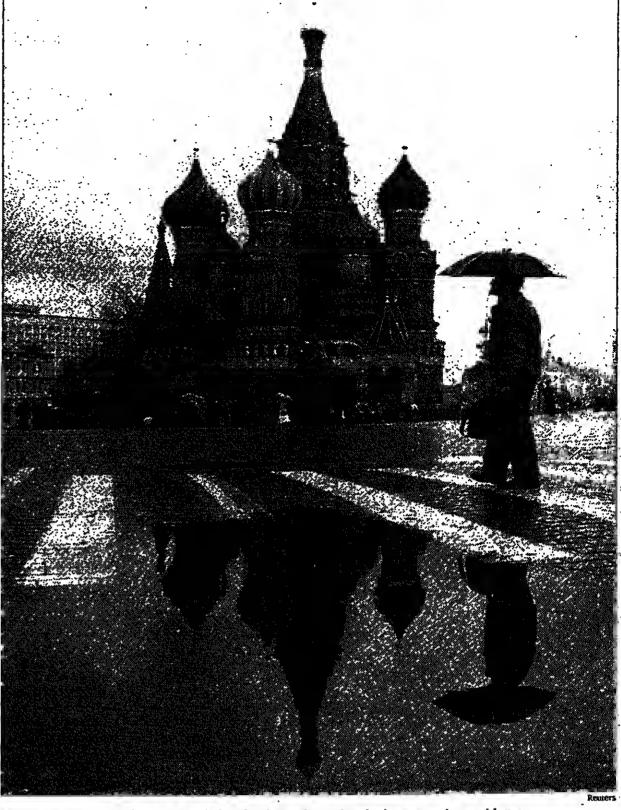

The decision, in the end, will be Mr. Yeltsin's, and it will depend a lot on what he thinks of "my friend Bill," as he calls the President — and what he thinks his friend Bill thinks of him.

"Russia was our enemy, and then the Russians were sold to us as our friends and partners," says Angela Stent of Georgetown University. "But there has been a lot of disillusion on both sides. I suppose the Russians are 'ambivalent partners' — and the ambivalence is also felt on both sides."

Americans lameot the messy transition in Russia despite significant (if sometimes misdirected) efforts at aid and advice. The replacement of a Communist elite by one of shady businessmen, corrupt bureaucrats and criminals isn't the way Washington imagined it. Even Russia's advocates in the Clinton Administration are reluctant to say that Russia has "made the leap successfully," sald Ms. Stent. "The Russians are still in the middle, unpredictable and annoying."

Traditionally, the two schools of Soviet studies were the one that viewed Russia as inclined to totalitarianism, most notably led by Richard Pipes and Martin Malia, and the school that saw it evolving pluralistically, most identified with Stephen F. Cohen — and which saw Mikhail S. Gorbachev as a democratizing hero:

Michael McFaul, a Russian scholar at Stanford University, says both schools are still very much in session. The totalitarian school still has a negative reaction to Russia, "warning the world to keep its powder dry," Mr. McFaul said. The pluralist school also hates the new order and Mr. Yeltsin, because he betrayed Mr. Gorbachev and a tidler transition.

A looe stroller in Red Square. Russia is reflective as it ponders its image on the world stage.

Resentment

The Russians feel insufficiently appreciated for casting off Communism and ending the threat of nuclear Armageddon. They are also resentful that Washington did not somehow freeze the world as it was in 1992, while they tried to reorder their society. With NATO expansion and American plans for advanced new missile defenses under way, many Russians believe Washington Is working to perpetuate Moscow's humbled status. "The Russians see us pushing Star Wars II in the air and NATO expansion on the ground," a senior American official said, "and they hate it."

Gregory F. Treverton, Director of International Security at Rand, said, "Russia weakened so quickly, it couldn't stand in our way as we moved to create a Europe in our own image." . Still, he said, "It's useful that our mindset has lagged behind events. We have leftover sympathy for superpowers and some leftover paranoia about the Russian threat. But it's good, because it means we pay some more atteotion to them and their sensibil-

Madness Meets Politics

Gunmen Can Act Alone. But Not Entirely.

By SERGE SCHMEMANN

MMEDIATELY after a Jordanian soldier opeoed fire oo a group of Israeli schoolgirls Thursday, two notions quickly spread here: one, that he was unstable, and two, that be had been driven to his terrible act by the rise in political tensions. Israelis charged that it was the bitterly personal letter that Jordan's King Hussein sent to Israel's Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu last week, accusing the Israeli of destroying progress toward peace, that must have incited the man to his deed; Palestinians said that Israeli provocations had prompted the letter, and that Israel was therefore to blame.

The suggestions have a resonance far beyond the little piece of land in the Jordan Valley where seven Jewish girls were killed by a presumably deranged Arab man. Wheo a suicidal Palestinian man cites anti-American clichés as his reason for opening fire on innoceot people atop the Empire State Building or when a Jewish nationalist assumes that religion justifies assassinating an Israeli Prime Minister, or when extremists translate public resentment of governmeot into a reason to blow up a Federal building in Oklahoma City with hundreds of people inside, it is worth asking: How does the act of any madman fit into what the rest of the world knows as polltics? Can mainstream politicians be held to account for triggering the rage of the unstable?

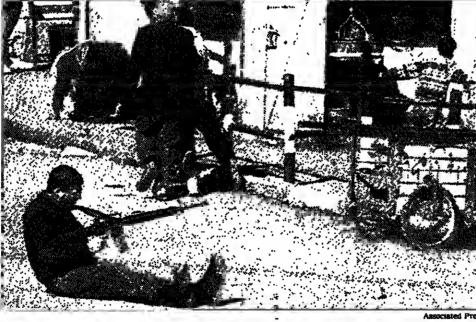

Consider the case of Ahmed Mousa al-Daqamseh, the 26-year-old Jordanian Army driver arrested in the shootings last week.

First, the Recriminations

The recriminations came before anything was even known about him. But they were as predictable as the setting of the sun. For one thing, the political atmosphere in recent days had been feverish, with dire warnings and mutual hurlings of blame. For another, many of the terrible acts of violence in Israel's history have been committed by lone, troubled men either driven to murderous hatred by the endless confrontations or convinced that an act of cataclysmic terror was the only avenue left to reverse a course they firmly believed to be catastrophic.

And, as happened last week, many of these acts were followed by charges of "incitement" leveled at political opponents. It is the kind of charge that often follows such an event — a charge often meant to turn public rage against the opposition, rather than help the public cope with what has happened.

Noam Friedman, a mentally disturbed Israeli soldier, opened fire in Hebron on Jan. 1.

The most noteworthy example came after the assassination of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin by a religious Jewish nationalist, Yigal Amir. Mr. Rabin's followers accused Mr. Netanyahu, then head of the opposition, of indirectly encouraging Mr. Amir by not doing enough to block the feverish rhetoric of right-wing extremists. Mr. Netanyahu angrily dismissed the charges as character assassination, drawing a firm distinction between his words and the assassin's act.

But whether such charges are fair or not, Israeli psychologists acknowledge an indisputable link between such solitary acts of extreme violeoce and the political temperature of the moment. "They are all different persons who do different things, but they are people who feel they must act, that they must take some violent action to change things," said Dr. Yair Carlos Bar-El, a leading psychiatrist for Jerusalem.

For such a person to act requires something more — an atmosphere of violence and tension, and a weapon, he said. "Without the right atmosphere, I don't know of a single case where such things happened," Dr. Bar-El said. "You also need a weapon. Perhaps that's more technical, but without a weapon at hand, the momeot might pass."

One of the bullets that hit Yitzhak Rabin.

In the case of the Jordanian soldier, what pushed him to murder is not yet known—whether it was a sense that his beloyed king had been insulted, or religious fervor, or a personal sense of humilation. But to the experts, the atmosphere was as indisputable a factor as the automatic weapon this unarmed driver grabbed from a comrade and emptied at the girls.

"It's not a coincidence that this happened on the Jordanian border, not the border with Egypt, because the latest friction, the exchange of accusations, was with Jordan." said Simha F. Landau, a psychologist who heads the Institute of Criminology at the Hebrew University Faculty of Law. He said his studies show a direct link between security-related stress and levels of violence. "If the atmosphere changes, if there is an atmosphere of violence, of belligerence, all those who are borderline, who are less stable, who have less control, they cross the line."

An Israeli girl who survived last week's shooting is comforted by her father.

In Israel and its neighbors, crisis and danger are virtually a way of life. But the stress can rise dramatically when there is a violent swing in politics or ideology, as when euphoria over prospects for peace is cut short by a new brutal confrontation.

Who Is Next?

That raised further questions — whether the next murderous fanatic could be identified in advance, or the public discourse brought under sufficient cootrol to avoid triggering him or her. Alas, one characteristic of past perpetrators was precisely their quiet, unassuming facade. Noam Friedman, the mentally disturbed Israeli Army clerk who tried to shoot up the Hebroo market on Jan. I, was nobody's image of a killer; nor was Dr. Baruch Goldstein, the settler who killed 29 Muslims at prayer in Hebron in 1994, nor most of the others before them. Frestereotype of a Palestinian suicide bomber reportedly compiled by Israeli intelligence also paints a loner, eaten away by feelings of grievance, humillation and threat. Tigal Amir may have been less hidden in his intentions, but he too apparently our ured a feeling of estrangement and a sense of missioo. era: Av-

Lieni.

 $\sigma_{0;i;i;e}$

Trans. 7

injerior (i manage from the

When such a loner explodes, the action can stun people into temporary unity. "Perhaps we should not look for any good results from such tragic events, but this act may have a sobering effect," Shimon Shamir, until recently the Israeli ambassador to Jordan said after the shooting last week. "It brings sulwhat unites us. Facing the threat of violence and extremism somewhat dwarfs political inferences."

Indeed, left-wing Israell politicians put off a no-confidence vote, King Hussein asked in visit the families of victims, and Yasir Arafat telephoned Mr. Netanyahu and said it might be time to meet.

But if the killings did impose a moment of horrified sobrlety, it did not seem likely to linger. On Friday, Israel's Cabinet unanimously decided to proceed with building a new Jewish neighborhood in East Jerusalem despite warnings from all Israeli security officials that violence would follow.

The Nation

Measuring Inflation: Can't Do It, Can't Stop Trying

By LOUIS UCHITELLE

HE votes are in and, not surprisingly, they are unanimous: the Consumer Price Index fails to measure inflation accurately. For many economists, fixing the problem is a technical matter, and they argue over the degree of maccuracy and how to fix it.

But what if the problem isn't technical at all? What if it's social? What if Americans have grown so heterogeneous - so separated by incomes, life-styles, what they purchase and where they shop - that no single cost of living index, no matter how carefully honed, can measure inflation accurately?

A commission of economists named for its chairman, Michael J. Boskin of Stanford University, opened that Pandora's box last December when it reported to Congress that the Consumer Price Index greatly exaggerated the actual inflation rate. But intruding in the debate over whether the commission is right is a different concern, one that has long lurked in the background: If a single index cannot accurately capture the American experience, then maybe the whole complex system of using only one index to adjust Social Security benefits and other Federal outlays should be dismantled.

That may be the intellectually honest thing to do, but it is not likely to happen. The Consumer Price Index, which measures the changing cost of a basket of goods and services purchased by an "average" American household, has become as much a polit-Ical tool as it is an economic yardstick. It has been used increasingly to adjust not only Social Security but payments to the poor, income tax deductions, military pensions and other Federal outlays. As inflation rises, so do they, automatically.

An Easy Out

"The Fire

METICAL ....

MENTALK T.A. ST

best opick's, d mente a Europe

10 th 172 14 PART T

hers tooks

Without the crutch of the C.P.I., the Administration and Congress would have to decide, on their own, how to to divvy up the Government pie. Restrain military pensions? Imagine the uproar. Cut back annual increases in Social Security pensions? Congress would have to take a vote. No wonder, when the Boskin Commission said that the C.P.I. overstates inflation by 1.1 percentage points - a considerable amount - the White House and many in Congress embraced the finding. ignoring growing evidence that the commission's views were faulty. The politicians saw an easy way to cut the budget. Shrink the Diane Belaguer of the Bureau of Labor Statistics checking prices in a discount drug store in 1995 for the Consumer Price Index.

C.P.L and, presto, billions in Federal outlays also shrink. The Clinton Administration even considered appointing still another commission that would actually adjust the C.P.I. downward, but shelved that idea last week as politically too dangerous.

"If they want to cut entitlements, just do it," said Stephen S. Roach, chief economist at Morgan Stanley & Company, "Don't pretend that a statistically pure C.P.I. exists."

The problem with the current system is that a single index probably fails to represent the inflation experiences of most Americans, At a recent Senate hearing, Senator Robert F. Bennett, Republican of Utah, said as much, questioning whether his cost of living, as he edges into old age, could be meaningfully averaged with those of his children as they buy homes and start families.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, testing a separate C.P.L for the elderly, found inflation rising faster for this group than the national index suggests; the elderly spend heavily on health care, whose costs are rising.

"If you want to talk about cost of living," said Robert Pollak, an economist at Washington University, "you have to face up to the question of whose cost of living you are measuring." But producing several C.P.L's simultaneously would be expensive and impractical. Which groups would be measured? One index, presumably, would be for the elderly. Social Security pensions would then be pegged to this C.P.I. But there are rich and poor elderly, and each group might have different experiences with inflation.

The Bureau constructs its national C.P.L.

from a survey of the expenditures of 5,000 households from all strata of society. As part of the process, the Bureau measures price changes for the merchandise these families tend to purchase, at the stores they seem to frequent. The procedure tries to determine how much more people have to pay to maintain their standard of living. But it is skewed toward measuring the inflation experiences of the biggest spenders — the rich, younger families - because the Bureau bases its calculations on total outlays for each type of merchandise, not outlays per bousehold.

Multiple C.P.L's - for the elderly, poor and other groups with their own spending patterns - would mean surveying several thousand people for each new index, an expense Congress has resisted. So the Bureau, in trying since 1983 to simulate an index for the elderly, at Congress's request, used the survey at hand, altering only the "weights." But that approach is inconclusive.

The elderly, for example, might be buying polyester pants at neighborhood stores where polyester prices are falling while young people might be traveling to malls to buy jeans that are rising in price. These are two different cost of living experiences. The Bureau survey, however, does not break down these purchases by age groups. It assumes that the elderly and the young buy the same mix of jeans and polyester. The Bureau's experimental index for the elderly only changes the weighting, giving less importance to pants prices if those purchases represent only a small portion of the elderly's total spending.

Avoiding Risk

Given these unknowns, the Bureau of Labor Statistics might find, if it surveyed the elderly separately, that a new C.P.L based on this survey rose more slowly than its current experimental index. Recognizing this possibility, the American Association of Retired Persons recently gave up its demand for a separate elderly index; now it lobbies instead against cutting the existing C.P.I.

The Boskin Commission, and many in the Administration and in Congress, are determined to maintain a single index as the guidepost for adjusting Federal payments. They insist that, over the long run, nearly everyone experiences roughly the same inflation rate, even with different purchases. "You have to start with the assumption of an averræ American," said Zvi Griliches, a Boskin Commission member.

Economists are just beginning to test, and challenge, that assumption. Ariel Pakes of Yale, for example, found that large cars, favored by large families, and expensive cars, favored by the wealthy, have risen much more rapidly in price than smaller or less expensive cars. Such findings undercut the concept of an average American, but they would also complicate construction of separate indexes. Should large families constitute a separate C.P.L group?

These concerns remained in the background through the early 1970's, when the representative family was a much less challenged concept, and the C.P.L was not so important in adjusting Federal outlays. "There have always been doubts," said Alan Krueger, a Princeton University economist, 'but there was a kind of social compact that made the single C.P.L acceptable.'

Planes and Nuclear Plants

Why Safety Is Not Always So Public

By MATTHEW L. WALD

Government MAGINE two agencies, each responsible for insuring the safety of industries the public regards with more than a touch of dread. Each is financed by the industry it regulates, and each is staffed mostly by veterans of the kinds of operations they now inspect and evaluate.

Each says its industry is safe and each believes that the public doesn't understand the complex array of safety issues anyway. But one seldom says anything in public about the companies it regulates, and the other issues regular report cards. This is not a hypothetical. The agencies are the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, which regulates nuclear power plants, and the Federal Aviation Administration, which oversees airlines. The F.A.A. makes few announcements about airline safety lapses. Outside of giving some details of minor mishaps, it says little; if a crash occurs, the agency says nothing. Full disclosure might frighten people needlessly, it believes.

The N.R.C. goes as far as publishing lists of workaday mishaps (like a worker falling off a ladder). It monitors trends of minor events and publishes these findings in the conviction that problems resulting in no injuries and no damage can indicate management flaws affecting safety.

The approaches are so different that it is hard to helieve they come from the same Government. But the differences may illustrate how commerce, safety and public information come into play: the more difference an industry makes in a day-to-day commercial sense, the less the public will find out from Government about safety.

Not that the Government is silent about the airlines. For years anybody with a Web browser has been able to compare the risk, airline by airline, of lost bags or a late plane.

But unlike the F.A.A., the Nuclear Regulatory Commission publishes an assessment of each of the 109 power reactors it licenses and twice a year it identifies the worst reactors and the utility companies with management problems.

In January, on a day when the N.R.C. was giving one of its semiannual briefings on the problems among the companies it regulates, the F.A.A. announced that it was opening up - sort of. The agency said it would begin reporting big fines that It formerly kept quiet. On Friday the F.A.A. announced that it was proposing to fine Alaska Airlines more than half a million dollars for improperly modifying a landing gear. It will put details of airline mishaps on the Web rather than making them available only by Freedom of

A nuclear generating station at Limerick, Pa.

One agency rarely reports mishaps; the other reports every one.

Information Act requests. But the safety information will not be as useful for comparison as the lost-bag statistics, officials warned, because the agency will not rank the airlines or identify problem ones unless it actually shuts them

The F.A.A. has never grounded a major airline and seldom chastises them publicly. On the other hand, the N.R.C. expressed doubts last month about the operating practices of the nation's biggest private operator of nuclear plants, Commonwealth Edison in Illinois; one of the biggest, Northeast Utilities in Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Hampshire, has had most of its reactors on the Commission's list of problem children for months.

Like a conscientious teacher, the N.R.C. compares each reactor's performance, good and bad, to how it did in the previous 18-month marking period. But to the F.A.A., all comparisons are odious; it has seldom said anything about airline performance. It did, though, after the Valujet crasb last May because a memo that it prepared for Federico Peña, then Transportation Secretary, showing number of accidents per 100,000 departures, leaked out. So why the contrast?

Until the end of the last fiscal year, when the law changed, the agency both regulated aviation and promoted it. "The F.A.A. willingly embraces the dual mandate," said Sandra Allen, who was assistant administrator of the F.A.A. for public affairs until the middle of last year.

"The N.R.C. has solely and exclusively regulatory authority," said Ms. Allen, who is a spokesperson for Commonwealth Edison. The N.R.C., which was created 20 years ago in the breakup of the old Atomic Energy Commission, formerly promoted nuclear energy. That responsibility went to a separate agency now called the Department of Energy.

Among the lay critics of the N.R.C. — a group far more numerous than that criticizing the F.A.A. many would disagree with Ms. Allen. They accuse the N.R.C. of coddling the nuclear industry. But at least it uses the stick of public approbation on its charges.

Donald Engen, who has a foot in both camps, argues that the F.A.A. cannot use that stick. Mr. Engen, who was F.A.A. administrator from 1984 to 1987, later became a nuclear consultant.

"If you said American Airlines was number 7 of 10, my God, that would really be an economic hammer." Mr. Engen said. No one chooses one utility over another based on the N.R.C.'s performance rating, he said. (With the exception of stock and bond analysts, his statement is true.)

"When it's you sitting in an airplane, you view that as your life," he said. "It's more fraught with immediacy, and people conjure up the hazard. But you don't think about throwing the on-off switch on the nuclear power plant that might be in the next state."

But the difference extends to within the industries, too. Mr. Engen became a consultant to the Institute of Nuclear Power Operations, a group of utilities that seeks to improve troubled companies and clone "best practices" from one company to another. It has no parallel in aviation. Mr. Engen, now director of the Smithsonian's National Air and Space Museum, said, "You don't really go to Company B, C and D and say, 'Company A has got a problem.' I don't know why, but you don't find people in the aviation business talking as openly as you do in the nuclear power industry."

When Healthier Isn't Cheaper

Continued From Page 1

a partner at Ernst and Young, the consulting firm. "But beyond that, our conversation is over. That's it." Many H.M.O. executives insist that the payoff of a well-designed prevention program is higher.

Studies at Group Health of Puget Sound, an H.M.O. in Seattle, found that smoking cessation programs and mammography screening could be cost-effective, particularly when targeted at the groups most likely to benefit. Dr. Neal Sofian, an expert in preventive medicine who was until recently at Group Health, said great cost savings could be realized if a diabetic smoker could be made to quit, since such patients have astronomical rates of strokes and heart

But even within the managed care companies, many advocates of prevention programs acknowledge that the financial benefits are overrated.

"I've been trying to promote prevention for years," said Dr. Robert G. Harmon, the medical director of prevention plans at United Health Care, which owns 45 H.M.O.'s nationwide. "But we really have to be specific that in some cases it costs more that it saves."

Still, Dr. Harmon said managed care plans considered these services a "good investment that we should be making" because of the health benefits to patients. He added that the company's market research had shown that prevention programs were very important to subscribers.

Dr. Sofian said many valuable preventive services could never be justified on the basis of cost, and be was chagrined that some health care providers think about them in these terms. "You don't hear people asking about the cost benefit of a heartlung transplant," he said. "You don't do it because it saves money. You do it because it's the right thing to do." Health economists say managed care plans that regard economics as the driving force behind prevention tend to offer preventive care that is low cost (like rebates on the purchase of bike helmets) or high profile (like mammograms).

Patches and Reminders

Moreover, prevention programs advertised in glossy brochures sometimes have little substance, they say. The stop-smoking program at one large H.M.O. consists of a prescription for a nicotine patch — the cost of which is not covered by the plan and 12 follow-up letters.

"For some companies this has become a marketing strategy as opposed to a medical strategy, and that gives prevention a bad name," Dr.

He and others predicted that managed care plans would improve their wellness care not because "prevention pays," but because employers would demand it.

Consider smoking cessation, for example. While patients who quit reduce their risk of heart disease, cancer and respiratory ailments over time, they also live longer and so are more likely to experience the complex medical problems of old age. Their lifetime medical costs actually

But the economics of smoking looks different to the employer, who loses

Immunizations pay off. But H.I.V. screening can result in big bills.

valuable employees to death or disability and bears the costs of sick days and smoking breaks. In some instances, prevention and early detection are so uneconomical that managed care plans are unlikely to act without significant prodding. Doctors now urge that people at risk for H.I.V. be screened for the virus since there are now effective drug treatments to delay progression of the disease. But these drugs cost more than $10,000 a year.

Susan M. Dooha, a senior policy analyst at Gay Men's Health Crisis, said doctors in health maintenance organizations were not taught or encouraged to screen members for the

And subscriber booklets rarely mention programs for testing, even in areas with high rates of the disease. "Not all prevention is cheap — the plans don't treat all preventive services the same way," she said.

"Realistically, the only way a plan is going to screen for H.LV. is if an employer said, 'We won't offer you as a plan unless you do it," Dr. Reinhardt said. 'From a purely economic standpoint, the smart strategy is not to screen, because a quick death from advanced AIDS is far more profitable than the long drawn-out maintenance of someone with early H.L.V."

Ideas & Trends

Better Schools, Uncertain Returns

By PETER APPLEBOME

ROM the dire warnings of educational and national decline in the "Natioo at Risk" report in 1983 to President Clinton's full-court press on education as the key to national prosperity, the direct link between schooling and the economy has become part of the conventional wisdom of American education.

Education Secretary Richard W. Riley put it bluntly in his State of American Education Address last month: "Education is the engine that drives our economy." And as the earnings gap between brains and brawn grows ever larger, almost no one doubts the link between education and an individual's economic prospects.

But many educators and economists are increasingly skeptical of the notion that better schools mean a more prosperous nation. And as Mr. Clinton's education agenda makes its way through Congress - he promised that education would be the No. 1 priority of his second term - some wonder if overemphasis on the link between schools and jobs can tilt the public's view of education to an unhealthy degree - expecting too much in building the economy and not enough in developing intellects and personalities and ultimately citizens.

Fear of Decline

As for its economic effects, "I'm stunned by how unexamined that claim is," said Mike Rose, an education professor at the University of California at Los Angeles. "If you look at 100 years of industrial history, there's nothing close to the one-to-one link between education and the ecocomy that we assume today. I think the way we think about education is terribly constrained by the assumption that we're in trouble, that we're in decline, and that the decline is intimately. causally linked to what's wrong with educa-

Mr. Rose, the author of "Possible Lives: The Promise of Public Education in America" (Houghton Mifflin, 1995), is quick to add that he believes that upgrading the skills and knowledge of America's children is closely linked to their economic prospects. And it is clear that the current focus on education reflects changes in the workplace that make education a more critical component of an individual's economic success than It was in

Frank Levy, a professor of urban economics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the author, with Richard Murnane, "Teaching the New Basic Skills" (Free Press, 1996), notes that in 1979, a 30-year-old man with a high school diploma earned a yearly average of $27,700 in 1993 dollars. By 1993 a high school graduate was only earning Fifteeo years ago, the typical worker with a college degree made 38 percent more than a worker with a high school diploma. Today, the typical college-educated worker makes

But what bolds true for individuals does not necessarily make a metaphor for the nation as a whole, most experts say. "There is a relationship in how education helps individuals increase their skills and theo helps these individuals get jobs," said Larry Cuban, an education professor at Stanford University. "But there's also a false kind of connection about how lower productivity in the economy, particularly in the late 70's and 80's, was somehow related to lower productivity in the schools."

The skeptics often start with the Reagan Administration's apocalyptic "A Nation at Risk" report, which said the nation bas been "committing an act of unthinking, unilateral educational disarmament" that was putting its very future at risk.

Campaigning for education, Bill and Hillary Rodham Clinton, background, at Garrison Elementary in Washington last month.

But almost a decade and a half later, the oation's economy is performing by many measures, extraordinarily well. In fact, it is dramatically outperforming Japan and Germany, often cited as countries with educational systems that the United States should be emulating.

Remembering Sputnik

Given that oo one claims a sudden, dramatic increase in the quality of American education, critics of the report say that either the nation's schools are not as dismal as the "Nation at Risk" report indicated or the link between education and the economy is far more complicated than the conventional wisdom has it.

That wisdom is not entirely new. 'Same thing with Sputnik in 1957," said Richard Gibboney, an education professor at the University of Pennsylvania, "The Russians put a spaceship into orbit and instantly Mrs. Jones in the third grade was blamed for our presumed scientific lag in technology." Most experts say corporate decisions, the economic aspects of the national culture, the vagaries of the business cycle and numerous other factors play a far greater role than education in the nation's economic success.

"The link between education and the national economy is pretty tenuous in all but the grossest sense - say the difference between developed and undeveloped countries," said Peter Cappelli, co-director of the National Center on the Educational Quality of the Workforce at the University of Pennsylvania. "Could you improve the economy by dramatically ratcheting up its average education level? Other than dropping a lot of Ph.D.'s on Rwanda, it's a very complicated

Given the limitations of education as an agent of economic progress, some experts say linking education too closely with the economy could engender false economic expectations at the same time it devalues many of the broader elements of schooling.

"Education does many things, from teaching kids how to read to teaching ethics and responsibility," said Mr. Gibboney. "If you focus too much on the economy, you squeeze out some of those other values. When businessmen get into the educational business, and they are focusing on the kind of workers they need, the curriculum becomes narrow, technical, de-liberal."

Still, if education alone can't guarantee national prosperity, the lack of it almost guarantees, for any one child, economic fail-

"It takes lots of things to get the train going," said Mr. Levy of M.I.T. "But the real question is who will be on the train? If you don't bave a reasonable education, the chance of earning a decent salary today is very, very small."

SPECIAL PRICE FOR JERUSALEM POST READERS ENCYCLOPAEDIA JUDAICA

Encompassing every branch of Jewish knowledge: the Bible, Jewish history, practice, thought, literature and mysticism, as well as the role played by lews in world culture.

Encyclopaedia Judaica is a must for every home and library, placing the entire gamut of Jewish heritage within arm's reach.

Here's what you get:

- The 16-volume ENCYCLOPAEDIA JUDAICA, containing 25,000 entries by 2,200 contributors, 12,000,000 words and 9,000 illustrations.
- PLUS the Decennial Year Book 1973-1982.
- PLUS the Decennial Year Book 1983-1992.

SPECIAL PRICE FOR JERUSALEM POST READERS: THE 16-VOLUME SET, THE DECENNIAL YEAR BOOK 1973-1982, and THE DECENNIAL YEAR BOOK 1983-1992, ALL FOR ONLY NIS 2,590 (Recommended price NIS 2,690) or in 5 credit card payments of NIS 537.

To BOOKS: The Jerusaiem Post, POB 81, Jerusaiem 91000 Piease send me ENCYCLOPAEDIA JUDAICA as indicated. I enclose payment to The Jerusalem Post, by check or credit card details. 18 Volume set for NIS 2,590* ☐ Check enclosed 5 credit card payments of NIS 537 ☐ Isracard ☐ Visa C AmEx City ______ Code _____ All prices include delivery in Israel.

For overseas mail surface delivery, please add NIS 120/ set Prices as of December 1, 1996.

The Yen Corrupts, Too

Continued From Page 1

their moral fiber. ... Even in the White House, every coffee cup with a donor is put down in a memo."

Not so in Russia, where candidates in last year's presidential elections could legaily spend no more than $2,887,500. Mr. Yeltsin's campaign reported spending $2,884,357, but two top campaign consultants were caught trying to take a cardboard box with $500,000 in cash out of the Russian Government headquarters, Sc few really believe the official disclosures.

Cynicism, the worst enemy of democracy, can be strengthened by regulations that seem to fly in the face of reality. Members of the United States Congress need a lot more money than European legislators do, mostly because of the cost of television and the need to campaign almost continuously in far-flung districts.

In Europe and Japan, candidates get campaigning time free on state-run televi-sion, and the official campaigns — the time for rallies, television ads and the like - are limited in duration. In Britain, they last only about three weeks; if Prime Minister John Major calls the next election there for May 1, as expected, he will not dissolve Parliament until early April.

British laws on campaign financing are mostly unwritten, like the British Constitution, and Mr. Major's Conservatives have always said that how they raise money, and from whom, is none of the public's business. The public seems to agree.

A former Conservative Party treasurer, Lord McAlpine, recently disclosed that Mr. Major had asked him in 1991 to solicit a donation of $800,000 from a foreign business tycoon — Identified by The Times of London as the Greek shipping magnate John Latsis, who has important business interests in Britain. But unlike the disclosures about donations the Democrats got from Asian cootributors, the news barely raised eyebrows in Britain, for donations from foreigners are not illegal there.

Where there is no law, there is no crime, and until the late 1980's, France bad oo campaign finance law. So parties and politicians raised most of their money by almost openly shaking down contractors who did business with the municipalities the parties controlled. The shakedowns ranged between 1 and 7 percent of the value of the contracts, according to Thierry Jean-Pierre, ooe of the crusading French investigating magistrates who finally broke up the system by prosecuting officials for extortion and corruption after businesses complained that the squeeze had become too much to bear.

To try to clean things up, the French followed Germany's lead and passed laws that make taxpayers foot some campaign hills. French parties and candidates are now barred from soliciting companies for campaign funds, and can ask individuals for no more than about $5,300. Foreign governments, but not foreign individuals, are barred from contributing, and there are limits on how much candidates may spend in the 12 months before an election. Candidates for the national legislature are now limited to about $62,000, with the state paying up to balf of that

The state also finances the major political parties to the tune of about $100 million a year - about what they had been taking in through shakedowns in the 1980's, according to Judge Jean-Pierre. But French law still has loopboles; it doesn't spell out exactly what campaign expenses are, and the parties don't have to account for the public money they get.

Germany, like the United States, has long struggled with ways to allow individuals and companies to contribute. The courts, for example, bave found most efforts to control contributions unconstitutional. In addition, in the 1980's, prosecutors uncovered a vast network of illegal corporate payments to the three major parties through tax-deductible donations to "charities" set up for the purpose.

Such scandals have beided change the German political landscape by contributing to the rise of the Green Party, which claims to be cleaner than the rest. Today, all parties are partly financed by public money, distributed according to a formula based on the number of votes they receive. German companies can donate what they want but can deduct nooe of it, and the parties must disclose the donors.

Germany's troubles pale next to those of Italy, where prosecutors have been picking at the web of corruption that tied all the established parties to business, and even to organized crime, for most of the balf-century after World War II.

A cleaning contractor in Milan, indigoant at being asked for the usual contribution in exchange for a contract by the

As Americans get blasé, Europeans start to worry.

Socialist Party official who ran a hig home for the elderly, pulled the first thread in 1991 when he went to the police. The end result was the collapse of the entire postwar political system and the demise of the two dominant parties, the Christian Democrats and the Socialists.

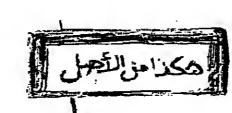

-

Marc

Italy has rewritten its laws to provide amix of public and private funds for parties and to limit spending by parllamentary candidates to $55,000. (They can collect up to $13,700 each from individuals or corporate donors.) Television advertisements are also banned for several weeks before elections. "The real corruptive factor of any political system is TV money," said Senator Gian Giacomo Migone of Turio

Money scandals also helped end the Japanese Liberal Democratic Party's domination of postwar politics. Prosecutors raided the house of Shin Kanemaru, one of its key leaders, in 1993 and found $25 million worth of securities, cash and gold in bis safe; he bad to resign after admit-ting getting a secret $4 million donation from a transportation company. Outraged voters bave since denied the Liberal Democrats a majority in Parliament, where a short-lived coalition Government ov hauled the campaign finance system along European lines in 1995.

The world over, it seems, governments can't outlaw the relationship between meoey and power any more than they can outlaw lust. But corruption — the dirty private deals made in secret between elected officials and big money that are not in the public interest - still flourishe best in the dark. And other countries, like the United States, are still groping for effective ways of shedding light on who

ECONOMY

Blowing the Whistle, and Now Facing the Music

By KURT EICHENWALD

S he recuperated from kidney surgery last March, Richard A. Lundwall stared at the walls of his hospital room and stewed about how he was being treated by his longtime employer, Texaco Inc.

Weeks before, Mr. Lundwall had been unceremoniously forced out of his job in Texaco's finance department. Most colleagues ignored him; no one offered an official farewell on his last day. Mr. Lundwall even felt slighted by the company's failure to send a personal note during his stay at Danbury Hospital in Connecticut.

The events played through his mind again and again. As a former marine, Mr. Lundwall prided himself on his ability to confront adversity. But now, as his long career seemed to be dwindling to a depressing end at age 55, the bedridden executive felt powerless for the first

tast month

see it devalues tes of schooling tes of schooling tes; from teach change ethics and aboney "if you

mby, you squeeze

mes. When have ational business.

e kind of workers becomes narrow

can't guarantee

sck of it almost to get the tran

J.T. "But the real

the train' If you

education, tre at salary today is acronn for he

Miled States, his piles outron and tra-

Frommische Tre

pion fourse transfer-portures and a fill-be 1996 to a contra-tortweether of 1.55

the Dine Table

belief white Vi

Market 197

Seven Provide Blad

ing this to the con-

Periangent for Calad

medicing to a training

Proces into the state

in death of the second of the

Coptus

Ph. 10 Marian Photo. 5-4 Fall William

THE WILLIAM

Films U.

garata : Ti is get peans

The same of the sa

Cines ------

COPY A

ME KET 100

the p

And then it hit him: The tapes. He called his wife, Petria, at home and asked her to bring his tape recorder and the mini-cassettes he had stumbled across while cleaning out his office. Soon, be was excitedly sitting in bed, listening by earphone to the meetings he had secretly recorded years earlier when Texaco executives belittled minorities and plotted the destruction of documents demanded in a discrimination suit.

"I knew right then that if they ever were to make the light of day, those tion for recording, keeping and, fi-conjunction with the institute of Actuaries and Faculty of Actuaries.

WORLD INDEX

1.0

1.0

1.7

- 0.2

- 1.0

~ 0.1

0.7

- 4.8

0.4

0.9

2.0

- 2.5

1.0

1.8

- 1.2

- 1.5

- 1.9

- 0.7

Source: Goldman, Sachs & Co. Exchange rates as of Friday's London close. © 1996 The Financial Times Ltd., Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Standard & Poor's.

Source: Bloomberg Financial Merkets: exchange rates as of Friday's New York close.

- 4.5

221.15 - 1.2

232.62 - 3.9

111.97 - 1.7

638.53 - 0.4

1.6

186,17

238.66

244.52

283.27

199.34

372.65

265.09

200.24

462.95

334.83

85.83

1,335.22

353.34

84.44

311.08

197.00

400.13

360.82

216.57

257.68

79.08

322.22

246.39

132.77

160.12

PERFORMANCE

Country

Australia

Austria

Belglum

Brazil

Britain

Canada

Denmark

Finland

Germany

Hong Kong

Indonesia

Italy

Japan

Malaysia.

Netherlands

New Zealand

Philippines

Singapore

Sweder

Thailand

Europe

South Africa

Switzerland

United States

Pacific Basin

Europe/Pacific

Exchange rate

Japanese yen to the U.S. dollar

German marks to the U.S. dollar

Canadian dollars to the U.S. dollar

U.S. dollars to the British pound

COMPOSITE INDICES

In U.S. dollars.

tapes would be very embarrassing, to say the least, for Texaco," Mr. Lundwall said in a recent interview.

With that, Mr. Lundwall set the stage for a highly publicized scandal at Texaco, the international oil giant based in White Plains. Months later, he turned the recordings over to the plaintiffs' lawyers in the discrimination suit brought on behalf of the company's minority employees. The cassettes quickly touched off a debate over the progress of minorities in corporate America, pushed Texaco into a record $140 million settlement of the discrimination suit and led prosecutors to investigate the document destruction as a possible criminal act.

Lost amid the tumult that followed the disclosure of the tapes last November was the story of Mr. Lundwall. For more than five months, he has remained silent, unwilling to explain why a former Texaco loyalist set off a scandal that stunned the company and turned the executives implicated in the document destruction - including Mr. Lundwall himself - into targets of criminal inves-

Now, even as the case against Mr. Lundwall moved forward with his indictment on Thursday on a charge of obstructing justice, he is telling his story. In a wide-ranging series of interviews, he described how the life he built after a childhood of poverty had drastically changed for the worse. And he spoke of his motiva-

BERMANY INDEX

IN LOCAL CURR.

15.7

30.9

6.9

4.5

16.4

18.8

13.9

18.2

- 8.6

10.2

14.5

10.9

16.2

-6.8

12.9

- 3.1

- 23

7.6

9.4

17.6

6.8

- 8.7

3.3

Ago

105.88

1.4720

1.3640

1.5272

-16.4

- 7.8

185.78

164.42

206.31

474.83

262.31

196.86

328.72

282.37

198.89

460.36

342.77

301.80

108.53

87.33

609.14

308.35

64,26

289.28

258.52

264.47

350.43

236.97

499.31

233.48

79.68

322.22

229.36

102.22

150.18

204.02

% Chg.

+1.28

-1.22

-0.46

-0.13

11,645.29

In U.S. dollars.

1.77

3.74

1.87

1.44

1.61

3.35

1.55

2.05

1.06

1.13

2.12

0.67

1.05

2.09

1.27

4.05

1.87

2.66

1.42

2.13

1.99

Friday

121.82

1:7145

1.3691

1,6013

DOMESTIC BONDS

Treasuries

Bond Buyer index

Corporates

Ryan Labs. Total Return

Merriil Lynch Master index

28

6

22

20

Prepared by Goldman, Sachs & Co. using data derived from the Financial Times/Standard &

Poor's Actuaries World Indices, a measure of stock market performance. The FT Indices are compiled jointly by The Financial Times Limited, Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Standard & Poor's, In

IN U.S. DOLLARS

Index % Chg. Rank % Chg. Rank Yield

15

18

6

19

11

25

13

23

22

17

10

2

· 26

20 21

Week Week YTD YTD Dividend

- 2.0

28.9

0.0

7.9

5.4

1.8

2.8

-13.2

9.5

5.1

- 4.7

13.3

- 1.5

-17.5

6.8

2.8

-10.7

- 3.4

1.7

123.38

1.6935

1,3628

1.6010

3.0

nally, disclosing the now-infamous

Mr. Lundwall's unusual story was also pieced together through court and corporate records, as well as with interviews of family members. business associates and other participants in the continuing scandal.

What emerges is a portrait of a man of contradictions, at one moment an eager participant in apparent wrongdoing, at another the whistle-blower exposing those same activities. But he also comes through as a strikingly naïve man, who had little notion of what he was unleash-

The events surrounding Mr. Lundwall also raise difficult questions about how companies should handle executives when they expose potential wrongdoing in which they will-

'Texaco Tapes' creator lives in their shadow.

Indeed, Mr. Lundwall's fate has some in the legal and civil rights

"To indict Mr. Lundwall is to put a chilling effect on the initiative of Richard Lundwalls at other companies," said Roy Innis, the national chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality. "We should respect the sacrifice he made in coming forward, so that other Richard Lund-

Indeed, Mr. Lundwall's future looks gloomy. Unable to find work, be spends his time at home in Danbury and volunteering in a homeless shelter. Many of the health and retirement benefits from Texaco are gone, cut off by the company. His wife, who had hoped to retire soon. must continue her job at a retailer to keep health insurance and hold up their sagging finances. Even the physical toll is evident, with Mr. Lundwall, long a rail-thin man, having lost 20 pounds since the saga began. As he examines the wreck-

Lundwall asked. "Sure. Would I do it again, if I knew what was going to occur? Chances are, no. In the real world, you don't want to put your head in that guillotine. I don't know a sane man who would. And I'm cer-

The Chevrolet sat motionless on the exit ramp off the Southern State Parkway. The car had blown a tire, but the driver had no idea how to change it. She didn't even own a behind and stopped. It must have been a welcome sight. Driving the Comet was a man who wore the Star: a Texaco service station attendant. The young man, wearing the company uniform and cap, jumped out of his car and, jack in hand, walked toward the Chevy. In a

The year was 1965, and Mr. Lundwall was one of the latest, and proudest, employees at Texaco's gas stations. After years of professional drifting — from insurance investigator to postal clerk to back-office worker on Wall Street - Mr. Lundwall had found his calling.

"I would have gone to any lengths for the company," be said recently. "I wanted to present their best side. To me back then, Texaco was the Texaco also offered security to a man who had not experienced much of it before. Raised in the South Bronx, Mr. Lundwall was the third of seven children in an impoverished, poorly educated and troubled family.

Carl Lundwall, Mr. Lundwall's 48year-old brother. "Our father was there only on and off. And most of the radically, at best, and after turning 15 he dropped out to find work. Lying about his age, he joined the National Guard, but was discharged when his records, in 1991, of the 1,887 employ-deception was discovered.

AROUND THE WORLD

But the military bug had bitten. As soon as he could, he joined the Marines and learned a sense of discipline that he had sorely lacked. By October 1965, Mr. Lundwall was settling down. He had left the military, married, and after some' job-hopping, had joined Texaco. Mr. Lundwall loved the job, pumping gas at a station in New Jersey, and he was soon entrusted with keeping its books. Soon, Mr. Lundwall had a young son and an up-and-down job history within Texaco. But in 1969, a call from Texaco headquarters set him on a new career path: A position had opened in employee relations. Mr. Lundwall got the job.

For the first time, Mr. Lundwall worked among executives, handling personnel and clerical duties. He got a taste of the pay and benefits that went along with grabbing a lower rung on the corporate ladder.

His pride in Texaco swelled to unwavering loyalty. He made numerous sacrifices, often working weekends, nights and vacations. To help his career, he attended night working extra jobs.

Richard Lundwall

have secured his future.

lor's degree.

recalled

school, and in 1977 earned a bache-

The hard work was worth it. In the Richard Lundwall handed the pa-zeroed in on the name of the prospec-

"He looked at it and be said,

With that experience in the early 1980's, Mr. Lundwall began to wonder for the first time if Texaco had

As his duties grew to include recruiting, other incidents would raise more questions. Despite Texaco's professed interest in hiring and promoting minorities, he said he came to believe that the company's poli-

A trip to a convention sponsored your socks off." Mr. Lundwall said.

In particular, Mr. Lundwall said, he was frustrated by Texaco's refusal to expand its search for college graduates outside of a few top schools. His suggestions that Texaco look elsewhere for qualified minority candidates, particularly at predominantly black schools, were Lundwall as disingenuous. Texaco required that all job openings be posted, supposedly to insure that all candidates would be considered. But repeatedly, Mr. Lundwall found, the hiring decisions had already been

BONDS

Long bonds

30-year Treasuries

Some procedures struck Mr.

cies seemed designed to fail.

doing here?""

largely ignored.

problems dealing with diversity.

tive worker, who was Jewish.

ees in the top pay grades at Texaco, only 19 were black. By 1994, little had changed: The total number of employees in those levels had grown to 2,029, but only 22 were black.

In 1994, some minority executives decided to fight. That year, Bari-Ellen Roberts and Sil Chambers, who had both been recruited for the finance department years earlier, became lead plaintiffs in the discrimination suit against Texaco. The suit contended that the company's promotion system, including its job posting program, was largely a sham. Instead, the suit said, the company thrived on a "good old boy"

In court papers filed at the time, Texaco said its employment practices did not discriminate against minorities, and defended its program - including the posting of all jobs - as fair, racially neutral poli-

The reaction in the finance department, Mr. Lundwall said, was one of silence. But soon, Mr. Lundwall could not ignore the suit; the plaintiffs demanded that he testify and tell them about documents involving the company's employment prac-

On Aug. 5, 1994, Mr. Lundwall sat for his deposition. For several hours, Mr. Lundwall openly described company records that the plaintiffs had known nothing about but that could prove crucial to their case.

"Lundwall was very forthcoming," said Cyrus Mehri, the plaintiff's lawyer who took his deposition. "He was straight about every document he knew about. And those documents would be the very ones that they held back."

A few weeks later, Texaco received a discovery request demanding documents that Mr. Lundwall had identified. Now, Mr. Lundwall said, his bosses wanted him to review the records before the company lawyers saw them.

As be walked toward the meeting. Mr. Lundwall slipped his hand into his pocket and pressed the record button of a tiny microcassette recorder. He had purchased the recorder earlier, largely to retain conversations with an employee who repeatedly denied being told of as-early 1980's, he was promoted to the Over time, Mr. Lundwall had behuman resources unit of Texaco's gun using the voice-activated refinance department. With the raise corder to protect himself. Texaco's be received, Mr. Lundwall could stop culture was changing, he said, and it seemed that it reacted to trouble by Mr. Lundwall finally seemed to finding an employee to blame.

Sometimes he used the recorder to help him keep minutes of meetings. perwork for a new hire to a senior Other times, he secretly taped concompany executive for approval. versations that made him uneasy-While reviewing the documents, Mr. a legal act in New York State. He Lundwall said, the senior executive ing, nervous that too many executives selected to lose their jobs were over 55. In the event of an age-'What, are we trying to corner the market on them?'" Mr. Lundwall discrimination lawsuit, he thought, the tapes would prove that he was following instructions.

> The meeting about documents in the discrimination suit made him equally uncomfortable. If everything was on the up and up, he wondered, why weren't the lawyers going to be

> Whatever his concerns, Mr. Lundwall showed few qualms during the meeting, according to the tapes and a transcript of them prepared by an independent investigator working for Texaco.

by a national association of black Mr. Lundwall and David Keough, M.B.A.'s beld promise, but nothing senior executive in the finance came of it. "We came back with a department, quickly found records stack of résumés that would knock that could prove troublesome and removed them from the pile. At one "But then the hiring result was zero. point, Robert Ulrich, then the com-So you start thinking, 'What are we pany's treasurer, asked who else might have copies of certain docu-

> "I don't want to be caught up in a cover-up," Mr. Ulrich said, according to the transcript. "I don't want to be my own Watergate."

Later, the men discussed how the documents might help the plaintiffs' lawyers. "We're going to purge" the books, Mr. Ulrich said, according to the transcript.

As the men examined a restricted document, Mr. Lundwall suggested getting rid of it. "Let me shred this thing," he said.

Citing the continuing investigations, Mr. Lundwall declined to comment on his role in the discussions on document destruction. Jonathan Rosner, a lawyer for Mr. Ulrich, said his client had not destroyed documents that he knew had been requested in the case. Stephen E. Kauf-man, a lawyer for Mr. Keough, said his client had not knowingly failed to comply with the instructions be received on the discovery requests.

6.94%

6.15%

Up 13 basis pts.

Later, according to the investigators' transcript, Mr. Lundwall recorded another conversation he had with Mr. Ulrich as well as with Peter Meade, a Texaco marketing man-

Mr. Meade commented that he bad been host for a New Year's Eve party, and made it into a party celebrating Kwanzaa, a traditional African celebration.

"How nice," Mr. Ulrich is quoted as saying. "These your integrated friends?" The executive replied no, that he was just kidding his friends. At one point, Mr. Ulrich expressed discomfort about Kwanzaa, an African harvest festival. "I'm still struggling with Hanukkah, and now we have Kwanzaa," he is quoted in the transcript as saying. "I mean, I lost Christmas. Poor St. Nicholas, they (expletive) all over his beard."

Mr. Lundwall's tape stopped recording minutes later. That day, he took the cassette, threw it into his desk drawer, and forgot about it.

Mr. Lundwall eagerly awaited Christmas in 1995. After years of skipping vacations for work, the holiday season become his family's time to relax at bome.

A week before his vacation was scheduled to begin, however, Mr. Lundwall was called into the office of James Link, who had replaced Mr. Ulrich when he retired. Mr. Link told Mr. Lundwall that he had some bad news: His job would be gone after June 1996.

The news stunned and angered Mr. Lundwall.

'You're talking about something that's going to happen six months down the road," Mr. Lundwall said. "It's bad enough telling a person they're not going to have a job, but do you have to do it when they're going on vacation? Couldn't they have waited until I got back?"

At home, his wife, Petria, could see his pain.

This is a man who worked for them for 30 years," Mrs. Lundwall said. "He gave up car pools so he could be there late; he had all those years where be didn't take vacation. He gave and gave, and then they just cut him off."

The timing could not have been worse. Thinking their finances secure, the Lundwalls had just built an addition to their house, paying almost $50,000. Now they would have to pay off that debt without much

Mr. Lundwall figured that another vear on the job would significantly lessen the financial plow. So in Jan ary, be applied unsuccessfully for two posted job opportunities at Texaco, interviewing with people who bad known him for years. That month, he had his last day in the finance department. He cleaned out his desk, and without a second thought, tossed the microcassettes into a box and headed home.

Technically still employed by Texaco, be was given a desk but little to do in its human resources division. Things seem to have struck bottom.

Then in February 1996, Mr. Lundwall had kidney failure. He was rushed to Danbury Hospital for surgery. And it was there, as he was recuperating, that an angry Mr. Lundwall finally remembered his tapes and listened to them.

For weeks, Mr. Lundwall said, he thought about what to do with the tapes. Besides his desire for revenge, he said he felt it was proper to disclose what happened in those meetings. He reflected on his own niece, who had married a black man and whose life is affected by racial attitudes. But still he was fearful that his slim chances for new work at Texaco might be destroyed.

'The right thing to do was come forward," he said. "But I needed to On his last day of work, Mr. Lundwall wandered over to the office of Bari-Ellen Roberts, the black executive who was one of plaintiffs in the discrimination lawsuit against Texaco. He walked in and closed the Casually, Mr. Lundwall asked Ms. Roberts if the case was continuing. "She said, 'Why do you ask?' " Mr. Lundwall recalled. "And I told her she might end up having another ingly took part.

provoked heated debate among communities walls might do the same."

age, his regrets mount. "Was it the right thing to do?" Mr.

A green Mercury Comet pulled up flash, the flat was changed.

The driver asked what she owed. Richard Lundwall smiled. Nothing, be replied. The next time she filled up, be told her, just think Texaco.

best thing since sliced bread."

"Growing up was rough," said time, we were on welfare." Mr. Lundwall attended school spo-

Texaco's failure to recruit and promote minority candidates was documented in its own employment numbers. According to court

European stocks F.TActuaries Europe	Up 0.13% 246.39
- I -l-u checke	Down 1.89%

F. IActuaries Pacific Basifi	102.77
Gold New York cash price	Up 0.89% $353.00	B B
and the second second second		100 h

Sources: Bank Rate Monitor; Stoomberg Financial Markets; The Bond Buyer; Datastro Goldman, Sachs; IBC's Money Fund Report; Memil Lynch; Standard & Poor's; Ryan Labs

March 10-14: After a 160-Point Drop on Thursday, the Dow Ends the Week Down 65

Down 0.54%

Down 0.56%

Down 0.65%

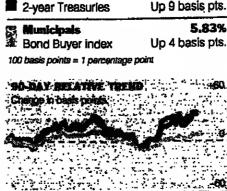

193.50

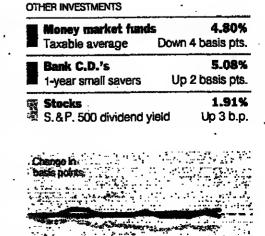

115.66

846.76

PRICES DOMESTIC EQUITIES Down 1.47% 793.17 S.&P. 500 index Down 0.93% Blue chips 6,935.46 Dow 30 industrials Down 1.21% Small capitalization 361.04 Russell 2000 index

The New York Times

ADOLPH B. OCHS, Publisher 1896-1935 ARTHUR HAYS SULZBERGER, Publisher 1935-1961 ORVIL E. DRYPOOS. Publisher 1961-1963 ARTHUR OCHS SULZBERGER, Publisher 1963-1992 ARTHUR OCHS SULZBERGER JR. Publisher

JOSEPH LELYVELD. Executive Editor GENE ROBERTS. Managing Editor

SOMA COLDEN BEHR CAROLYN LEE JACK ROSENTHAL ALLAN M. STEGAL

HOWELL BAINES, Editorial Page Editor PHILIP M. BOFFEY, Deputy Editorial Page Editor

JANET L. ROBINSON, President, General Manage WILLIAM L. POLLAK, Executive V.P., Circulat PENELOPE MUSE ABERNATHY, Senior V.P., Planning OANIEL H. COHEN, Senior V.P., Advertising RICHARD H. GILMAN, Senior V.P., Operation RAYMOND E. DOUGLAS, V.P., Systems and Technology CHARLES R. SHELTON, V.P. Distribution OENNIS L. STERN, VP., Human Resources

Bond Act Battles in Albany

The passage of New York's $1.75 billion Clean Water/Clean Air Bond Act last November counts as one of Gov. George Pataki's greatest achievements. But Mr. Pataki can boast about this accomplishment only as long as the public is confident that be is spending the money fairly and wisely.

Whether Mr. Pataki will do so is now a matter of heated debate in Albany. The act gives the Governor final power to choose individual projects and fund them - an open invitation, according to some Democrats, to target the money at traditional Republican strongholds. These critics are pressuring Mr. Pataki, who disbursed the first $101 million last week, to list all future projects in the budget for legislative approval.

On one level, this is just another Albany turf war. On another, it is an important argument over accountability and governance. The public must be sure that the money will be distributed on the basis of environmental need, oot political calculation.

Handing the Governor a lump sum and letting him spend it as he wishes is obviously not the answer. But giving the Legislature line-by-line authority over every project is an equally bad idea, an open invitation to every state senator and every member of the Assembly to grab a piece of the bond-act pie, at potentially great cost to larger environmental needs.

There is, however, a middle way, and it is contained right there in the bond act itself. First of all, the act obliges the Governor to pay careful attention to "management plans" that have been developed over the years by citizen groups and scientific advisory committees. These "on the shelf" master plans already exist for many major environmental problems requiring attention among them the oeed to preserve open space and to clean up Long Island Sound. The Governor can adjust these plans but he cannot stray far.

Second, the act requires the Governor to consult with the Legislature on $660 million worth of clean-water projects - over one-third of the total. As for the rest of the act, Mr. Pataki now promises to give the legislators a stronger role by creating potentially influential advisory councils that would include the majority and minority leaders of the Senate and Assembly.

The final spending decisions would still be the Governor's. That he bas gooe further than the act obliged him to in offering to involve the Legislature is a tribute, in part, to the persistent criticism from Richard Brodsky, a Democratic Assemblyman and a firm friend of the environment. But a bill that Mr. Brodsky has offered to add a whole oew layer of review seems excessive. The process is already complicated enough. It is important not only to spend the bond money wisely, but to do so in a timely manner. The longer environmental problems fester, the more expensive they will become. Someone has to make final decisions, and in our view they are best left to the Governor.

Mr. Pataki can at least be beld accountable. All but a handful of legislative districts are safe for their incumbents, which means the Governor is virtually the only politician in Albany who cannot count on re-election. The responsibility for spending $1.75 billion wisely is a big one. It therefore seems sensible to put the burden on a politician with something to lose.

Revving Up the Dow

The Dow Jones industrial average is the barometer by which many Americans measure good or bad times. Though only aficionados know how the stock index is constructed or what its ups and downs mean, people take it to be a measure of overall stock performance and — on the dubious assumption that what happens on Wall Street is intimately tied to what happens oo Main Street - economic performance. If the Dow rises, times are deemed good. If it falls, run for cover. This week, the overseers of the Dow, the editors of The Wall Street Journal, will make a change that could signal better times ahead. They will drop four laggard stocks from the Dow and replace them with potentially stellar performers.

The Dow is a difficult-to-explain average of the shares prices of 30 American companies with "blue chip" oames, like Boeing, Disoey and Coca-Cola, that signify success. Created over 100 years ago, the index was originally intended to capture the movement of important industrial stocks. It no longer does so. An average of only 30 stocks does not capture movement in the share prices of thousands of publicly traded companies. Also, an index limited to huge, largely successful companies reflects a sliver of the economy. Yet the Dow retains its popularity in part because of its storied history and because, despite its skewed makeup, its movements have not deviated wildly from those of broader market averages.

The index is periodically upgraded to reflect changes in the nation's economy. Toward that end, the Dow tomorrow adds companies in the emerging sectors of computers, finance and health care, and drops some in waning sectors like oil and steel. Specifically, the Dow adds Johnson & Johnson, Travelers Group, Hewlett-Packard and Wal-Mart, and drops Westinghouse, Woolworth, Bethlehem Steel and Texaco. It is no accident that the stock prices of the dropouts have done relatively poorly in recent years, while the prices of the entrants have risen bandsomely. Of course, the editors are not allknowing. Some of the companies previously dropped have done well, like Chrysler.

There is one group that might not relish a Dow jiggered to better track fast-growing companies. Financial advisers earn their living by convincing clients that they can pick stocks that "beat" the Dow. But if the Dow rises faster, the stock pickers will bave to get smarter to fulfill their boast. They would no doubt prefer a Dow loaded with corporate dogs, the better to convince some gullible investors that they have outsmarted the market.

Editorial Notebook

The China Connection

Add Up to a Picture?

The sophisticates of the political world never tired of saying last year that the Presidential race was dull, but its aftermath has been riveting. And even the sophisticates have had a bard time figuring out how government, politics and foreign policy intersected in the Clinton campaign's finances.

The narrative thread of this scandal surely starts with President Clinton's determination to turn his fortunes around after the electoral debacle in 1994, and the millions required to produce television commercials to do it. A good chunk of the money came from Asian-Americans with ties to business deals in China. Their contributions are no doubt no different from those of many other people wanting to participate in American politics. But a lot of interconnections need to be pursued if we are ever to understand what bappened over the last year and a half, and it is necessary to try to knit the known facts together with their historic context and some informed speculation.

A century ago, the term "Open Door" described Teddy Roosevelt's demand for a piece of the China commerce, which was dominated hy European powers. Nowadays, "Open Door" could describe both the desire of investors to get into China and the desire of the Chinese for a pathway into American politics.

Most foreign investment in China today is from the so-called Chinese diaspora — the millions of Chinese living in Indonesia, Thailand, Singapore, Malaysia and the United States. Traditionally, these ethnic Chinese have gained influence in their adopted countries by using their economic power to help politicians and governments. The simplest explanation of the fund-raising by Charlie Trie, Johnny Chung and John Huang is that the money they funneled into the Clinton campaign was in this tradition. In turn, they probably used their White House visits and picture-taking sessions to impress future business partners.

For investigators looking into Democratic fund-raising, these possibilities are less interesting than the Riady family of findonesia -- one of the most successful ethnic Chinese businesses in the world. Its links to the Chinese Government are more extensive than is generally appreciated. For example, the family's Hong Kong holdings are co-developers with China Resources, a Governmentowned entity, in six projects in China. Another Riadyowned entity has joined with China Resources in two

An internal to the second section of the development projects in Indo-When Will a Few Facts nesia, and a Riady bank bas a fluancing relationship with the China International Trade and Investment Corporation, the largest of the state-owned trading companies. Wang Jun, a top official at that company, was brought to the White House last year by Mr. Trie and Mr. Huang.

If the Chinese were trying to influence the American election, it certainly would not be a surprise. Taiwan has doled out millions over the years for Congressional junkets and public-relations campaigns that have won many friends in Washington. It does seem implausible, bowever, that the Chinese would give money secretly to such acerbic critics of Chinese policies as Representative Nancy Pelosi of California, who ooce tried to unfurl an anti-Government banner in Tlananmen Square.

A more likely possibility, according to some experts on China, is that Beijing may have been using the Riadys' connection to obtain something as precious as influence, which was information. The Chinese were shocked, for instance, when the United States allowed President Lee Teng-hul of Taiwan into the United States in 1995. His entry was a loss of face for the Chinese Foreign Ministry, which had assured everyone that it would never happen. What if the Riady family, which had received favorable business terms from the Chinese on a number of investments, had something to offer Beijing in return — its own former employee, Mr. Huang, in the inner councils of the Administration?

People who attended meetings with Mr. Huang at the Commerce Department recall that he rarely spoke up. But he retained at least some of his clearances when he moved over to the Democratic National Committee. No one is likely to claim that the Chinese living outside China turned Mr. Clinton into some sort of Manchurian candidate. But we can reasonably assume that something was going on, given the huge amounts of mysterious money flowing into the election campaign of the President and the rich variety of wellconnected players running through the story. With the amount of legal and journalistic energy now arrayed, it seems only a matter of time before the sprinkled facts are arranged into a pattern. One guess is that the warnings delivered to Attorney General Janet Reno and the National Security Council about Chinese efforts to influence the American election will look like understate-STEVEN R. WEISMAN

'Partial-Birth' Abortion Tests Moral Limits

In "Partial-Truth Abortion" (column, March 9), Frank Rich says that "politicians who porport to be 'prochoice'" but who vote for a bill to ban "partial-birth" abortions are "li-Nonsense.

Those of us who are pro-choice politicians, physicians and others who oppose this type of abortion do so not to stamp out infanticide or to cripple a woman's right to choose or a doctor's duty to recommend the safest option for abortion, as Mr. Rich suggests.

It is because "partial-birth" abortion is never needed or indicated. It is not necessary, since prostaglandin drugs to cause abortion are commonly and effectively used. There have to be some moral limits to how our society performs abortion. Condemning "partial-birth" abortion is one of those moral limita-FRANK H. BOEHM, M.D. Director, Maternal-Fetal Medicine

Vanderbilt U. Medical Center Nashville, March 10, 1997

To the Editor: Frank Rich (column, March 9) is the first to get it right:

Why would any woman elect to go through the borrible procedure of what critics call a 'partial-birth' abortion just weeks from delivery? Late-term abortions are not done frivolously, but only in dire emergen-

Saving Yellowstone Is Just the First Step

To the Editor:

Your March I3 editorial on President Clinton's "bargain" giving Crown Butte, a Canadian-based mining company, $65 million not to dig a gold mine on the edge of Yellowstone National Park does not consider the potential benefit of this deal.

It is true that Yellowstone's grandeur must be preserved, but what about the watersheds poisoned by similar operations? In Colorado, the Environmental Protection Agency has committed $135 million to try to revive the Alamosa River, made lifeless by mining contaminants. At the Fort Belknap Indian Reservation in Montana, chemical spills from a gold mine bave fouled the water and killed the fish Native Americans have relied upon for sustenance for

In 1872 Congress created America's first national park at Yellowstone and also enacted the Mining Law. Now Congress finds itself caught in its own historic intent. Buying off one mining company with royalties paid by Montana's coal, oil and gas royalties can set no precedent because these interests will not stand for it: gold miners, in contrast, have been exempt from paying any royalties on their barvest.

Western senators have failed to bring the 1872 Mining Law up to current land-use standards. If this is Mr. Clinton's way of forcing mining law reform, the real bargain will be in saving not only Yellowstone but in ending the degradation of invaluable water resources imperiled by openpit gold mining throughout the CHRIS F. FOTHERINGHAM Carpinteria, Calif., March 13, 1997 truly voluntary or the result of in-

Consumers Lose Protection With Arbitration

To the Editor:

Your March 10 front-page article. 'In Fine Print, Customers Lose Ability to Sue" rightly sounds the alarm about arbitration.

Erroneously touted as a new process of dispute resolution, arbitration is insidiously eroding the civil Arbitration removes the dispute from the evolved process of civil procedure and thus often removes. the weaker party from the protections of the civil justice system. Nothing should he judged in a vacwm.

Voluntary informed consent to binding arbitration is often an excellent way to avoid the costs and appeals of litigation.

But very little arbitration being imposed on the consumer today is

Of Scandals Past

To the Editor:

in "Scandals Past and Present" (Op-Ed, March 13), Leonard Garment says that "in the early cold war, the intense liberal anger provoked by Joe McCarthy and McCarthyism reached a climax in the Alger Hiss case."

Mr. Garment's chronology is backward. It was Hiss's conviction in January 1950 that emboldened Senator Joseph R. McCarthy to charge that the State Department was "infested" with Communists, beginning the era now associated with "McCarthyism." McCarthyism started with Alger Hiss. Unlike Whittaker Chambers, Hiss's accuser, Mc-Carthy never substantiated his charges. GEORGE HANNAUER East Windsor, N.J., March 13, 1997 formed consent.

Might not such pressured agree-

The writer is a lawyer. To the Editor: Resolving some disputes between

Atlanta, March 11, 1997

JUDY C. COHN

a customer and a business outside the courtroom is a healthy development (front page, March 10), but forcing all customers into arbitration programs paid for by businesses bodes ill for potential plaintiffs with true grievances.

We will now need to read all of those font-style statements in order to find clauses mandating arbitra-

Bryan, Tex., March 14, 1997

The ''partial-birth'' abortion ploy is an attempt by the forces of reaction to insert a wedge into the Roe v. Wade decision to eventually overturn it, just as they insert the wedge of "creationism" into the schools to JULIA WEINSTEIN deny evolution. New York, March II, 1997

To the Editor:

Frank Rich (column, March 9) rightly describes a variety of reasons for second-trimester abortions, in addition to financial need.

However, public financing for needed reproductive health services would significantly reduce both the number of unintended pregnancies and the number of abortions performed in both first and second trimesters.

BARBARA MILGROM MELROSE Amherst, Mass., March 9, 1997. The writer is a volunteer with the Abortion Rights Fund of Western Massachusetts.

To the Editor:

Frank Rich (column, March 9) implies that the worst fantasy of those who oppose abortion is that they "believe life begins at concep-

But it is a scientific fact, as any basic biology text will confirm, that life does begin at conception. The fetus is a live human being, distinct from, while dependent on, its mother. It deserves the full protection of its MONICA B. POTKAY Seaside Park, N.J., March 11, 1997

To the Editor:

Frank Rich says of "partial-birth" abortions (column, March 9) that The Washington Post reported "as many as several thousand" may be performed each year and that "noreliable statistics exist."

If no reliable statistics exist, where did Mr. Rich derive the information that "only some 600 abortions, no matter what the procedure, occur after the sixth month of pregnancy m the U.S. each year - all involving a tragically deformed fetus or a mother BRENDAN P. MURPHY m peril"? Santa Clara, Calif., March 9, 1997

To the Editor:

Your effort to promote truthfulness in the abortion debate (Week in Review, March 9) was undermined by your reference to the alleged link between abortion and breast cancer. and the suggestion that pro-abortion advocates are trying to cover up the truth.

In the breast cancer literature, some studies appear to show a slight increase in risk associated with abortion, while others do not.

'Perhaps' truth will be served, and this issue put to rest for the moment, by a study recently published in the New England Journal of Medicine finding "no overall risk of breast cancer among women with a history of loduced abortion." Your article did not belp to advance this JOAN E. BERTIN

New York, March 10, 1997 ments be abridgments of the First The writer is a clinical professor of Amendment? MARCO PORTALES public health at Columbia Universi-rather, they are real conditions associated with suffering and death and are subject to remedy and fundamental to justice. DAVID RICHARDSON

The writer is a graduate student in Chapel Hill, N.C., March 10, 1997

higgin

and the eri Te

COUNTY AT

ج جرية

miller pa

31

13:0E-2-

E-15 :-

R 75

name .

ر ين زون

ing pays

---

*3.je-.

icre g

ances o

Sept.

in lask as

and entire

Serous a Italian co

3 Scient

'CT:--::03

Pertain

its of the a

Sauches in Science in

 $T_{5996}$

'Karma' Doesn't Explain Bad Health of Poor

Richard A. Shweder claims that "no one knows why" the poor suffer higher rates of morbidity and mortality (Week in Review, March 9). He suggests: "Perhaps it is karma. Perhaps it is in the genes. . . . Perhaps it

Since Mr. Shweder's discussion moves across a range of outcomes, from mental illness to cancer, com-

Yet he shouldn't have to look far for evidence that differences in dangers on the job correlate to social status and that managers tend to be safer than workers on the shop floor. Socioeconomic differences in access to and quality of bealth care affect disease prevention and a patient's prognosis.

None of these have to do with kar# ma, genes or statistical artifacts:

To the Editor:

is a statistical artifact."

plexity would seem appropriate.

epidemiology, University of North

Talking About Drugs

To the Editor:

President Clinton has talked to his daughter, Chelsea, about his experiences with marijuana (news article, March 13). One wonders what he told her. Surely he did not say that the people he smoked with went crazy or became sick or addicted to heroin. Most of those Rhodes Scholars became lawyers, academics and public servants. Was that bad? Perhaps, but most do not think so. The truth is that marijuana is bad because it is illegal and zealots could ruin a person's life for using it. Also, it is mind-altering, and adolescent egos can't take it. It should be regulated like alcohol, which we also keep away from young people, but allow them to use their own judgment when they are 21. It's time we stopped lying to kids; then they might believe us about cocaine and MARTIN KELLMAN

Bloomfield, N.J., March 13, 1997

Cloning and 'Us'

To the Editor:

Re "Cloning Now Demands That We Ask: Who Do We Want to Be?" (letters, March I3): I was struck by the use of "we," "us" and "our" in these letters, as if we all partake in the course of this development There's also an implied anachrunistic assumption that the United States is still the sole and virtuous bastion and arbiter of technological power.

Is there any doubt that one day we'll see news articles about young Wall Street warriors shopping not for-Lamborghinis but for the genetically. engineered and expensive special attributes of their offspring? The sentiment "providing the best for our children" will take on a dramatic. new meaning. There's that "our" again. MARIO ELYTW

New York, March 14, 1997.

Don't Make Uganda Wait for Debt Forgiveness

To the Editor:

"Global Banks Offer a First: Forgiveness on Some Debt" (news article, March 12) points out the historical significance of the initiative by the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund to reduce the debt of the world's poorest countries. However, you fail to report the efforts of the United States and other Group of 7 industrial nations to delay action on this initiative.

At meetings this week at the World Bank and LM.F., the United States advocated that Uganda, the first country to be eligible for relief, wait another two years before qualifying for debt reduction, even though it has complied with economic reform measures dictated by these institutions for more than a decade.

The Ugandan Government has made a public commitment to reallocate funds currently speot on debt repayments to universal primary education for all Ugandan children. Only balf of these children now at-

The Times welcomes letters from readers. Letters must include the writer's name, address and telephone number. Those selected may be shortened for space reasons. Fax letters to (212) 556-3622 or send by electronic mail to letters@nytimes.com, or by regular mail to Letters to the Editor, The New York Times, 229 West 43d Street, New York, N.Y. 10036-3959.

tend school. Delaying debt relief has real human costs. Uganda is not the only African government that spends more on debt repayments than it does on primary health and education combined. A successful debt-for-development example in Uganda could demonstrate that it is possible in Africa to translate debt reduction into direct human benefits. Rather than seeking to stall the debt relief process, the United States should take the lead in pushing the initiative for-

RAYMOND C. OFFENHEISER President, Oxfam America Boston, March 12, 1997

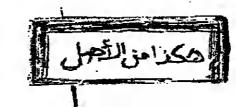

The New York Times 229 West 43d St., N.Y. 10036-3959

ARTHUR OCHS SULZBERGER, Chairman Chief Executive Officer RUSSELL T. LEWIS, President Chief Operating Officer Olane P Baker, Senior Vice President Chief Financial Officer and Treasurer KATHARINE & DARROW, Senior Vice Presiden LEONARD & FORMAN, Senior Vice President JOHN M. O'ERIEN, Senior Vice President

DONALD S. SCHNEIDER, Senior Vice Presiden

SGLOMON B. WATSON IV, Senior Vice Presiden

LAURA J. CORWIN, Secretary

Journal

FRANK RICH

WhoCan Stand Up?

"Can anyone stand up to the Church of Scientology?"

Such was the plaintive question asked by The St. Petersburg Times in an editorial last week, and with good reason. The great American religious saga of the 1990's may be the rise to power of a church that has successfully brought the Internal Revenue Service, the State Department and much of the American press to beel even as it did an endrun around the courts.

As Douglas Frantz reported in The New York Times a week ago, Scientology in 1993 suddenly metamorphosed from a controversial and highly lucrative organization, with an extensive history of criminal ac-tivity in the 1970's, into a bonafide nonprofit religion — at least as far as the U.S. Government was concerned. That's when the LR.S. turned its back on 25 years of its own rulings and gave Scientology the tax-exempt legitimacy it had long craved. What made this decision startling was not only the LR.S.'s contradiction of both itself and various court decisions on Scientology's tax status, but also the mysterious circumstances that hrought on the about-face. Scientology's victory was set in motion in 1991 when two of its leaders dropped by the LR.S.'s Washington headquarters unannounced and somebow secured an audience with the agency's then Commissioner, Fred Goldberg

Why did Mr. Goldberg afford some of the 1.R.S.'s most feroclous longtime antagonists the red-carpet treatment John Q. Taxpayer would oever receive? He isn't saying, and the fateful meeting was not even recorded in his appointment calendar. Nor do we know what is in the agreement that the LR.S. and Scientology subsequently negotiated since the LR.S. also acceded to the church's demand for secrecy. What we do know, thanks to Mr. Frantz, is that the settlement followed years of costly Scientology litigation against the LR.S. and an extensive investigation of I.R.S. employees by Scientology-hired gumshoes.

Scientology will stop at little to try to silence its foes. Time magazine had to spend $7 million to successfully defend itself against libel - a decisioo now under appeal — after its 1991 exposé of Scientology as a "hugely profitable global racket." The Cult Awareness Network, a Chicago-based organization that battled cults, was driven to financial ruin by litigation brought by Scientologists and their associates; now it's in the hands of a Scientologist and proselytizes for the church. The Tampa Tribune, The St. Petersburg Times and the Clearwater, Fla., police department are currently under vicious attack by the Scientology magazine, Freedom; that's the price they must pay for pursuing the mysterious 1995 death of a 36-year-old Scientologist who had been planning to leave the church.

The rise of the Church of Scientology.

Those who police Scientology as if it still might be a racket - most harshly Germany, which regards the church as a "pseudo-science" sowing psychological and financial ruin - are invariably labeled Nazis by its leaders. Because of the LR.S. decision, Scientology complaints about foreign governments are now treated officially as human-rights grievances by the State Department, Madeleine Albright, who has already raised the issue with Germany, may eventually have to take other allies to task as well. The Washington Post reported on Jan. 27 that a Greek judge closed a Scientology church center in Athens for "medical, social and ethical practices that are dangerous and harmful" and that an Italian court ordered jail terms for 29 Scientologists found guilty of "criminal association."

Perhaps these governments are Nazis, too, and the LR.S., whose senlor officials defended the legal merits of the agency's decision in conversations last week, is right: maybe Scientology, which charges its followers tens of thousands of dollars for the mandatory counseling sessions it calls "auditing," is indeed a benign nonprofit organization entitled under tax law to be underwritten by American taxpayers. But given the cost of this decision, shouldn't all the circumstances surrounding it be revealed? And where are the network TV interviews with David Miscavige, the Scientology leader whose casual visit to the LR.S. in 1991 hrought such blessings? No one can say he isn't newsworthy. As the head of an empire that purports to have eight million followers, he is the spiritual ruler of the most successful new religion to be founded in this

TALL.

Anything Goes. It's the Law.

By Charles Lewis

WASHINGTON he Czech leader Vaclav Havel wrote in his book "The Power of the Powerless" about the importance to government of "ritual, facades and excuses." Without them, he said, "one of the main pillars on which the system rests would be undermined: the integrity of the world of appearances."

One of Washington's enduring rituals is that whenever politicians get in trouble, just about the first thing out of their mouths is that they have done nothing illegal. As things get more desperate, they may even say, "I am not a crook." If, after lengthy investigation, they are not indicted, they will then claim that they have been "completely vindicated." That's what Attorney General Edwin Meese 3d did in 1988, even though an independent counsel concluded in an 830-page report that Mr. Meese "probably violated the criminal law" on four occasions.

Since the almost daily revelations of fund-raising improprieties began last August, President Clinton and his people have consistently hidden behind sophistry of their own. The essential strategy of the final three months of the Presidential campaign was to deny flatly that anything illegal had occurred and to keep the President, Vice President Al Gore, the fund-raiser John Huang and Democratic Party officers away from reporters' embarrassing questions.

Obviously, from the narrow, amoral perspective of winning in November, it worked. It is not illegal, of course, to stonewall. In Washington, that is smart politics. What is right or wrong or true becomes irrelevant.

The prevailing laissez-faire ethics in Washington are those of the legal profession, which is not comforting. Only in Washington could Elliott Abrams, a lawyer and former Reagan Administration official convicted of withholding information from Congress in the Iran-contra investigation, go on to become the president of something called the Ethics and Public Policy Center. (He was pardoned by President George Bush in 1992.) Only in Washington could Michael Abell, a lawyer who led the Justice Department's efforts to extradite drug traffickers to the United States, quit his job and, months later. give legal advice to the Cali cartel.

Ours is a Government of laws and lawyers. The President and the First Lady are the first White House couple with legal backgrounds. The Clinton first-term Cabinet had more lawyers than any in history. Lawyers and lohbyists were the most generous contributors to Mr. Clinton in-1992 and 1996, according to a review of Federal campaign records by the Center for Responsive Politics.

I have nothing against lawyers. But it is hardly surprising that officialdom has used legalese to frame every questionable fund-raising practice uncovered lately. Election lawyers and tax lawyers regularly exploit loopholes. In a similar spirit, Clinton White House lawyers created a paper trail of opinion and interpretation to try to indemnify themselves from criticism.

More than a year before the election, the President decided it was essential to raise huge sums of campaign cash for unprecedented media advertising. He and the Vice President did everything necessary to accomplish that, from flying loyal donors on Air Force One to granting "face time" to hordes of fat cats at golf outings, V.I.P. briefings, over

Charles Lewis, executive director of the Center for Public Integrity, is the author of "The Buying of the Presi-

The Clintons lead the way in hiding behind legalisms.

coffee, breakfast, lunch, dinner, drinks and sleepovers at the White House. No President has more systematically or successfully sold personal access to moneyed interests by using such symbolic vestiges of pow er as the Lincoln Bedroom.

Last August, after a Center for Public Integrity report first revealed the names and contributions of 75 people who had spent the night in the White House, a Presidential spokesman-called-our report "ridiculous."

"The Lincoln Bedroom was never sold," the President has said. In general, he has defended his actions, saying on one occasion, "We got strict advice about - legal advice out what the rules eryooe involved knew what the rules were." But the evidence suggests the

What may have been technically legal was politically stupid and ethically wrong. Take the 350,000-oame computer database that cost $1.7 million in taxpayer dollars. The White House counsel wrote that the database could be used only for "official purposes," and a July 1996 memo from the counsel's office said that providing information "to any outside source, including any campaign committees, for unofficial purposes is an impermissible use." Under fire, White House mouthpleces have said the database was used only for official purposes, even though we now know that Democratic National Committee workers routinely used it as a fund-raising tool.

When reporters inquired about the 23 employees of the D.N.C. who were working as "volunteers" in the White House, they were told that the practice is not illegal because of a Justice Department memorandum from the 1980's arguing that a party organization can pay a White House worker's salary. There is no evidence, however, that anyone actually did this ben October, when the D.N.C. decided not to file its Federal Election Commission report, the committee's press secretary, Amy Weiss Tobe, said. 'We're completely on firm legal ground." After a firestorm of criticism - oo party has ever decided not to disclose its contributions and spending to the F.E.C. on the eve of a national election - the D.N.C. reversed its decision.

After the First Lady's chief of staff, Maggie Williams, somehow received but did not really accept $50,000 from Johnny Chung, a party fund-raiser, in the White House, Hillary Clinton said, "She's an honorable and courteous person and what she did was legal and proper under the prevailing rules." A photo of Mr. Chung and the President reportedly was later used to advertise beer in China. But that was oot illegal.

The White House interpretation of the law has sometimes shifted within days. When the story of the Clinton coffees hit, the White House press secretary, Mike McCurry, said, "There is a separate restriction that exists for the solicitation of funds for political activities which cannot occur oo these premises . . . We did not solicit here at the White House."

Days later, when news broke that Mr. Gore had made phone calls from the White House soliciting campaign money, the Vice President, with his counsel, Charles Burson, standing nearby, made his peculiar utterance that "there is no controlling legal authority or case that says that there

Essay WILLIAM SAFIRE

Helsinki Hopes

The joke on the phone from Moscow has two guys in the front seat of a speeding car. One shouts "Turn the wheel! We're going to crash!" and the other says "I can't." "But there's a stone wall ahead — turn now!"
"Can't." "Why not?" "Because you have the wheel."

Boris Yeltsin has the wheel and is shouting at others to turn Russia's economy from disaster. He's six months late and $10 billion short in payments of wages to teachers, the police and the military. Unions plan an all-Russia general strike at the end of

To show the world who's back oo the job and in charge, Yeltsin put on a display of activity last week, firing everybody in sight except his passive Prime Minister, and the only reason that political zomble escaped is that Yeltsin doesn't want the Communistdominated parliament to have its say in picking a successor.

The man Yeltsin brought back through the Kremlin revolving door is Anatoly Chubais, whom Yeltsin kicked out in the last shuffle. He is the former reformer who privatized much of Russia's assets by putting them in the corrupt hands of the old apparatchiks. the Russian mafia and the "seven brothers" oligarchy that runs the banking and media industries.

Chubais has some of the qualities of our Jim Baker: considered shrewdly manipulative by insiders, and rejected as an unprincipled cold fish hy voters. He's smart enough to know further flirtation with the weakening Communists or the would-be Man oo Horseback Lebed will not hring in Western capital to revivify the economy.

was any violation of law whatsoever."

behind them love to cite legal precedents. President Richard Nixon, for example, surreptitiously but legally taped hundreds of cooversations in the Oval Office, using taxpayer money, and his lawyers argued unsuccessfully all the way to the Supreme Court that those tapes should not be released because of "executive privi-

The current Clinton scandal is in its relative infancy as scandals go, and the extent of any wrongdoing is

Lawyers and politicians who hide

Where do Yeltsin and Chubals turn, now that they have given the illusion of having cleaned house, to find honest officials who know what they're doing - and, more important, who know what to do to get Russia out of its rut?

The answer: democratic reformers. Not the shock therapists who have oo following, but to the "new blood" in Yabloko, the only serious non-Communist party, which has 8 percent of the Duma seats and is building a cational political organization.

still unclear. The Clinton defense and refrain for six months now are that But Chubais, 41, has a personal problem with Yabloko: its leader, nothing is illegal (even though the Grigory Yavlinsky, 44, is his rival.
"I love Grisha," Chubais told me last year, "but he's impossible." Democratic Party has promised to return $3 million in illegal contribu-tions) and that everybody does it, which is oot true. But despite all the Chubais sees the stubbornly incorruptihle Yavlinsky as having yazh v shtanakk, "a hedgehog in legalistic explanations, one important question remains: Just where is the President's moral compass? his trousers," being what we might call "a pain in the posterior." How does Chubais, back in power for the time being as First Deputy Prime Minister, hring in the good guys to help without the "impossible" chief good guy? Divide and conquer, Last week, he offered five of the Yabloko leaders hut not Yavlinsky - key domestic ministries, from economic-financial to social policy and privatization. These were all men who pointedly refused to vote for Yeltsin in the last election. But the reformers did not splinter. Acting as a unit, with a suddenly friendly television media giving Yavlinsky time to express his support on prime time, the chosen handful from Yabloko stuck together and published a set of conditions for coalition.

Clinton should change subjects.

The plan: force all Government officials to reveal income and property holdings; cut the bureaucratic apparat of the president; make monopolies like Gazprom, railways and arms manufacturers pay taxes; propose oew laws to attract foreigners to develop natural resources. Yavlinsky's demand: "human rights, private property, competition, payment of debts to the people."

Will Chubais swallow all this reformist good sense and sell it to Yeltsin? Not if he can avoid it. But if the tide of resentment keeps rising, and the alternative is Lebed, he may be inclined to do the right thing for the Strange things can happen. Who would have imagined, three months ago, a Russo-American summit with a frisky Russian President and the U.S. leader on crutches, literally and politi-

Bill Clinton, who has oot been weakkneed on NATO enlargement, should stop apologizing for protecting Poland and start hringing in the Baltic states.

He should stop making concessions on NATO troop positioning and change the subject to how America would respond positively to a Yeltsin coalition with Yabloko's democratic reformers.

Sure It's a long shot. But in this world of topsy-turvy political fortunes; what's a summit for?

New Encyclopedia of Zionism and Israel

In many respects, the history of Zionism is co-extensive with the history of the Jewish people in the last hundred years. The intense debate between proponents and opponents of Zionism has abated only with the renewal of Jewish statehood in 1948, when world Jewry rallied in support of the newly-born state.

Produced by the team led by Dr. Geoffrey Wigoder as Editor-in Chief, with articles contributed by professors, diplomats, journalists, politicians - all experts in their respective fields, this 1521 pp. two-volume encyclopedia presents a comprehensive reference source for anyone seeking authentic knowledge of the whole subject of Zionist history and the State of Israel. Herzl Press Publication.

JP Price: NIS 479.00 incl. VAT and door-to-door delivery (where available)

POST
STATE OF ISRAEL IS BORN
DINIL OF TOWNER TO DUNN
rechair beit der wie find hande werbinde.  Mit wert sough seigne der bei hande werbinde.  Mit wert sough seigne der bei hande werbinde.  Der gelege is der der die de Taglage finde fin der sough seigne der der der der der der der der der de Most Consided Mostry in 1885 Intel 1882 by the St Fact Spillers   E.S. MCDS-1855   Fractamental by Most Published Mistage   1886
Chines Com. Bules Settler Save Settler
The state of the s
PORTON CONTROL OF THE PROPERTY PRINTING BY STATE OF THE PRINTING BY STATE OF
to have a second of the harder
ACE CATEGORY DATE TO THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPE
The same of the sa

THE PALESTINE

To: Books, The Jerusalem Post, POB 81, Jerusalem 91000 Please deliver New Encyclopedia of Zionism and Israel (2 vol.). Enclosed is my check payable to The Jerusalem Post, or credit card details:

□ VISA Number	□ ISRACARD	DINERS	_Εφ	·-
			· ·
City		Code	ID No
Tel.(day)		Signature

Controlling Old Demons by Forcing Them Into the Light

By E.R. SHIPP

EITHER Esther Allison Brown nor Johnnie Will Shipp Sr., my father, would have been comfortable with John Singleton's new film, "Rosewood" - and that has nothing to do with esthetics or accuracy.

"What is all this digging up?" Miss Esther, who was then 85, challenged me a few years ago after I pumped her about the Allison plantation near Statesville, N.C., and what became of the former slaves who were her kinsmen and mine. As one of her granddaughters and I beaded out to roam through the old cemetery in search of my missing past. Miss Esther added: "I don't know what y'all hunting them old dry booes for.'

My father, who died in 1993 at the age of 70, was less perplexed than close-mouthed. He initially denied having known his paternal grandfather, Shelton Shipp, a former slave who died when my father was about 8. And he refused to say anything about his World War 11 experience of battling Nazis as well as racist white Americans uotil I finally dragged out of him this simple declaration: "It was rough."

Even after "Roots" - the book and the television mini-series that came out in the 70's - Miss Esther and my father stood as fortresses to protect their progeny from the painful, though rich, African-American heritage. So did others of their generation, as had their parents and their grandparents. Blacks were not alone, however, in wanting to keep closed the doors to the truth.

"Ours is a morbid history," Mr. Singleton said in an introduction to the book "Rosewood: Like Judgment Day" by Michael D'Orso (originally published as "Like Judgmeot Day: The Ruin and Redemption of a Town Called Rosewood").

'Most of us try to avoid it," be said, "Black people don't want to remember having been the victims of lynchings and rapes. We don't want to linger on the separation of our families, living under Jim Crow and all the borrors that kind of life eotailed. And white folk don't want to remember perpetrating that kind of persecution."

With the unfettered hubris of youth, a degree of revisionism and the detachment that comes from growing up oulside the South, Mr. Singleton, a 29-year-old Californian, bas tackled a long-lost episode of American history and claimed it for his generation as a metaphor for racism. With a few differences.

homage to westerns, action movies and "Schindler's List" — is the massacre of an unknown number of blacks by an angry white mob and the annihilation of their nearly aliblack town, Rosewood, Fla. But Mr. Singleton has conveyed that sad tale in a way that allows his contemporaries to see possibilities of heroism amld the victimization.

Survivors lived in fear that if they talked of what they saw during those hellish days in January 1923, members of the mob would track them down and resume the bloodletting. "My grandma told me oot to say a word," Robie Mortin, who was 8 in 1923, recalled last year in The New York Times. "My grandma said never to look back. We weren't supposed to talk about Rosewood."

Io the early 1980's, some of them broke the silence and talked to journalists. As they found their voices, the story of unimaginable horror was recounted in newspapers, in magazines, on "60 Minutes" and in 'Like Judgment Day.' While "Rosewood" the film may be breaking oew ground with its bigbudget backing by Warner Brothers, stories like Rosewood's - of black settlements destroyed and blacks forced into exile - are not unique. They are merely hidden, only rarely eveo the stuff of wbispers and legends retold at family reunions. "Earlier generations didn't want to talk about slavery or deal with the kind of pogroms or whatever you want to call it that white people carried out in places like Rosewood," said the essavist Gerald Early, director of African and Afro-American studies at Washington University io St. Louis, But now, he suggests, blacks are interested in creating "an epic narrative of what their experieoce means in the Western world."

Among recent works in this category are these:

'Malcolm X," in which Spike Lee angered purists with the liberties he took in his 1992 account of the life of the black nationalist leader who was assassinated in 1965.

• "Daughters of the Dust," Julie Dash's elegiac 1992 film about the last days of a Gullah family on the Sea Islands off South Carolina and Georgia. In choosing greater economic opportunity on the mainland, the family left behind an African heritage few other black Americans could lay claim to.

· "Posse," in which the actor-director Mario Van Peebles focused on blacks who populated a West usually depicted as white, Mexican and episode as by 19th-century history.

"Panther," Mr. Van Peebles's 1995 movie about the Black Panther Party, which was formed by young blacks in Oakland, Calif., in the 1960's and spread across the country before it was destroyed by its leaders' criminality and self-destructive tendencies and a relentless campaign by J. Edgar Hoover.

● "Tuskegee Airmen," a 1995 HBO movie with an all-star cast of young black actors told the story of World War II fighter pilots wbo were never properly honored as beroes

• "Bring In da Noise, Bring In da Funk," in which the theater wizard George C. Wolfe and the tap dance kid Savion Glover use dance to trace the American history ol blacks, from slave ship to the Million Man March. • "A Huey P. Newton Story," Roger Gueoveur Smith's one-man show at the Joseph Papp Public Theater, touted in press releases as "the mythic rise and tragic fall" of the cofounder of the Black Panther Party. • "Miss Evers' Boys," an HBO film, shown last month, that is a fictionalized account of bow for 40 years more than 400 black men were used like guinea pigs so scientists could observe the effects of untreat-

All these stories are shaped by a present largely depicted in the popular culture and by news media as marked by racism, violence, police brutality, welfare dependency, brokeo families, drug abuse and alarming rates of incarceration. The artists whose work has pierced mainstream consciousness this decade offer an alternative narrative.

'They want to understand their American experience oo their own terms," Professor Early said. "All of that adds up to me to be a very Important exercise - an emotional, psychological and intellectual exercise - for black people as they begin to exert some degree of control over how they wish to be interpreted in the culture.'

Control is key. The director Melvin Van Peebles insists that historically, most black artists have sought to define the African-American experience; the difference now, he says, is access to a mass market available to directors like Mr. Singleton, Spike ee and his son, Mario.

"I've seen many scripts that told these stories," sald Mr. Van Peebles, "but those scripts were not given the opportunities they're being given today, It's like saying, when the barn door opens and horses are-stampeding out: bave horses suddenly taken to running?

Malik Yoba, a member of the emerging generation of artists, ech-The story he tells - with obvious oes that sentimeot: "The lack of pertinent stories regarding our history is directly attributable to the fact that we are not power brokers in this industry," he said, noting that fewer than 2 percent of the members of the Directors Guild of America are people of color.

Some black creative artists - the painter Jacob Lawrence, the playwright Amiri Baraka and the actorfilm makers Ivan Dixon and Ossie Davis - have always made the past the foundation of their work. In the 70's, Mr. Dixon and Mr. Davis tried to bring the Malcolm X story to the big screen but were unable to muster the Hollywood backing that Spike Lee eventually received.

Mr. Singleton, whose debut film was the acclaimed "Boyz N the Hood" in 1991, has acknowledged of "Rosewood" that "no black man bas had the opportunity before to direct a film like this in this context and on so wide a canvas."

Like millions of people, in ways obvious and not so, Mr. Singleton is a beneficiary of "Roots" which 20 years ago brought history alive for Americans of all origins, while especially imbuing blacks with a sense of what Robin D. G. Kelley, a professor of history at New York University, calls "peoplehood." .

Ever since, the visual arts, film and theater have drawn on the 'Roots' metaphor, he said. "A lot of the work from that point on took for granted the African past."

That alone distinguishes Mr. Singleton and his cohort from my own: we, who celebrated the rare appearances of blacks oo television in the 50's and 60's in roles other than the half-naked primitives who populated. "Tarzan," oeeded "Roots" to explain to us that we had a past worth acknowledging. Mr. Singleton's generation of film makers and play-rights can take that for granted. And thus, "Negro psychology," as Mr. Wolfe calls it, can fall by the wayside because this oew generation is not trying to redeem the image of blacks as maids, mammies, mamas, buffoons, butlers and Buck-

In this era, he says, they are less interested in "telling stories that only show nobility and strength-and courage" than in showing the "complexity of human behavior." They can concentrate on 'going after the story as opposed to going after the

That means having the freedom to bring to the screen and to the stage flawed heroes like Huey Newton, love stories unconstrained by the fear of stereotyping blacks as sex American Indian. The 1993 film was machines and rhapsodies about shaped as much by the Rodney King black life before the civil rights movement.

Eveo as they pursue a bolder and more complex depiction of African-American life, the new kids on the block are undergoing the rite of passage required of every generation of black artists and intellectuals: wrestling with the enormity of racism and struggling to carve out an identity for themselves as African-Ameri-

"People of John Singleton's generation are trying to figure out how to be black in a society where everything seems so hybrid and mixed," Professor Kelley said. "Some are Princeton and Yale grads; some grew up in suburbs. They know a lot, and they are also trying to be black. They're trying to figure out how to negotiate that blackness. Part of that exploration involves bistory."

In "Rosewood," Mr. Singleton responds to the facts of life in the 1990's and offers bis generation an idyllic past in which black families are intact, loving and prosperous, and a black superhero who changes the course of history when he escapes the noose, takes on the mob with double-barreled ferocity and saves many women and children from death. The director tops it off with a tender romance, a war hero and the possibility of a happy ending.

<sup>6</sup> Mr. Singleton defies the image of blacks as mere victims even in retelling this dark hour of African-American history; with an eye on current racial conflicts and the rash of church burnings that made headlines last year, be conjures up black heroes standing tall - perhaps the only way to attract his contemporaries to a historic episode that on the surface is solely about black victim-

His film may be stereotypical and cliché-ridden to audiences accustomed to seeing their stories rendered on screen, but many black moviegoers are entranced by this tale that has its roots in a past about which they know very little, The film is inaccurate only if one expects it to be a documentary. It is not. What it is, however, is disturbing, especially to some white moviegoers in whom it stirs feelings of guilt Some critics of "Rosewood" take issue with Mr. Singleton's embellishment of the facts and the creation of Mann, the reluctant hero. Indeed, a reviewer for The Houston Chronicle, typical among the critics, regretted that the movie "assumes a lot and then makes up a lot more.' One response is this: When a people's history bas been deliberately obliterated, how can anyone question attempts to piece together that history from the shards that remain, using artistic license to fill the gaps? As Henry Louis Gates Jr., the author and chairman of the Afro-American studies department at Harvard University, makes clear in regard to black artistic endeavors rooted in African-American history: "To reassemble fragments, of course, is to engage in an act of speculation, to attempt to weave a fiction of origins and subgeneration It is to render the implicit as explicit and at times to imagine the whole from the part."

But there is another response to the charge that Mr. Singleton "assumes a lot and then makes up a lot more." He didn't stray too far from the truth. The basic story of "Rosewood" hews closely to the facts set out in a 1993 report prepared by researchers from three Florida universities and titled "A Documented History Of The Incident Which Occurred At Rosewood, Florida, In January 1923."

The characters in the film bear the names of people who lived in Rosewood. Sumner and surrounding hamlets. Some are clearly composites; for instance, John Wright, the white store owner in the film, is credited with saving (and in one instance betraying) black neighbors when, his was among several families that did so. But even the heroic Mann, who was created for the film. bears some history and traits of the real Sylvester Carrier, whose nickoame was Man. Like Carrier, Mann was a World War I veteran and, by most accounts, fearless.

Indeed, the story told by Mr. Singleton and the screenwriter Gregory Poirier resonates oot solely because so much of it is verifiable as baving takeo place in Rosewood in January 1923, but because events like it most certainly took place elsewhere in that area and in that era.

The report prepared by the Florida academics in 1993 notes: "From Chicago to Tulsa, to Omaha, East St. Louis, and many communities in between, and finally to Rosewood, white mobs pursued what can only be described as a reign of terror against African Americans during the period from 1917 to 1923."

For all these reasons it is nearly impossible for blacks familiar with that bistory to view "Rosewood," flaws and all, with dispassion.

When a white man in the movie callously tosses Mann's World War I discharge papers to the floor, I can't belp thinking of my 93-year-old grandmother's uncle Jodie Aikeo, whose service has been similarly diminished. As best as I can tell from family stories and meager courthouse documents, he died in the | 95 Lime and Army in France in 1919. But the Laurence Fishburne, left, and Cuba Gooding Jr. in "The Tuskegee Airmen"-Pilots who were never properly honored as heroes.

United States Government has oo record of him.

When the sheriff on the screen tells Sylvester Carrier to get out of town if be knows what's good for him, I hear whispers in my family about my pateroal grandfather's brothers, who, early in this century, were likewise told to leave. What became of Will Shipp is still a mystery; John Shipp was killed in Gary, Ind., in 1931,

And when the movie mob takes as trophies body parts sliced off blacks who are lynched, I can't belp thinking of the experience of the scholaractivist W. E. B. DuBois, as recounted recently in the PBS documentary "W. E. B. DuBois: A Biography in Four Voices,"

In 1899 a black man was lynched in a town not too far from Atlanta, where DuBois was on the faculty of Atlanta University. Recalling how the incident affected DuBois, the historian Herbert Aptheker said:

"He was going to the newspaper, The Atlanta Constitution, to register some kind of a complaint. Walking down the main street of Atlanta, be passed a butcher shop and on display with a label were the knees of the victim - next to the pigs and the pork. He saw that, and didn't go to the oewspaper. He went back and

A tally kept by the Tuskegee Instltute (now University) between 1882 and 1964 records 4,752 lynchings. Nearly all of them occurred in the N.Y.U.

South; practically all the victims were black — and, yes, some of them were occasions for parades and picnics, as depicted in "Rosewood."

The drumbeat for a Federal antilynching law, led by the N.A.A.C.P., reached a peak in 1946, after the widely publicized lynching of two black couples by a score of white men in the Georgia county of my roots. One victim, George Dorsey, had recently returned bome from fighting in the Pacific in World War

That story, like Rosewood's, was buried for nearly half a century until a man came forward to tell what he bad witnessed as a 10-year-old. Until then, neither blacks nor whites who knew what had happened to George and Mae Dorsey and Roger and Dorothy Malcom ever talked about it. As in Rosewood, many blacks moved away and started new lives.

There were four shooters initially." Clinton Adams told The Atlanta Journal-Constitution in 1992. "Then, when they fell to the ground, these men just stood over them, shooting into the bodies and up in the trees. Everybody was shooting. Everywhere." That's not unlike a scene in "Rosewood."

Responding to this story, the son of a man who had been sheriff at the time of the murders questioned the value of recalling what bappened at Moore's Ford, Ga., in 1946. "If all it's going to do is stir up old memories, it can't do anything but hurt folks," said Judge Marvin Sorrells. "Who wants to talk about Nagasaki and Hiroshima? Who wants to talk about Dachau? Well, probably those things need to be kept alive, but this thing, 1. don't see anything positive to come from it.'

The judge and my older relatives are not alone in questioning the value of delving into African-Americans' tragic history. On the eve of the premiere last month of "Miss Evers' Boys," some bealth-care workers worried that by dredging up the past, the film would reinforce a distrust of government - and deter. blacks from participating in experimental AIDS treatments.

But there is a need to wrestle with and even tame the demons of African-American history for reasons that go beyond the Singleton generation's way of explaining the present. .

the past have a bearing on the present, says Professor Kelley of

LOGICAL CAREER CHANGES BY DAVID J. KAHN / EDITED BY WILL SHORTZ

ACROSS 1 Cruelty 7 Conspicuous

16 Metered rental 19 1979 Vanessa Redgrave title role

20 "You --- Beautiful" 21 Naturalness

22 Santawinds

23 PLASTIC SURGEON 25 Trisyllabic cadences

27 Landon from 28 GARDENER

30 Play to --- (deadlock)

31 Hamlin's "L. A. Law" co-star 32 Apop 33 "Yikes!"

34 Fraternity 35 Lively ones

36 Storm type 38 — Friday 39 Reddish brown

40 Curator's deg. 42 Really enjoys oneseli

45 Female friend of Franco 46 Feel-good times

49 Cassio's adversary 50 Injured, in a

99 Short dog, for short 51 Eye problem 100 Joined 52 Spice used in pickling 102 Force: Lat. 103 Ax 55 Order

106 Old Norse collection 57 Valueless item 107 MARRIAGE COUNSELOR 58 Neighbor of Turk. 60 Take-home 110 --- Piedras, P.R. 81 Slave of Amneris 111 Enhearten

111

115

98 Zestful

63 St. Louis pro 65 Old English letter 115 Bird with a 66 BASKETBALL white tail REFEREE 116 Expos V.LP. 70 Quite some

71 Even 72 Royal Ascot 120 Squeal 73 House vote 74 Blue

75 Economic stat. 76 Org. involved in 78 'Small endocrine 82 Early Germao

84 Some schools, informally 86 Perceive

15 Sparkle

24 Ribald 113 CATTLE BREEDER 26 More primitive

117 Copier, for short 116 Anna Pavlova, e.g. 119 37-Down, in Oberhausen

121 Fatty ---122 Longed DOWN 1 Leaves for a restaurant?

2 Quick 3 Bats 4 Sheraton's parent 5 Boutique

12 Harbor sight 13 Certain hose 14 Bavarian river

68 King, Pope or

77 March ender.

79 Burning

80 Shortage

69 Fleischer's Olive

83 Brings into play

85 Part of a bray

Countess

89 Overhangs

91 Arm-twisted

88 "Twelfth Night"

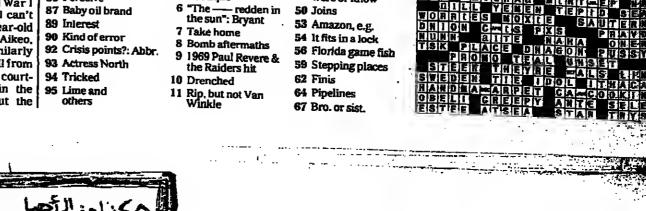

16 FISHING BOAT CAPTAIN 17 1493 Columbus landing site 18 Most abject

29 Kind of computer 35 TOY DESIGNER 36 With 96-Down, movie pioneer

38 Dotty 39 Pasty 40 City near Hartford 41 BAIL BONDSMAN 43 Exposer

37 N.F.C. ---

44 JUDGE 46 Judy Blume best 47 CHIROPRACTOR 48 Words with gry A TITLE FREC. There was ROOM IN ME STATE OF E. . ..... Star to CORP. A.

121 a. . .

SCHOOL SECTION

3 Ca . D. C

head for the la

Ct I

202 2

éne en 🚞

grait' --

m I water

ATTE A 15.7. V.

k-k: ·---

93 Family room feature 96 See 36-Down 97 Leftovers? 99 Word of mouth

100 --- nerve 101 Wynonna's mother 103 1993 Aerosmith hit 81 Comet competitor 104 Seating request 105 Wrote down

107 Slipper without a back

108 West Point mits. 169 Ring results 90 Become emotional 112 Right to influence 114 Cambodia's ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

"All the things that happened in and the second of the second 11850 ALEM POST some of them rades and picbeewood ..

Federal anti-M NAACP

se, after the whing of two

Dore of white county of my corge Dorsey d home from

to Worki War sewood's. Was to tell what he

Mear-old Until ter whites who med to George

Roger and many blacks

med new lives

shouters initial.

the Atlanta to 1992 Then & ground, these them, shooting

up in the trees.

boung Every.

adike a scene in attory, the son of strenii at the

* questioned the hat happened at

1946. "If all It's old memories,

ben hurt focks."

Sorrells "Sign

Nagasak: and ants to talk about

ably those things

e but this toung !

positive to come

THE TOUGHT THIS HIVES

ectioning the val-

o African-Ameri

ry: On the eve of hime. health-care

poteld remirece a

dent — and leter

coating in expensioners

denters

denters

for realizational

coating process

age the present the happened in Brazur, - we

Beased (1997)

month of Mass

Culture clash in Zichron Ya'acov

When a shop opened on Shabbat in Zichron Ya'acov this month, the ultra-Orthodox blocked the entrance with a funeral hearse. Religious-secular tensions nearly boiled over. Now residents are trying to restore tranquility to their quiet town, Larry Derfner reports the local legend about the cows and the Shabbat sign is being repeated often these days in Zichron Ya'acov, a small town south of Haifa. The sign, propped up at the entrance to Hanadiv Street where the town's two main synagogues stand, asks drivers to respect local tradition and stay off the road during Shabbat prayers. In decades past, when Zichren (founded in 1882) was still a tiny moshava - before it began going after the weekend tourist trade, before the yuppies discovered it and built their new cottages on the slopes - and when cows still strolled through the center of town, even they would detour around Hanadiv Street on Shabbat morning. So, at least, it is said, and people here like to believe it.

The sign has three "don'ts" in it. don't disturb the worshipers, don't drive on the street during Shabbat prayer time, don't damage the sign. But the "don'ts" are only visible up close because someone has tried to scratch them out.

Drivers still tend to avoid Hanadiv Street during prayers, but a few have begun to "do davka." [just for spite], says Yishai Shibovsky, Zichron's local council head for the last 22 years. Both secular and religious residents here say they've always gotten along wonderfully. "I used to live in a haredi neighborhood, and I would drive on Shabbat, but I always parked my car a few blocks away so I wouldn't bother anybody, says Avraham Herzl, who runs a fruit-and-vegetable store.

"I have secular neighbors, and we respect each other," says a religious woman with a scarf over her head. "Everybody knows everybody else here; it's like a big kibbutz," she explains. But in this old, quiet town of heartbreaking beauty, there is now tension over the issue of Shabbat. It isn't even remotely on the scale of Bar-llan Street in Jerusalem, and there is nothing that could be called religious-secular hatred here; in fact, many if not most secular residents side with the religious including Shibovsky, a Labor Party man. The conflict has less to do with ideology and more to do with the difficulties of making a living in this town of 10,000 without upsetting the local harmony. There is a tremendous store of goodwill in Zichron, but it has been strained by economics. The tension simmered for a while, then got com-pletely out of hand two weekends

Late on Friday afternoon, local haredim drove a burial society hearse to block the entrance to Antikon, an antique shop on the Hameyasdim pedestrian mall that had begun opening on Shabbat, in violation of local and national law. Amos Meroz, whose wife, Alice, owns the shop, called the Meretz party and the media. Between radio news bulletins and the secular activist network, over 1,000 protesters, including party leader Yossi Sarid, drove in from as far away as Beersbeba to gather outside Antikon to show support. "It was the biggest news Zichron has made in 115 years," says Shibovsky, nnhappily.

Since that crazy weekend, things have calmed down quite a bit, Nobody wants such commotion again. The local haredi leader, Deputy Mayor Itamar Bar-Ezer, who denies accusations that it was he who dispatched the hearse to Antikon, admits the tactic was "a big mistake."

Yet Antikon opened again last Shabbat. So to did three other craft shops in and around the pedestrian mall. "We know we're breaking the law, but it's an unjust law," maintains Ruti Anchelovich, owner of the Yetzira Mekomit ceramics shop. She has collected some 700 petition signatures, mainly from out-of-towners, to change the law against Shabbat business, and a few hundred locals signed at the beginning of last week. However, no big demonstrations occurred over Shabbat, and the Druse Shabbat patrols, that were sent to Zichrouby the Ministry of Labor and Welfare a month-and-a-half ago were not dispatched last

Amos Meroz near a sign pointing the way to his wife's shop, Antikon, open on Shabbat.

AROUND the beginning of February, the inspectors warned the Merozes that if Antikon continued doing business on Shabbat, the inspectors would return and summons the owners to court, where they would be liable for a fine ranging from a few bundred shekels to NIS 7,000. The Merozes were in a bind; for years, Antikon had closed on Shabbat, depending almost solely on the thin local trade, and barely broke even. But in recent years the city invested huge sums in restoring the center of town to the style of old Zichron, with turn-of-the-century-style lampposts, stone walls, along with a few other galleries, opened on Shabbat and their businesses picked up dramatically. Now threatened with fines, and the prospect of a near-empty cash register once again, Amos Meroz, who used to be production manager of the Cameri and Haifa theaters before moving to Zichron seven years ago, got creative.

"The idea came to me like a thunderbolt," he says with a laugh. The law, he reasoned, forbade Jewish shopkeepers from opening on Shabbat, but not gentiles. His lawyer drew up a contract, and Meroz's Moslem friend, Kasi Ramsi from the nearby Arab village of Fureidis, agreed to "buy" Antikon on Fridays for NIS 10, run the store on Shabbat, then "self" it back to Meroz after Shabbat was over. This has been going on now for about six months.

The system doesn't sit well with many residents. "Every child knows this 'sale' has no legitimacy," the religious council stated, calling it a "media gimmick to save a failing business.

Yehiel Cohen, the secular owner of the "Duvdevan" kiosk a block away from Antikon, says he could draw huge numbers of customers on Shabbat, but prefers to stay closed. "I have nothing against restaurants opening on Shabbat, the tourists have to have someplace to eat. But if the galleries can stay open, why not the camera shop and the shoemaker and everyone else? Israeli society has to be different, it has to behave in a Jewish manner,"

Antikon and the craft shops are setting a dangerous precedent, say the local critics. They're afraid that little by little, Zichron could become like Daliat cl-Carmel or Usfiya, Druse villages which are wide open for tourists on Shabbat.

"People have always lived together here, and I don't want the status quo to change. I want Zichron to remain the moshava it always was," says Herzl, whose produce store stands across the street from Antikon.

"We've always had understanding here, there's never been any religious coercion. But Shabbat is the day of rest, that's the law. Only now some people think they can come up with bright ideas to get around it," complains Shibovsky.

This community won't allow it," he warns. Meroz insists that Antikon and the other galleries are doing what they can not to offend anyone. "We don't open on Shabbat until after 11 a.m., by which time everyone has finished prayers and the synagogues are empty," he notes. He points out that his wife's fashion shop stays closed on Shabbat. "It runs on local trade, not on tourists, and we don't want to aggravate anyone for no reason," he explains. Bar-Ezer is not impressed. He wants Shabbat in Zichron to be like it always was - a quiet day without business, not in galleries and not in restaurants. But he doesn't want to block anybody's door again and he doesn't want demonstrations. So what will he and his allies do? "I believe in the ways of gentle persuasion," be says. Such as? "If the restaurants agree to be glatt kosher, perhaps the haredim will begin eating there during the week, and the restaurants will have enough business so they won't have to open on Shabbat And after eating in the restaurants, it stands to reason that the haredim would wander into Antikon to buy, if the shop were closed on Shabbat," he suggests.

Would Meroz go along? "I'll consider any proposal to prevent a culture war," he says. "If Itamar [Bar-Ezer] comes to me with an idea, I'll welcome him."

Not every religious-secular dispute has to lead to a culture war. Whatever mistakes were made. whatever mistakes may yet be made, people here will be praying, or at least hoping, for the peace of Zichron Ya'acov.

EARTHLY CONCERNS

Sealing up Chernobyl

By D'VORA BEN SHAUL

nuclear reactor A.Chemobyl in Ukraine suffered a massive explosion, new technology should at last seal the leaking sarcophagus that surrounds its remains. The sarcophagus, which is built of reinforced concrete, began cracking and breaking apart only a few months after it was built and it has remained a major source of concern ever since. Experts have repeatedly warned that any slight tremor in the earth around it, or a sudden burst of atomic activity within the buried core of the old reactor, could release clouds of radioactive material that could be even more harmful than the tons of material that escaped into the winds at the time of the initial explosion.

Over the years the weakened sarcophagus has shown more and more damage until, at the present time you can even notice birds flying into and out of cracks in the structure. Repeated attempts at rescaling the dome have failed and cracks reappeared within a short at sealing the sarcophagus for

But now, thanks to a new material produced in Russia it may be possible to completely seal the space between the reactor and the surface of the sarcophagus. The material is in the form of a thick gray foam made of silicon elastomers that are resistant to radiation. Using this foam scientists say that it is possible to completely entomb the reactor in a radiationproof shield.

The material, called EKOR, was developed by scientists at the Moscow-based Kurchatov Institute and financed by Eurotech. Now the La Jolla, California, branch of Eurotech has been given the go-ahead to apply the 35,000 cubic meters of EKOR that will be needed to seal the tomb. Two types of EKOR are available, one a soft spongy mass and the other that dries to a hard shell.

Both will be used. Eurotech's Randolph Graves says that EKOR does not burn and will contain radioactivity for up to 200 years.

time after the repairs were made. about 8-10 years while a new conover the old structure.

The filling of the tomb with foam will cost about $200 million. This is two-thirds of the preliminary budget for the entire clean-up of Chemobyl that has been pledged by the G7 group of industrialized

In addition to the use to which EKOR will be soon put in Chernobyl, scientists say the material has a large range of possibilities in other places, principally in sealing radioactive materials where they are rather than transporting them and/or trying to find possible means of further disposal. It may also be used to seal up the more than 400 nuclear reactors that are to be decommissioned before 2030.

The solution, say, the experts, will provide a breathing space while methods of ultimate disposal and perfected. Graves says Eurotech sees a potential market of hundreds of billions of dollars for elaborate gratings and red shingle roofs. Restaurants and cafes, which are allowed by law to open on Shabbat, began doing so, forfeiting their kashrut certificates in Tourists began pouring into Zichron on weekends. Antikon,

Minimum LOTTO 1st prize - tomorrow

LOTTO makes more millionaires Laugh all the way to the bank

BUSINESS

Teledata plans $51m. secondary offering

Teledata Communications of Herzliya recently informed the US Securities and Exchange Commission of its plans to raise $51 million through a secondary offering of 2.76 million shares, or 23% of the company's stock. The Nasdaq-traded company will issue 1.08 million of the shares, while 1.68 million will be sold by other shareholders. The company expects that the offering - which will be underwritten by Smith Barney, Oppenheimer & Co., Cowen & Co. and Robertson Stephens & Co. - will take place in April or May this year.

A Teledata spokesman said the company's current circumstances make the timing right for such an offering. "In 1994 and 1995 the company was in crisis due to a slowdown in sales and [the fact that] we didn't get our new technology to the market on time," said the spokesman, who requested anonymity. "But in 1996 the company earned $7m., and this gave us the feeling that the company had matured and the timing was right to go and

The spokesman said that Teledata, a developer of telephone network components used to connect subscribers to a local exchange, will use the money to prepare for an expected growth

Meanwhile, Salomon Brothers recently gave the company a stellar report, noting that Teledata has "succeeded in changing its image from a turnaround story to a strong player in the local lonp segmeot, which currently enjoys tremeodous momentum."

Prudential: Number of Israeli IPOs to rise

The number of local companies to make initial public offerings on US equity markets is expected to rise 40% - 60% this year from 1996, which was a record year, according to Paul Scura, head of investment banking at Prudential Securities in New

Scura arrived here last week to participate in a Tel Aviv symposium for Israeli companies on gning public in the US.

Last year 18 local firms registered their shares for trading on US markets, compared with six in 1995. There are currently 75 Israeli firms listed in the US, second only to Canada as the foreign country with the most companies traded in the US. Galit Lipkis Beck

Bezeq to buy $5m. worth of Siemens hardware

Bezeq will purchase a mobile digital phone exchange with 5,000 direct lines and 250 ISDN (integrated services digital oetwork) lines from Siemens in Germany.

Acting Bezeq director-general Avi Hochman announced this yesterday, adding that the choice was made in an international tender in which Siemens came out ahead of Erikssen of Sweden and Telrad and Tadiran in Israel.

The equipment, costing about $5 million, is needed to supply high-quality services in an emergency or in places where the infrastructure has oot yet been completed. The need for such a mobile exchange was realized after the major fire at a Petah Tikva phone exchange over two years ago. Judy Siegel

Strauss family debating possible Elite takeover

and Jerusalem Post Staff

"There are differences of opinion within the Strauss family regarding the Federman family's offer to purchase our shares in Elite Industries, hut we have sufficient time to consult and come to an agreed decision on the issue," Strauss chairman and CEO Michael Strauss said yesterday.

Last week Elite's controlling shareholder, the Federman family, nffered to purchase the Strauss Group's holdings in Israel's leading sweet and snack producer. The nffer was based on a company value of $517 million, more than double the company's market value.

Meanwhile, the Globes financial daily yesterday reported that Strauss has already received at least five offers from prospective partners, both local and foreign, who would ostensibly shoulder his takeover of Elite, should he choose to carry it ont.

members are fully involved in deciding whether to agree to Federman's offer, would not hint at who is taking what stance, following the proposal. Under the Strauss-Federman

Strauss, who said all the family ownership agreement, the Strauss family can instead, within 60 days offer to purchase all of the Federman family's shares in the company at a price 2.5% below Federman's offer.

Federman intends to purchase Strauss's holdings in Elite in part-nership with Jafora-Tabori. Assuming Strauss decides to decline the offer and purchase Federman's shares instead, Federman will pay $1 million in compeosation costs to Jafora, which is one of the country's leading soft drink producers.

The Federman family currently holds 26.28% of Elite's voting shares and 13% of its capital shares, while the Strauss Group, through Gideon Holdings, cootrols 19.17% of the voting shares and 17.59% of the capital shares. The Federman family decided to trigger the Buy Me/Buy Out mechanism of the two partners joint cootrol agreement after Strauss announced its intentions to hreak up the agreement. The decision was made about one year the food company.

Michael Strauss

"You cannot manage a company under two captains," said Strauss. explaining that the decision to end the partnership stemmed from dif-ferences of opinion on how to manage Elite, which completed 1995 with a net loss of NIS 6.8m.

Elite has since then undergone a process of reorganization intended to help it cope with increased compection from large interna-tional food conglumerates. The company finished last year with a NIS 18.1m. profit.

Commenting on Jafora's intention to enter into a joint-management agreement with Federman, Strauss emphasized that the success is dependent on the management combination.

If they do not reach the right combination they will find that within six months or more they will be forced to separate," said

Yaf-Ora is controlled by Clai

Industries and Israel Cold Storage

Heineken purchases 51% of Tempo

By GALIT LIPKIS BECK

Dutch beverage producer and distributor Heinekeo has signed a letter of understanding to acquire 51 percent of Tempo Beer Industries from controlling shareholders Moshe Podhorzer and the Beer-Bornstein family, Tempo said in an announcement to the Tel Aviv Stock Exchange. It is not yet clear exactly bow many shares Heineken will actually purchase and at what price. Ooce Heinekeo purchases the shares, Tempo will be split into two companies. The first will be active in the beer market, while the other will focus on noo-alcoholic beverspecifically Pepsi. Heineken will control the beer company, which is the source of

The purchase will put an eod Tempo. The Beer-Bornstein of the three-year family dispute family will therefore have to sell to the three-year family dispute at Tempo between controlling sbareholders Jack Beer and Moshe Podhorzer.

Last mooth Podhorzer gave Heineken and Beer an option to acquire his 44.5% bolding in Tempo for $42 million.

The Beer-Bornstein Group, which includes the son of the company's fonoder, the late Moshe Bornstein, has committed itself to purchasing Podhorzer shares at the offer

The option was given for 90 days, until the end of April.

Podhorzer made the sale of his shares conditional upon them eventually winding up io the hands of Heinekeo and the Dotch company's holding of at least 50% of the shares io Heinekeo at least 5.5% of their shares.

Market sources said Heineken may end up paying less for the shares than the Beer-Bornstein family has agreed to pay Podhorzer.

The letter of uoderstanding was signed at the eod of last week in Holland io the preseoce of senior Heineken representatives and Tempo chairman Jacques Beer, who oegotiated the agreement.

The companies are expected to sign a final agreement within a mooth or two.

Tempo's division into two companies is expected within a few months, after Heineken becomes a partner in the compaThe split is subject to the approval of the Income Tax Commission. Pepsi International, which has an option to purchase 50% nf Tempo's soft drink company's shares, is oot expected to take advantage of this optioo, said Tempo chairman Jacques Beer. He said Pepsi has a worldwide policy to reduce its involvement n franchises.

Tempo sources expressed fear that Tempo's soft drink division will be forced to make major cutbacks after the spin-off as a resolt of the strong competition currently prevailing in the market. Tempo's major soft drink competitors, Coca Cola and Yaf-Ora, have managed to iocrease their share of the market in recent years at the expense of

Long-term savings down 19%

By DAVID HARRIS

Long-term savings have shrunk by 19 percent since the beginning of the decade, according to data released yesterday hy the Bank of

In 1990, the public held nearly half its financial assets, or 47.4%, in long-term savings, a figure which has dwindled to 38.2%, the central bank said. In 1994, there was a five percentage-point upturn, hut since then the downwards trend has resumed.

These are the latest in a series of statistics which have led the Treasury to call for the implementation of measures aimed at encouraging long-term savings, of 10 years and upwards, part of a concerted effort to revitalize Israel's capital markets:

However, there has been considerable criticism of the proposals from outgoing Treasury directorgeneral David Brodet.

The Brodet committee report's central recommendation was to tax short- and mid-term savings to persuade the public to investigate

(000

MIN TOTAL

2000 - 7.

70 To -

Wille Co. C.

- حتت احت

ACCCC ...

25 3 7 1

EMELINE :

della :

To 1

CAS ...

1270 No.

and o

ar access and en mara .

Σ No. 25 (

Ta Maria

Sexual dis

22.7

S ....

COTTO

Mode : 12

ebe -5E ....

Trans.

The Marine

200 come .

Electric Transfer

Mai 123 : 74.

A SECTION ...

excel per

The Court

Marie 1

Mesi Aute.

1 3 E.

TRACE CONTRACT

assista and

Fact CALLERY

HEH:

Commstock

MANY SHATES

Ablied by Pa

diterranean

€ 09-958-587

supplied b

Minstock Tra

thical failur paccura;a

the longer-term alternatives

Led by the Prime Minister's Office and the Bank of Israel. opponents say such a move will come down hard on the poorer members of society. As a result, the proposals are still in limbo. with Finance Minister Dan Meridor constantly pledging to reintroduce them to the cabinet at the earliest opportunity.

The Bank of Israel data also indicated that the public did increase its shareholdings in floated companies. This trendexpressed itself through increases in direct share purchases and greater use of trust funds.

Since 1994, there has also been a move away from provident funds to more fixed savings schemes and bank deposit accounts. One of the explanations for this, according to the bank, is the stagnation in the capital markets, amid the cancelation of provident fund designated bonds since the mid-1980s. Another factor was the central bank's high interest rate policy in receot years, which has meant savers could receive relatively high remms oo short-term savings. The bank says the public has concluded that the provident funds do oot assure it of stable returns from year to year.

Meanwhile, overall long-term savings fell some 1% in real terms last year, totalling NIS 226 billion, In a separate announcement the bank said M1 money supply rose 3% last month. This followed a 3.4% increase in January. M1 includes the sum of currency, demand deposits, travelers checks and significantly reflects the cred-

Indigo cuts losses to $13.4m. in fourth quarter

By JENNIFER FRIEDLIN

the black in the fourth quarter of 1996 by registering net losses of $13.4 million, compared with $18.5m. for the corresponding period a year earlier.

Revenue for the quarter dropped from $37.2m. to $23.8m.

For the year, the company reported net losses of $73.8m., compared to a loss of $40.5m, in 1995. Revenues fell 37% to $103.9m. from $165.8m.

The market responded enthusiastically to the better-than-expected results, sending Indigo's Nasdaqtraded stock up 13% to close at of our shareholders," company The company also amounced a $5,9375 on Friday. CPO Shlomo Nimrodi said in a newly-created office of the presi-$5.9375 on Friday.

maker of electronic color-printing products also announced that it raised $20m. and is in the process of raising an additional $10m. from new and existing investors. Among the investors are the Landa Pamily Trust, whose beneficiaries include Benny Landa, Indigo's founder and chairman, and the Chatterice Group, an affiliate of Soros Fund Management. The private placement, in which a new investor, as well as existing shareholders, have participated indicates the continuing confidence

The company said it will use the investments for research and develcoment and to enhance its marketing channels. Since slashing its workforce from 1,300 at its height in mid-1995 to its current 750, the company is now planning to hire more salesmen internationally.

The company's restructuring plan also resulted in the recent dismissal of Wayland Hicks, who served as president and CEO of the company, and Frank Steenburgh, who served as president of Indigo America, due to poor sales in North America.

ny's four top executives, who will all report directly to Landa.

Annual savings resulting from the recent management change are expected to be some $2m. A restructuring charge in excess of $3m. will be recorded in the first quarter. The company does not expect to reach profitability before the end of the year.

Based in the Netherlands, Indigo N.V. develops and manufactures a line of short-run printers. The company has wholly-owned subsidiaries in Israel and the US.

By GALIT LIPKIS BECK

Africa Israel will emerge as a six-company group once it implements

new owner Lev Leviev's reorganization plans, announced yesterday, to establish three new firms - Africa

Israel Real Estate Holdings, Africa

Ares-Serono completes InterPharm takeover

Ares-Scrono S.A., a leading Swiss developer and marketer of pharmaceutical products, has purchased the outstanding shares of InterPharm Laboratories Ltd. for $40 million, the company reported yesterday.

As a result of the acquisition, Ares-Serono, now owns 100 percent of InterPharm, a Ness Ziona-based. healthcare biotechnology company.

Israel International and Africa Israel

Africa Israel already owns three subsidiaries - Africa Israel Industry and Trade, Africa Israel Hotels and Under the new structure for the real estate, tourism and industrial holdings company, six firms will operate as business divisions, each with its own subsidiaries, some of exchange. "The structural changes are intended to deepen the compa-

as well as expand its existing invest-

Revenue Producing Properties.

Danya Cebus.

The purchase will mean that InterPharm will receive greater assistance in developing and market-ing its products, Ares-Serono CEO Ernest Bertarelli said.

"We are in a position to focus our manufacturing capabilities at InterPharm, as well as its research and development expertise in recombinant pharmaceuticals," Bertarelli said. In the last 15 years, invested some $150m. in InterPharm and has funded research projects at the Weizmann Institute, he added. Interobarm manufacturers human growth hormones, monoclonal antibodies and human beta interferon, a

Ares-Scrono and its affiliates have it given hy the banks to the business sector. This data, along with the 1.2% protein secreted by human cells that can protect certain cells from viral increase in the Consumer Price Index, published on Friday, will be taken into account when the central bank announces its key lending rates for April on Sunday.

Leviev plans to make Africa Israel a six-company group

The Ministry of Finance

THE ACCOUNTANT GENERAL Bids are invited for the supply of the following goods, required by various government agencies throughout lersel: Tender 4/97 - Miscellaneous paper products Tender 5/97 - Tollet paper, paper towels and paper for industrial use

Minimum tender participation conditions are given below. Offers which do not comply with these conditions will not be considered. 1. Bidders should have at least 3 years' experience in supplying paper products. 2. Bidders should have experience in supplying paper products to large organizations and/or government minist 3. Bidders must be capable of supplying all the paper products in the tender specification in the appendices, in whatever quantity is ordered, with delivery to any location.

4. The bidder should attach to his application all the documents required under clause 12. 8. The bidder should submit to our office all information requested on the attached tender appendices, including the price for each of the requested items. Each page must be signed separately. 6. A bidder must attach to his bid confirmation from the israel Standards Institution, or from a body authorized by the institution, that the bidder has instituted the procedure for obtaining approval, in accordance with Israel Standard 2002 (ISO 9002). The bidder must undertake to complete the procedures to obtain the approval and report on progress in this connection every three months. The ministry will verify the supplier's report on progress towards obtaining the large! Standard instution's

The ministry will take all necessary steps to protect and grant priority to leraeli products and to regions of national priority as required by the laws, regulations and guidelines which will be in

6. The last date for submission of bids for both tenders is moon on Thursday, May 1, 1997. Applications for the tender documents should be made by fax only, to 02-5317778, giving the following information: Subject of Tender

Name of company bidding Company's address, with postal code Bank at which Company has its account. branch no.

The tender documents and technical specifications will be sent after receipt of a fax, as aforesaid. Our address: Tenders and Buying Dept., The Accountant General, Finance Ministry, 1 Kaplan, 7th Floor, Room 714 or 715, or P.O.B. 13195, Additional details from Tel. 02-5317428, 02-5317418. No undertaking is given to accept the lowest or any bid.

Mutual Fund for Foreign Residents

טרגט TARGET (מטרה)

Date: 13.3.97 Purchase Price: 162,17 Redemption Price: 159.84

leumi pia אים יחולי

leumi pia אים יושורי

Date: Purchase Price: 114.71 Redemption Price: 113.23

PARTICIPATIE MAATSCHAPPIJ GRAAFSCHAP HOLLAND, N.V.

(hereinafter: "the Offeror") (a subsidiary of Assicurazioni Generali S.p.A.)

A Notice Concerning the Establishment of the Final Price for the Purpose of an Acquisition Offer Specification for the Purchase of Shares in Leumi Insurance Holdings Ltd.*

Notice is hereby given under Paragraph 2.2 of the Acquisition Offer Specification for the purchase of shares in Leumi Insurance Holdings Ltd. dated March 12, 1997, that the final Purchase Price, adjusted to the Consumer Price Index published for February 1997 (145.4 points) is NIS 3.3142 per share.

PARTICIPATIE MAATSCHAPPIJ GRAAFSCHAP HOLLAND, N.V.

"This is a translation of the Hebrew notice published in "Hearetz" and in "Mazaiv" on March 16, 1997.

For current information on securities in Israel and the U.S. Including high-yielding U.S. government-backed debentures, call: MEYERSON

& CO., INC. A Publicly Traded Company NASDAQ Symbol: MHMY Brokers and Dealers in Securities

525 Washington Blvd., 34th floor P.O.Box 260 Jersey City, NJ 07302-0260, Corporate and Institutional Inquiries Jeffrey E. Meyerson, V.P. rmational Banking Division 1-201-459-9511 Fax: 1-201-459-9499

Retail Customer Inquiries: Eric J. Logan, V.P. National Sales Manager 1-201-459-9500 - 1-500-888-8118 Fex: 1-201-459-9510

Our specially trained sales person will be available to discuss your investment needs.

ments to new activities like high tech and other revenue-producing fields," management said.

The firm intends to seek opportunities in Eastern Europe as a first step to developing overseas activities. Leviev has years of experience in the Eastern European market through his diamond business and contacts with Jewish communities.

Africa Israel, which currently controls and manages the Holiday Inn which will be floated on the stock chain here, has plans to manage new hotels, as well as invest in new projects in the real estate field. ny's activities in Israel and abroad, In related news, McDonald's announced that Africa Israel is trying to return a check which was paid as a pre-rent payment for commercial space in the Ramat Aviv mall, which is scheduled to open in six months.

Earlier this month, Africa Israel's board of directors decided to close the mall on Shabbat, despite opposition from some businesses that intended to rent commercial space. According to McDonald's, which has already invested in the complex on the basis that it will operate on Shabbat, Africa Israel's actions are illegal. The fast-food chain refuses to take the check back.

12 MONTHS

5.375 4.250 2.125 1.000

ISBASE MONEY MARKES Patah (foreign currency deposit rates) (11.9.96) Currency (deposit for:)
U.S. dollar ($250,000)
Pound sterling (£100,000)
German mark (DM 200,000)
Swise franc ($F 200,000)
Yen (10 million yen)

3 MONTHS
4,750
3,875
1,825
0,625 6 MONTHS

frames and infi	THE OF TOWNS	CHEIL BIORCE	red accou	ding to de	DOESO .
Shekel F	oreign Ex	change !	Rates*	14.3.97)
•	CHECKS AND				Partt.
	TRANSFERS		BANK	NOTES	Rep
	Buy	Sell	Buy	Self	Retes
Currency basket	3.6087	3.6670		- Coun	3.6510
U.S. dollar	3.3346	3.3884	3.27	274	3.3730
German mark	1.9566	1.9882	1.92	202	1.9784
Pound sterling	5.3197	5.4056	5.22	5.49	5,3796
French franc	D.5800	0.5894	0.57	0.60	0,5863
Japanese yen (100)	2.6990	2.7426	2.65	279	27295
Dutch florin	1.7389	1.7670	1.70	1.80	1.7580
Swiss tranc	2.2768	2.3138	2.23	2.85	2 3008
Swedish krona	0.4301	0.4371	0.42	0.45.	0.4349
Norwegien krone	0.485B	0.4937	0.47	0.51	Q 4915
Danish krone	0.5128	0.5211	0.50	0.68	15,5184
Finnish mark Canadian dollar	0.6553	0.6859	0.64	0.88	0.6626
Australian dollar	2.4483	2.4858	2.40	2.63.6	24749
S. African rand	2.6589	2.7012	2.61	275	26574
Belgian franc (10)	0.7548	0.7668	0.68	0.77	c
Austrian schilling (10)	0.9483	0.9636	0.93	0.00	0.9588
Creation (1998)	2.7801	2.8250	2.73	2.077	28105
Italian Ikra (1000)	1.9637	1.9954	1.93	250	.9853
Jordanian dinar	4.6400	4.9600	4.64	400	74 7559
Egyptian pound ECU	0.9500	1.0300	0.95	1 03	2,0149
	3.7976	3.8589	100	-2	7.323.83 9 37
insh punt	5.1953	5.2791	- 5.10	/ gine	7 5 250 T
Spanish peseta (100)	2.3042	2.3414	2.26	2.00	2.3297

These rates vary according to bank. **Bank of

SOURCE: BANK LEUM!

algalem Pos: 4 lesponsib equences ( eschou wec of these C aders who will Sering or misc:

W eddressed ssien past . # P.O.B. ST

Key Representative Rates

COMMODITIES

ROUNDUP

Precious

metals futures

close lower

BY MICHAEL ZWEBNER

COMPA and NYMEX precious

mends futures ended lower Friday.

in featureless trading and moderate volumes, ahead of the expiry of April gold, silver and platinum

An analyst said that gold demand in the first quarter was running at the Gold imports by Dubai, a center for gold distribution to India, the world's largest consuming country,

rose to a record 46 tonnes in January

Other analysts noted that demand was rising, particularly in Asia, after gold prices fell to three-year lows

early this year. This was a pattern similar to the jump in demand in the 1987-1989 period, when gold prices fell from a peak of over $500 an

Gold prices also received some support last week from sharply lower US stock and bond prices, but some concern remains about the potential for further European central bank gold sales after the introdiction of European Monetary Union approaches, analysts said.

Last week the Swiss government announced a plan to sell 40 tonnes of gold a year over 10 years to fund

The April gold futures contract ended down $1.50 at $353.00 per ounce and June was down $1.40 at $355.60 per ounce. March silver closed down 2.80 cents at $5.2510

per ounce and the May silver contract ended down three cents at

The March high grade copper futures contract closed up 1.40 at 113.75 cents per pound.

Soybean futures finished sharply higher as the market surged on bullish cuthusiasm. News of a proposed

3% tax on Brazilian soybean exports flooded the market, with positive momentum triggering buy stops that launched prices near their upper limits. This trend continued until pre-weekend profit taking

The May contract settled 21 cents higher at $8.49 1/2. Com futures ended higher, gamering spillover momentum from soybeans. The trend was consistent from the start

as surging prices in the soy complex attracted speculative interest. The May contract settled 6 1/4 cents higher at $3.04 1/2 per bushel. Wheat futures ended solidly higher as technically inspired buying extended earlier advances. The rally in soybeans provided an early spark, which escalated prices to double digit gains until profit-taking emerged to trim advances near the

DATA COMMUNICATIONS VIA

ABACOMPUTER SYSTEMS LIMITED

Foreign financial data courtesy of CommStock Trading Ltd.

34 Ben Yehuda St., Jerusalem

Mediterranean Investments,

Tel. 09-958-5873. All other

Commstock Trading Ltd.,

Tel. 02-624-4963. Due to technical failures data may

Jerusalem Post will not be held responsible for the transaction made on the basis of these data.

consequences of any only, addressed to

Tel Aviv shares data

supplied by Pacific

data supplied by be inaccurate. The

CommStock Trading Ltd.

Futures, Options,

- and Mutual Funds

Stocks, Bonds

trimmed earlier gains.

a Holocaust victims fund.

$5.2830 per ounce.

options at the close.

highest levels since 1993.

from 24 tonnes last year.

Monday,

arch 17, 1997

savings have simut since the beginning according to date the Bank of

be public held nearly scial assets, or 47.6% B savings, a figur windled to 38 20 th s-said. In 1994, the we percentage-point has resumed. the latest in a series of h which have led the call for the implement measures aimed a S joud-reum 25/ mg/ 6

ad upwards. pan of chort to revision ini nurkeis. C. there has been const. cism of the propositions of the propositions of the proposition of the vid Broder adet committee room commendation with and mid-term savings se public to investe term alternatives the Printe Ministr ithe Bank of les say such a more se wn hard on the pore of society. As a rest osels are sail in las-inance Minister le constanti- piedging me them to the comme set opponunin. innk of large the g dithat the public is shareholdings 55

ampanies. This and itself through the et share purchasie ese of must funds. 1994, there has tikk way found provided fixed savings states. the universe times MOORS !!! The second k, is the sugrature markets, and the me provident that her WHER the rul-1995. her lactor was bert Applied that the SCHOOL STREET

The bath Control 4 4 SEC year to ver spectrics, mare to me 東京教教 とでは、このでは and Invest r mores of the Mes Cur um With and deposits meaning eniferat to teller at AND DAY OF THE POST 100 L MA CANA The black of the

m into .... Section 1 pany grou CAMBON COMMISSION STATE Indiana American 20 TH XX ... Cherry Land

m ir 2 MIN K -

BEIRT FARE THE RESERVE TO THE W Rares 143 BANKS TOSS

.

91000

Apple to fire 30% of workers, cancel products

CUPERTINO, Calif. - In its latest gambit to become profitable again, beleaguered Apple Computer inc. said over the weekend it will lsy off about 4,100 employees, or 30 percent of its work force, and scale back its product line.

The company was vague about which models of its flagship Macintosh deskiop computers and Powerbook laptop computers would be discontioned. It said it would continue to produce its Newton hand-held computers for the time being.

Apple said the restructuring is intended to reduce annual operating costs by $500 million. But in the short term, implementing the overhaul will result in a $155m. charge sgainst profits in the company's fiscal second quarter, the company said.

"We've made the right decision to focus our energies, and these decisions, I'm convinced, will put chief executive Gilbert Amelio said io a conference call. He predicted the company, now the fourth-largest maker of personal computers, would become profitable by the year's fourth quarter. But Wall Street analysis and industry experts, who have heard promises from Apple before, remained skeptical. "It's a step in the right direction," said Stephen Dube, an analyst with Wasserstein Perella Securities in New York. "But there are still a lot of questions to be answered before we can be sure of their Dube and others questioned Apple's decision not to abandon the Newton and other product lines, but they speculated the company might try to sell the Newton division.

"Apple doesn't have too many lives left," said Rick LePage, cdi-tor of MacWeek magazine. "This is their last chance to show us they can redefine themselves."

promises.

EN AANWEVINGEN
BELASTING GROTEFORTUINEN

garage 20 years ago, Apple helped make the personal computer a mass-market, user-friendly product. In recent years, though, the company's products have struggled under intense competition from PCs that use Microsoft Corp.'s Windows operating soft-

Last year, sales of Apple's computers fell 31% in the US, according to one study. In the past five quarters, the company has lost nearly $1 billion. Particularly rough was the fall quarter, when Apple posted a $120m. loss. Of the 4,100 employees set to lose their jobs, 2,700 are fulltimers and 1,400 are contractors or temporary workers, Apple chief financial officer Fred Anderson said. The company has about 13,400 employees.

About 55% of the full-time employees to be laid off are in the US, many at the company's Cupertino, California, headquarters. Most of the workers affected marketing, research and development divisions of the company, Andersoo said.

Friday's announcement was the biggest in a series of layoffs and restructurings for the company in the past several years. In January 1995, shortly after Amelio took over, he cut the payroll by 1,500 and restructured the company.

The company said it will discontinue software for video conferencing and for its AIX server computers. It will stop development of Pippin devices, which allow Internet access over televisions. As for its core products, the Macintosh and the Powerbook, it said only that it would phase out a type of consumer-oriented Macintosh called the Performa.

Apple said it would deliver its next-generation operating system, called Rhapsody, as planned next year. Bot it will cot spending and reduce the new releases on future system software.

(The Washington Post)

TASE ROUNDUP

Shares drop following high CPI report

Mishtanim 243.58 ▼ 1.24%

Maof 250.31 ▼ 1.16%

By ROBERT DANIEL

Shares declined yesterday after the government reported on Friday that higher housing and produce costs boosted February's consumer price index 1.2 percent, exceeding expectations of 1%.

The inflation report and a higherthan-expected money-supply report yesterday poured water on hopes that the central bank would further cut interest rates, potentially helping company profits.

Leading stocks lower were candy and coffee maker Elite Industries Ltd. Series 5, down 3.75% at 79.37, chemicals producer Dead Sea Bromine Ltd., off 3% at 18.74, and supermarket operator Supersol Ltd., shedding 2.75% to 9.12.

Teva Pharmaceutical Industries Ltd_ which accounts for 9.5% of the Maof, shed 1.75% to 198.66. Offsetting them were rises of 4% to 8.86 at beverage company Jafora Tavori Ltd., 2.25% to 88.85 at Tadiran, and 0.5% to 49.96 at Team Computers & Systems Ltd. "The market is nervous about the political situation," said Zvi Hoffman co-managing director at Tel Aviv securities firm Meitav Ltd.

The Mishtanim Index of 100 issues fell 1.24% to 243.58 and the Maof Index of 25 issues fell 1.16% to 250.31.

The Mishtanim and Maof reached their respective life highs of 270.57 and 277.73 on February 18.

Of the 25 members of the Maof Index of most-traded stocks, 21 declined. Two issues – Industrial Buildings Ltd. and Tadiran – rose, and two - Osem Investments Ltd. and First International Bank Series 5 – were unchanged.

The consumer price increase follows January's CPI increase of 0.4% and brings annual projected inflation in 1997 to about 9%.

The government's target is between 7% and 10%. Inflation during the past 12 months was

Bank Hapcalim, Israel's largest bank based on assets, estimated that March's CPI will rise 0.7% and prices for all of 1997 will increase 8.7%. (Bloombern)

German budget deficit could block entry to EMU

FRANKFURT (Reuter) Germany's Der Spiegel weekly magazine said over the weekend that Bonn sees a risk of the country's 1997 budget deficit posting a surprising climb beyond levels allowed for joining European economic and monetary unioo

Internal calculations at the chancellor's office show the budget deficit climbing as high as 4.15 percent of gross domestic product in 1997, Der Spiegel said in a release ahead of publication today.

German government A spokesman denied the article, saying the chancellor's office had not made such calculations, but the report could still unnerve financial markets when trade opens this

The figure is well beyond the 3% level mandated by the Maastricht Treaty for joining monetary union and is also above the government's official target of 2,9%, The German deficit stood at 3.8% last year.

The report could be the latest blow to confidence in 'Germany's ability to qualify for monetary union. Such a high deficit would mean that even under a liberal interpretation of the Maastricht Treaty Germany would not make the first wave of currency union planned for 1999.

Several Bundesbank council members and leading German economists have expressed skepticism that the country will be able to get its financial house in order in time.

EMU is scheduled to start on January 1, 1999, but the decision as to who can join will be made in the first part of 1998 oo the basis of 1997 data.

Bot far from predicting a postponement or a collapse of EMU, Der Spiegel said Finance Minister Theo Waigel would slash the deficit with changes in budget

Egypt wants utilities to charge market prices prior to sell off

Tens of thousands of European workers descend on downtown Brussels last night for a protest march to demand European authorities do more to protect their jobs. The European March for Unemployment' was organized by Belgian unions in CAIRO (Reuter) - Privatizing Egyptian otilities such as water. gas and electricity will have to wait until the otilities can charge consumers market prices, said a senior official in the ministry responsible for privatization.

European workers demand job protection

Official sources said in January that the government planned to invite the private sector into water and sewerage projects some time in February but nothing has come of the plan. The government also wants the private sector to finance power generation schemes, but these would sell electricity to the national grid, oot directly to consumers. The official, Public Enterprise Ministry undersecretary Mukhtar Khattab, said that "privatizing public utilities will take place at a later stage of the reforms because their products to the public at uneconomic prices. The process of liberalizing the prices is still continuing and hasn't come to an end yet." He was quoted in the government newspaper al-Ahram on Saturday.

response to a decision by French automaker Renault to close a factory outside Brussels.

Utility prices have hardly changed since a series of sharp increases in the early 1990s and the official gave no indication when the next round would come. If the state privatized the utilities

now, the buyers would charge "economical" prices and this would have the socially undesirable effect of hitting the poor, he

The official also identified overstaffing at public-sector .companies as an obstacle to privatization, despite relatively few problems with staffing at companies the producers still sell many of privatized so far.

at around 18% in the public-enterprise sector, which oow employs 908,000 people.

Potential investors in the companics might estimate the overstaffing level at hetween 35% to 40%, he added.

The public-enterprise sector includes more than 300 state companies slated for eventual privatization. It does not include utilities, public transport, banking and many other sectors.

Khattab said the state had spent 200 million pounds ($59 million) on 11,000 public-sector workers who opted for early retirement to pave the way for privatization. The total cost of the early retirement scheme could eventually reach 11 billion pounds, he added. Employment in the state companies fell from 1,083,000 in June

He said overstaffing levels stood 1990 to 908,000 in June 1996, mainly though natural attrition, he said. He did oot say how this figure was affected by privatized companies moving out of the pub-

> Meanwhile, Egypt yesterday offered for sale by auction at least 200,000 shares in Egypt Company for Mechanical and Electrical Projects (KAHROMICA), 10% of the company's total equity.

The shares on sale can be increased to a maximum of 1.8 million shares, representing up to 90% of equity, the state's Holding Company for Electric Power Distribution and Construction said in an announcement.

New shareholders will he cligible for the cash distribution for the financial year 1996/7, which ends on June 30. It did not say how much the coupon would be.

WHERE TO GO

Notices in this feature are charged at NIS 28.08 per line, including VAT. Insertion every day of the month costs NIS 520.65 per line, including VAT.

JERUSALEM

JERUSALEM
Conducted Tours
HEBREW UNIVERSITY. Tours of the Mount Scopus campus, in English, daily Sun.-Thur., 11 a.m. from Brontman Reception Center, Sherman Administration Bldg. Buses 4a, 9, 23, 26, 28. For info, call 5882819.
HADASSAH. Visit the Hadassah instal lations, Chagall Windows. Tel. 026416333, 02-6776271.

TEL AVIV

TEL AVIV MUSEUM. Andres Serrano: The Morgue. Soviet Photography from the Museum collection. Lucian Freud: selection of works. Tzvi Hecker: selection of works. Tzvi Hecker:
Sunflower. Portraits: By a group of Israeli artists. Virtual Reality: The domestic and realistic in contemporary Israeli art. HELENA RUBINSTEIN PAVILION FOR CONTEMPORARY ART. Shlomo Ben-David and Amon Ben-David, The Inverted Campaign. Hours: Weekdays 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Tue. 10 a.m.-10 p.m. Fri. 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Meyerhoff Art Education Center, Tel. 6919155-8.

WHAT'S ON IN HAIFA, diei 04-

GENERAL ASSISTANCE

EMERGENCY PHARMACIES

Jerusalem: Clal Pharm, 22 Kantei Nesharim, 651-0485; Balsam, Salah e-Din, 627-2315; Shuafat, Shuafat Road, 581-0108; Dar Aldawa, Herod's Gate, 628-2058. Tel Aviv: Pharma Daf Jabotinsky, 125

Ibn Gvirol, 546-2040; Superpharm Lev Dizengoff, 50 Dizengoff, 620-0975. Till 3 a.m. Tuesday: Pharma Daf Jabotinsky, 125 Ibn Gviroi, 546-2048. Till midnight: Superpharm Ramat Aviv, 40 Einstein, 641-3730; London Ministore Superpharm, 4 Shaul Hamelech, 696-0115. Ra'anana-Kfar Sava: Narkis, 8 Hativat Golani, Klar Sava, 761-8248. Netanya: Hasharon mall, Herzi, 861-

7766. Halfa: Sieff Square, 1 Shalom Aleichem, 823-5064. Krayot area: Nivpharm Shavit, Shavit Arayot area: Navpherm Shavit, Shavit Center, Kiryat Ata, 844-3778. Herzifya: Clai Pharm, Beit Merkezim, 6 Maskit (cnr. Scient Hegalim), Herzifya Pituah, 955-8472, 955-8407. Open 9 a.m. to midnight.

Upper Nazareth: Cla! Pharm, Lev Ha'ir Mait, 657-0468. Open 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

DUTY HOSPITALS Jerusalem: Hadassah Ein Kerem (internal, surgery, orthopedics, ENT); Misgav Ladach (obstetrics); Bilour Holim (pediatrics); Shaare Zedek

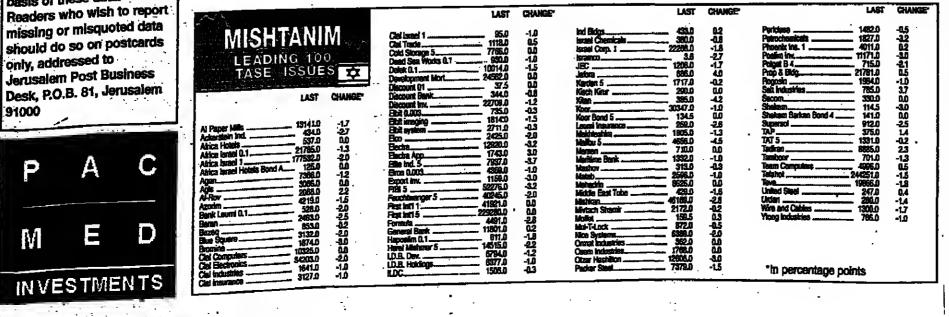

Tel Aviv: Tel Aviv Medical Center Dana Pediatric Hospital (pediatrics); Tel Aviv Medical Center (internal, surgery).

POLICE FIRE FIRST AID Magen David Adom In emergencies dial 101 (Hebrew) or 911 (English) in most parts of the coun-try. In addition: Ashoot 8651333 Kar Sava 8902222 Kiar Savet 9902222 Nahariyat 9912333 Nebanyat 9904444 Petah Tikot 991111 Rahovot 9451333 Safed 6920533 Tel Avir 5460111 Theriset 8702444 Ashkelon 6551332 Beersheba" 6274767 Beershebe* 6274767
Belt Shemesh 6523133
Den Reglon* 5793333
Eliaf* 6352444
Haita* B512233
Getuselom* 6523133
Karmiel* 9985444
*Mobile Internitive Care Unit (MICU) service in the stork.

Medical help for tourists (in English) 177-022-9110 The National Poison Control Center at Rambam Hospital 04-852-9205, 24 hours a day, for information in case of polsoning. Eran - Emotional First Aid - 1201

also Jerusalem 561-0303, Tel Aviv 546-1111 (children/youth 696-1113), Haifa 867-2222, Beersheba 649-4333, Netanya 862-5110, Karmiel 988-8770, Kfar Sava 767-4555, Hadera 634-6789 Kiar Sava 767-4555, Hadera 634-6789
Wizo hotilines for battered women 02-651-4111, 03-546-1133 (also in Russian), 07-637-6310, 08-855-0508
(also in Arnharic).
Rape Crisis Center (24 hours), Tel
Aviv 523-4819, 544-9191 (men),
Jerusalem 625-5558, Haila 853-0533, Elat 633-1977.
Hadassah Medical Organization —
Israel Cancer Association support ser-

Israel Cancer Association support service 02-624-7676).

Two sent off as Rangers beat Celtic

GLASGOW (Reuter) - Rangers took a huge step towards their ninth successive Scottish League title when they beat arch-rivals Celtic 1-0 at Celtic Park yesterday thanks a scrambled 44th minute goal from Brian Laudrup.

But Rangers' victory in a tense, scrappy Old Firm derby game, was marred by the 67th minute dismissal of Mark Hateley, playing in his first match since his surprise return to the club from Queens Park

Celtic also finished the match with 10 men when Malky Mackay was sent off in the 80th minute for hauling down Laudrup. But Rangers, with six regular first team players missing through illness or injury, ended the afternoon on a high, moving eight points clear of Celtic with only six matches to play.

Johansson wins his first ATP Tour title

 ${\color{red}\textbf{COPENHAGEN}}~\underbrace{(\textbf{Reuter}) - \textbf{Swedish fifth seed Thomas Johansson}}$ landed his first ATP Tour title when he beat second-seeded Czech Martin Damm in the Copenhagen Open final yesterday.

Johansson's speed and superb double-handed backhand proved more than a match for Damm, giving the Swedish player a 6-4, 3-6.

Chang downs Muster: Davenport wins Evert Cup INDIAN WELLS, Ca. (AP) - Defending champion Michael Chang

overpowered Thomas Muster in the first set, then took control again in a second-set tiebreak to move into the final of the Newsweek

Chang, who also won the tournament in 1992, beat Muster 6-1, 7-6(7-1) Saturday and was to face Bohdan Ulihrach in the final late last night. Czech Ulihrach downed Jonas Bjorkman 6-3, 6-2. In the final of the $1.25 million State Farm Evert Cup Lindsay Davenport cruised to a 6-2, 6-1 victory over Irina Spirlea.

Queensland to face WA in Sheffield Shield final

SYDNEY (Reuter) - Tasmania failed to reach their first Sheffield Shield final when they lost to Queensland yesterday.

Queensland secured a spot in the final against Western Australia at Tasmania's expense when they completed the formality of a victory over South Australia in Brisbane.

Queensland began the final day of the last round of matches locked on 22 points in the standings with New South Wales and needed just seven balls to complete a 137-run victory over last-placed South

Queensland, New South Wales and Tasmania all finished on 28 points but Queensland progressed to the final starting in Perth on Friday with a superior average of runs scored for and against during

Chelsea crush struggling Sunderland 6-2

LONDON (Reuter) - Chelsea added to Sunderland's relegation worries in the English premier league with a thumping 6-2 victory at Stamford Bridge yesterday which featured two goals from Welsh striker Mark Hughes: •

Italians Gianfranco Zola and Roberto di Matteo also hit the target as Chelsea, 2-0 ahead at half-time, lifted themselves to seventh in the table to keep alive their hopes of UEFA Cup qualification.

The home side had a brief moment of alarm in the second-half when remain only three points clear of the Sunderland pulled back to 3-2 with goals from Paul Stewart and Alex Rae, but a splendid individual effort from Hughes proved to be the first of three Chelsea goals in the last 12

Substitute Gianluca Vialli, despite a suspicion of offside; provided Hughes with an easier chance to make it five and Di Matteo completed the scoring in the last minute to complete a miserable afternoon for French goalkeeper Lionel Perez.

It was Sunderland's sixth loss in their last seven matches and they relegation zone with 7 games left.

Providence upsets Duke

CHARLOTTE. N.C. (AP) - Derrick Brown gave the Providence Friars a huge assist Sunday - with his most points ever.

The senior forward helped the Friars overcome foul trouble by Austin Croshere with a 33-point performance that sent Providence to a 98-87 victory over Duke in yesterday's second round of the NCAA tournament's Southeast

Tenth-seeded Providence advanced to the round of 16 for the first time since the 1987 Friars made it to the Final Four

Second-seeded Duke (24-9) was looking for a chance at its eighth Final Four benth in 17 years under coach Mike Krzyzewski. Instead the Blue Devils failed to make the round of 16 for the fourth time in five years.

On Saturday, North Carolina beat Colorado 73-56 in the second round of the East Regional while top-ranked Kansas joined the Tar Heels in the final 16, defeating stubborn Purdue 75-61 in the Southeast Regional.

In other games Saturday, California beat Villanova 75-68 in the East, lowa State defeated Cincinnati 67-66 and UCLA downed Xavier 96-83 in the Midwest, Arizona bear College of Charleston 73-69 io the Southeast, and St. Joseph's beat Boston College S1-77 in overtime and Kentucky defeated lowa 75-69 in the

In regional semifinals next week, it will be North Carolina vs. California, Iowa State vs. UCLA, Kansas vs. Arizona, and Kentucky vs.

LATE RESULTS

East: Louisville 64, New Mexico 63 Southeast: Tenn-Chatt, 75, Illinois 63 Midwest: Clemson 65, Talsa 59 West: Utah 77, UNCC 58

California 75, Villanova 68

Tony Gonzalez, the tight end who doubles as a basketball player, scored a season-high 23 points, while Randy Duck added 16, including a pair of key 3-pointers that sparked Cal in the second half.

In a game that featured nine lead changes and six bes, Duck sank a pair of 3-pointers 1:04 apart, giving the Golden Bears (23-8) a 44-38 lead with 16:11 left. Cal never surrendered the lead after

> Southeast Kansas 75, Purdue 61

Paul Pierce scored 20 points and made big plays with the game in the balance as the top-seeded Jayhawks (34-1) advanced to the regional semifinals for the fifth straight year.

Raef LaFrentz had 18 points and 11 rebounds for Kansas, and Jacque Vaughn 12 points and nine assists. Chad Austin scored 17 for Purdue (18-12), but went 4-of-1g from the field. Arizona 73, College of Charleston 69

Mike Bibby hit three free throws in the final 30 seconds as Arizona survived a scare from the College of Charleston. The Wildcats (21-9) trailed by as many as 10 points during the first 15 minutes of the second half after missing nine of their first 11 shots against Charleston (29-3), which hadn't lost since Dec. 18.

Midwest Iowa St. 67, Cincinnati 66

Dedric Willoughby and Kenny Pratt, who struggled in the first round, combined for 40 points as Iowa State beat Cincinnati. Pratt led the Cyclones (22-8) with 21 points. Willoughby added 19.

Cincinnati (26-8), the third seed and the team many picked as the preseason favorite for the NCAA title, failed to make it out of the subregionals for the third time in four years. UCLA 96, Xavier 83

Charles O'Bannon scored 28 points and UCLA used a 19-2 second-half run to beat Xavier. J.R. Henderson had 22 points and nine rebounds for UCLA (23-7), which won its 11th straight and reached the third round for the second time in three years. Darnell Williams led Xavier (23-6) with 16 points, and Torraye Braggs added 15 before fouling out with 3:25 remaining. West St. Joseph's 81, Boston College 77, OT Rashid Bey scored 10 of St. Joseph's 12 points in overtime, and the Hawks set a tournament record for long-range shooting to win their 10th straight game.

Kentucky 75, Iowa 69 Sophomores Scott Padgett, Wayne Turner and Nazr Mohammed helped defending national # champion Kentucky (32-4) beat Iowa.

Gillespie and Waugh turn Test for Australia

PORT ELIZABETH (Reoter) -Fine bowling hy Jasoo Gillespie and solid batting from Mark Waugh brought Australia back from the prospect of defeat and left them close to victory in the second Test against South Africa

First. Gillespie snapped up three quick wickets as South Africa collapsed in their second innings from their overnight g3 without loss to 168 all out.

Then, needing 270 to win and an unbeatable 2-0 lead in the three-Test series, Waugh stroked an accomplished 54 not out as Australia ended the third day on 145 for three, just 125 runs short of victory.

The Australian second innings began shakily as both openers, Mark Taylor and Matthew Hayden, were dismissed with only 30 on the board.
Taylor's run of had form which has now seen him go 18 innings since his last Test 50, continued when he was trapped lbw for 13 by Brian McMillan. Haydeo, who made 14, was the

Jerusalem

HOUSEHOLD HELP

STAR AU PAIR INTERNATIONAL seeks 2 South African au pairs, live-in, for 2 ta-milies in Tel Aviv, $800 + bonue. Tel. 03-620-1195, 052-452002.

COUPLE FOR HOUSEKEEPING childcare. Werm temily. Excellent condi-tions, Live-in. Tel. 03-535-7644.

FOR NICE FAMILY, au pair, good conditions, high salary. Tel. 03-537-1036.

ZAHALA, SEEKING HOUSEHOLD-

HELP, 3 momings x 5 hours per week: Tel. 03-649-1993.

MISC.

DANISH, FINNISH & Koreen-epeekers wanted tor permanent job in Ramat Gan. High salary. Call Eran, Tel. 03-575-8255.

OFFICE STAFF

SECRETARY/TYPIST, GERMAN/ ENGLISH, 1/2 dey, 5 days/waekly. Tel. 03-544-1948.

victim of a farcical run out when both be and partner Matthew Elliott ended up sprinting for safety - to the same eod - leaving bowler Hansie Cronje with the simple task of removing the bails.

OUT - Australia's jason Gillespie appeals as South Africa's Jacques Kallis is run out in yesterday's play in the second Test in Port Elizabeth.

But that set up a spirited partnership of 83 between Elliott and Mark Waugh. Elliott was aggression personified as be struck eight boundaries in his 44 before pushing a full toss straight back to left-arm wrist-spinner Paul Adams just before the close.

his brother Steve and completed his 27th Test half century from 87 balls with eight boundaries and a straight driven six off Adams.

Earlier, Gillespie, who took five for 56 in the first innings, turned the match upside down with his

First he bowled Gary Kirsten for 43 and then, after a superb piece of fielding from Greg Blewett had run out Jacques Kallis for two, he picked up the important wickets of Adam Bacher and Daryll Cullinan in successive overs.

Bacher, whose 49 spanned nearly three hours, top-edged a book straight to Glenn McGrath on the fine leg boundary. In his next over, Gillespie beat Cullinan with a rapid off-cutter to remove him lbw for two.

McGrath accounted Herschelle Gibbs before the last five wickets fell to the spin comhination of Shane Warne and Michael Bevan.

Bevan, bowling left-arm wrist spin, removed Brian McMillan and Hansie Cronje either side of tea and later picked up the wicket of Allan Donald to finish with three for 18. Warne removed Shaun Pollock and Adams.

Mark Wangh was then joined by surpass the previous highest fourth innings total made to win a match at St George's Park - 215 for five by South Africa against New Zealand in 1953-54.

The highest fourth innings score in a losing cause was 273 by South Africa against New Zealand

Galil shocks Jerusalem

By ARYEH DEAN COHEN

Hapoel Jerusalem coach Gadi Kedar's birthday party turned out to be a bust last night in Malha, as Hapoel Galil Elyou extended Jerusalem's European woes to league play with a surprising 78-66

Jerusalem continued having problems putting the ball in the basket, as they scored just 29 first-half points and trailed by nine at the half. Elsewhere in the league, Hapoel Eilat drubbed Maccabi Ramat Gan 96-71, Maccabi Risbon Lezion beat Bnei Herzliya 81-71 and Hapoel Holon celebrated the return of coach Raiph Klein with an impressive 89-71 road win over Givat Shrmuel.

Galil 78, Hap. J'lem 66 After its disappointing European Cup loss to Iraklis in Salonika last week, Hapoel Jerusalem (10-6) was looking to take out some of its frustration vs. coach David Blatt's northerners. Instead, Jerusalem and their fans suffered through another frustrating night, as only Billy Thompson (20 points) was anywhere near his usual self, and even loyal Jerusalem fans left early.

Galil Elyon (8-8), led by Jason Dixon (15) and Mark Carver (14) notched their first away victory, while Jerusalem saw their hold on second place undermined by the disappointing loss that does not bode well for Thursday night's State Cup semifinal game vs. Maccabi Ramat

Hap. Eilat 96, Mac. RG 71 Jerusalem's State Cup foes didn't have a very good night, either, coming up against a red hot Amir Katz, who had 10 three-point baskets on the night, seven in the first half, to account for almost all of his gamehigh 33 points.

Eilat (9-8) had an early 47-25 lead and was never threatened in a game marred by a fight which saw Lazy Gordon of Ramat Gan (6-11) and Chris Shabbat of Eilat thrown out.

Rishon 81, Buei Herzliya 71 James Gully dominated play inside in the first half, scoring 18 of his 20 points, and Rishon held on to its early advantage to improve to 8-8, continuing its renaissance under new coach Hanoch Mintz. Ledell Eackles led Rishon with 25, while Doron Jamchi added 17. The loss for Herzliya (6-10) further entan-

relegation
Hap. Holon 89, Givat Shringel 71
The Magician Ralph Klein did it again, leading Holon (6-10) to vic-. tory thanks to the return to form of both Milton Wagner (26 points) and Derrick Hamilton (29). Credit also goes to Holon's Yoav Sofer, who held Givat Shmuel's Gerald Paddio to nine points. The loss for Givan Shmuel (7-10) was largely attributable to the absence of Dennis Hopson, who missed the game with an intestinal infection.

Tonight Maccabi Tel Aviv travels to Ussishkin to play Hapoel Tel Aviv. The game is to be broadcast

CLASSIFIEDS

RATES PRICES ARE AS FOLLOWS - All rales include VAT: Single Weekday - NIS 128.70 for 10 words (minimum), each edditional word NIS

FRIDAY AND HOLIOAY EVE . NIS FRIDAY AND HOLIDAY EVE. NIS 198.90 10 words (minimum), each addi-tional word NIS 19.89. MONDAY, WEDNESDAY and FRI-DAY (package) - NIS 292.50 for 10 words (minimum), each additional word - NIS WEEK RATE (6 insertions) - NIS 409.50 for 10 words (minimum), each additional word - NIS 40.95. FOUR FRIDAYS (package) - NIS 526.50 for 10 words (minimum), each additional word - NIS 52.65.

MONTHLY (24 insertions) - NIS 994.50 for 10 words (minimum), each additional word - NIS 99.45. New Rates ere valid until March 31 1997.

DEADLINES offices: Jerusalem - weekdays: 12 noon the day before publication; for Friday 4 p.m. on Tel Aviv and Halfa - weekdeys: 12 noon, 2 days before publication; for Finday and Sunday: 4 p.m. Thursday in Tel Aviv and 12 noon Thursday in Halta.

For telephone enquiries pleese call

DWELLINGS General

WHERE TO STAY THE JERUSALEM INN st the city Cen-ler - double or large lamlly rooms, pri-vate bathroom, T.V./telephone, quelity lurnished. Tel. 02-625-2757, Fax; 02-

> DWELLINGS Jerusalem Area

RASSCO, 3, FULLY equipped, short term/tourists, all amenities close by. Tel/ Fax: 02-671-9080.

HOLIDAY RENTALS

RENTALS

GERMAN COLONY, UNIQUE, 3 or 4, garden, basement, parking, long term. immediate. (No commission). OIVIROLLI SIANI. Tel 02-5612424.

SALES BARGAINI KIRVAT SHMUEL, near theater, 3.5, green, 2nd floor. $245,000. ANGLO SAXON (MALDAN), Tel. 02-625-

SEIT SHEMESH, 4 rooms, 1st floor, Solomon, Nor Hapark. Tel. 02-997-4180. EFRAT PROPERTIES: SINGLE & 2 family homes, cottages a epartments. GER-RY FARKAS, Tel. 02-993-3247.

GERMAN COLONY, PENTHOUSE,

600 m. + cottage 300 m., kourious, swimming pool. Tel. 02-537-6777, 02-563-6814. GERMAN COLONY, LARGE, unique 2.3 or 4. Basement, garden, immediate (no commissione). DiviROLLI SIANI. Tel. 02-561-2424. HASITAT REAL ESTATE - Kiryat Hayovel, 4 rooms, south facing, new kitchen, specious, elevetor. $245,000. Tel. 02-

WHERE TO STAY 3 SEDROOM APARTMENT in Jerusa-lem available April 16 - 30. Fully lur-nished. Also, holiday apartment, lully equipped in Tiberias. Fax. 02-581-1385, Tel. 12-581-0870.

DWELLINGS Tel Aviv

RENTALS 4 ROOM APARTMENT for rent near the

SALES/RENTALS RAMAT AVIV GIMMEL, superb peni-house, rent/sele, suitable for couple. VAEL REALTOR. Meldan. Tel. 03-642-

> DWELLINGS Sharon Area

> > RENTALS

FOR DIPLOMAT, HERZLIYA PITUAH, 5 salon and basement, large, rooms + salon and basemen quiet area. Tel. 09-956-8003/4.

HERZLIYA PITUAH, LARGE house by sea, possible exchange in New York or Europe, immediate. Tel. 09-957-1504. HERZLIYA PITUAH FOR rent, 4 bedroom conege, luity lumished, immediale entry, Moran Real Estate (Maidan), Tel. 09-957-2759.

NETANYA - 4 ROOMS, lully turnished epartment, ocean view, immediate, 3 months. Tel. 03-571-4354.

SALES CAESAREA, LUXURIOUS HOUSE, pool, air conditioning, central vacuum, Tel. 050-231-725, 06-636-3261.

BUSINESS OFFERS Jerusalem

BUS. PREMISES STORE IN KIKAR OENVA, Beit Haker-em, long lerm. Tel. 02-566-4667 (day), 02-563-9588 (evenings).

SITUATIONS VACANT Jerusalem

MANAGERIAL CAFE MANAGER, FLUENT Hebrew/ English, computer skills, lop salary and incentives. Tel. 052-879-769 (NS).

OFFICE STAFF SOPHISTICATED NATIVE ENGLISH translator for creative Hebrew quality ma-lerial. Tel. 02-623-2226.

SALES PERSONNEL WELL-KNOWN GALLERY, SEEKING experienced saleswoman, Ilueni Eng-ish. Tel. 02-623-2397, 02-625-3523 (10-1, 4-7).

SITUATIONS VACANT SITUATIONS VACANT Sharon Area

HOUSEHOLD HELP THEATER FOR STUDENT TELEVISION broadcast. AU PAIR, TRAVEL, immediele, high Me'ele School, seeking ectors/actresses, Hebrew speaking, for Right-wing satira. Tel. 08-854-8576 (Sara), 02-581selery, 2 children, light house Tel. 09-771-0463, 052-601536.

CAREGIVER FOR 24 hour/day service, live-in, for handicapped woman in Ra'anana, immediate, prefer Hungarian speaker. Tel. 052-591-149, 09-771-6153. SITUATIONS VACANT

PURCHASE/SALES Sharon Area

MEDIATE JOBS AVAILABLE, Iriendliest lamilies, best conditions, the agency with a heart for the Au Pairs. Call Hilma, Tel. (03) 965-9937. HOUSEHOLD GOODS LEAVING COUNTRY - AMANA, Miele, DeDietrich, lurnilure, Honde Civic coupe, Iully equipped. '96. Tel. 09-740-FORGET THE REST!!! We are the best!! The biggest and oldest agency in Israal. For the highest live-in jobs phone Au Pair International. Tel. 03-619-0423.

LOST & FOUND Tel Aviv

LOST MOVADO STAINLESS STEEL ladie's watch, sentimental value, reward, lost 14/3 in Iront of T.A. museum. Tel. 03-

> VEHICLES Jerusalem

UNRESTRICTED ARIE PALOGE - OUALITY CARS: buying, selling, leasing, trading. Tel. 02-6523735, 050-240977.

> VEHICLES Tel Aviv

PASSPORT PONTIAC FIERRO, SPORT, limited edition, mint condition. Tel. 052-315-377, 03-690-2777 (room 326)

Real Estate & Investments in Israel

Just before Pessach The Jerusalem Post will publish special supplements, devoted to real estate and investments in Israel. The supplements will be published in the International Edition of March 31, & April 7 & 14 and in the daily paper on April 21 For more information and to advertise in these supplements, please contact:

Udi Bash 03-6390333 Fax: 03-6390277  Mac Manager

ewspaper seeks assistant Macintosh System Manager. Position involves maintaining a network of Macs and PC's, support for editing and layout, as well as imaging/production and Internet (e-mail, FTP, etc).

Joseph Hoffman and On Lewis: Spons Editors of Macintosh OS networks and QuarkXpress required; experience with Windows 95 & 3.1, HTML, Photoshop, WWW. Novell 4.1 a plus.

Solid knowledge (more than basic use at a single station)

DON'T BE LEFT OUT! If you don't have e-mail or even a computer you can still advertise!

Call (02)531-5653, fax C.V. to (02)537-6553, attn: Jay or email to j@jpost.co.il

INTERNET POST CLASSIFIEDS Reach all of Israel and the world for just:

> ☐ For Two weeks One Month ☐ Two Month

□ Three Months

$13 US Dollars/NIS 45 $25 US Dollars/NIS 88 $45 US Dollars/NIS 158 $70 US Dollars/NIS 245

$130 US Dollars/NIS 456 List category and sub-category.

Don't forget your contact address /phone /fax /e-mail in your message Fax this form: In US & Canada, 212-599-4743 In Israel & the rest of the world: 972-2-531-5622 or place your ad directly on our web site at http://www.jpost.co.il Credit Card No. Tel No

live on Sports Channel. Jordan scores

Bulls beat Atlanta CHICAGO (AP) - Despite a season-low 10 points from Michael Jordan, the Chicago Bulls beat the Atlanta Hawks 99-79 Saturday season low 10 as

Scottie Pippen scored 17 points for the Buils, who rebounded from Priday's loss to New Jersey in which Jordan shot a last-second air ball. Jordan, whose previous low this season was 13 against Toronto in December, was 5-of-11 from the field against Atlanta before sitting out the fourth quarter. Dennis Rodman had 10 points and 14 rebounds for the Bulls before he was ejected late in the third quarter following a brief exchange under the basket with Dikembe Mutombo. Saturday's Games: Golden State 106, Toronto 182; Charlotte 107, Philadelphia 99; Utah 100, Washington 93; Calcago 99, Atlanta 79; Deaver 121, Sen Antonio 185; Phoenix 101, Delias 76.

_ ::

18.00

SCOREBOARD

5, Los Angeles 2.

CRICKET — Indiz, 'replying to West India's first humings store of 256, were 283-2 at less on the third day of the second lest in Port of Spain, Trindad yesterday.

CLASSICAL MUSIC

MICHAEL AIZENSTADT

The Israel Philharmonic Orchestra's associate conductor, Mendi Rodan, replaces Kurt Masur on the orchestra's podium to lead Beethoven's Second

Symphony and Shostakovich's 13th Symphony, titled Babi Yar, which is based on a poem by Yevgeny Yevtushenko. The poet himself will also be on hand to recite his poem, and the soloist in the Shostakovich opus will be bass Anatoli Kotscherga

Tonight, Wednesday and Thursday at the Mann

Anditorium in Tel Aviv, tomorrow, Saturday and

FILM

ADINA HOFFMAN

*** MARS ATTACKS! - Director Tim

Burton's tongue-in-cheek tribute to sci-fi movies of the '50s has about it a darkly playful look and quick-skit sense of humor. The storyline - which charts the invasion of the earth by a fleet of Martian spaceships

- is reminiscent of last year's Independence Day, but

Burton's visual trickery is much quirkier and more eccentric than anything the masterminds of ID ever dreamed up. Both in terms of spoken punchlines and traditional narrative. Jonathan Gem's script is a bit weak, although it helps to keep in mind that he and

Burton diew their initial inspiration for the film from a rare set of Topps trading cards from the early '60s

in other words, from a series of bright, static pictures. The film makes less sense as a neatly ordered linear tale than it does as a group of wildly fanciful, less-than-sensical camp tableaux. (English dialogue,

*** THE PORTRAIT OF A LADY-If you survive the awful opening credits and confusing start of the story with your patience intact, you'll be treated to a genuine surprise: a dynamic screen version of the Henry James novel. Although it's difficult to account precisely for how a movie succeeds despite the crude political allegorizing and dumb public prononnements of its director (Jane Campion has been quoted as saying that she aimed to rid James of his long repetition and character analysis"), this one does. The Portrait emerges as a film of bushed intelligence, hiscious texture and powerful feeling. In large part, the movie is saved by near-perfect casting and splendid work by the actors, who quietly smuggle all that dread character analysis into their performances. With Nicole Kidman, John Malkovich and Barbara Hershey, whose portrayal of the enigmatic

ACROSS

1 Nobody faces such a blow

7 With sex-appeal, unusual antic that's devilish (7)

8 Inflationary apparatus

10 Trousers that Robert exclusively wore mitially

11 Old mister upset French-man's immoderate views

Australia (7)
14 Fancy it being a fire-sponting monster (7)

15 Type of selling still has first-class backing (7)

18 A relatively dark patch

saen initially in blazer ticket in to the right (7)

on Sunday (5)

12 Two-way pocket (7)

coming from another area

Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance suggested.)

Sunday at the Haifa Anditorium (8:30).

CRITIC'S CHOICE

for any and all seefing up of t alerts in the has started to ming. Some of sadied have had

Hem Post

E on pold ing all the meameet any see. will certainly go Midozers are on ere is a possibil. mrcyors." the I source said. been briefed on ched following riots, but IDF that open-fire been changed rdingly. We will nunediately and said that such ?

FAT from Page 1

e as the crisis yes-

no indication las on the final disposecritories would eduled today. The eve said they will alks until there is a r decision to build

d that Netanyahu's e press conference d Har Homa would ms nothing has 16b Erekat denied planning a meeting zhak Molata

in's personal and mouning terms be hearts of leasts. that - as he till to families in Bar we are all one fan

Ð

 $\overline{\mathbf{R}}$

MS 2C

a suessed the need in dialogue, even wer differences beram ein sertted to age

t und provide a se

value to the to locuweek. Neith the rooms continued

1 3311

₹a, Liby

ing for the worst F construction ma." Vilna'i was se by Ha'aret tour eyes the or moting in the Fibere is any, we of force would

untion, the crisis

use to Palestinian

Micf negotian is: the political issue.

dolence calls and a conference. Hussel Naharavim smoothi ed "shame uni idier would commit pross conferent d be is commend to ich Nettentate to to ce process.

is and Palestrans : and Pulseumani mi direct miks by his lved so they am sid problems, he see gram count not prese that the bulldates this was They at

I charte a mage Mark of American

J.

ACROSS 1 Television (5) 4 Chart (5) 10 Concise (7)

11 Trinket (5) 12 Toll (5) 13 Effort (7) 15 Nervous (4) 17 Proverb (5) 19 Break (5) 22 Fled (4) 25 Tottery (7) 27 Scoundrel (5) 29 Remove trousers

30 Rubbing out (7) 31 Warning light (5) 32 Viper (5)

DOWN 2 MC (5) 3 Fielder (4-3) 5 Tuber (anag) (5) 6 Nightclothes (7) 7 Quench (5) 8 End of neck (5) 9 Spanish council 14 Kind (4) 16 Nimble (4) 18 Unit of sound (7)

20 Chmsy (7) 21 Prig (5) 23 Stringed instruments (5) 24 Shelf (5) 26 Keen (5) 28 Breathing (5)

WHAT'S ON

E CHANNEL 1

8:30 News flash 6:31 News in Arabic 6:45 Exercise Time 7:00 Good Morning,

EDUCATIONAL TY

8:00 Computers and the Internet 8:30 Spoken Arabic 9:00 Without Secrets 9:45.Programs for the very young 10:15 Science 10:40 English 11:10 Sociel Sciences 11:40 Tolerance 12:10 Science

13:00 in the Heat of the Night 14:00 Surprise Train Tommy 14:35 Babar 15:00 Ayelet's Kitchen 15:10 Without Secrets

E CHANNEL 1 15:30 Motormice from Mars 15:55 Booly 16:00 Dublish 16:25 Byker Grove 16:45 Super Ben 18:55 Zep to Basel 16:59 A New Evening 17:34 Zappy Books 18:15 News in

ARABIC PROGRAMS 18:30 Sport 19:00 News

HEBREW

Nicole Kidman stars in Jane Campion's dynamic screen version of Henry James's socialite, Madame Merle, is the most complex and richly Jamesian in the film. (English dialogue,

***1/2 WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE'S

ROMEO & JULIET - Purists may be put off by the zany pop art sparkle and flash of this movie, a tremendously energetic and calculatedly "low" modem-dress version of the tragedy. This will be their loss. By emphasizing the sexy, violent and even silly

aspects of the classic, Australian director Baz

(Strictly Ballroam) Luturnann makes the play fresh for adults and accessible to MTV-fed teenagers who may be encountering Shakespeare for the first time.

What's more impressive still, be hasn't sacrificed much of the bard's language in the process. Starring a pouty Leonardo DiCaprio as Romeo and a poised Claire Danes as Juliet. (English dialogue, Hebrew

5 One from Oslo perhaps

6 Isn't it used for cool-headed

7 Correct an argument over

9 An odd bargain might be picked up at it (7,4)

13 Toil badly on gold surface first using this steering

16 Omission is no lie

17 Tell Ray travelling watchfully (7)

18 Clipper making off with the fleece? (7)

19 Penny a long time with the lad who's a young attendant (4-3)

21 Test the heartless invader

SOLUTIONS

Yesterday's Quick Solution

ACROSS: 1 Trancs, 4 Porter, 7 Barracuda, 9 Port, 10 Elan, 11 Baret, 13 Esgard, 14 Depend, 15. Ordesi, 17 Motive, 19 Dosor, 20 Grey, 22 Stop, 23 Essidence, 24 Spring, 25 Tenant.

DOWN: 1 Torpor, 2 Nest, 3 Earned, 4 Picked, 5 Ride, 6 Reined, 7 Brigadier, 8 Alleviate, 11 Broad, 12 Tenor, 15 Organs, 16 Lowing, 17 Moment, 18 Expert, 21 Yeti, 22

with a choral composition wearing no make-up (9)

diplomacy? (7)

dues (3,2,6)

device? (9)

surprisingly (7)

subtitles. Parental guidance strongly advised.)

CRYPTIC CROSSWORD

20 Unly one strand coming from the wig? (9) 21 Mother going round Greek capital finds molten rock (5)

22 Pan runner William took

23 Sort of value scoundrel put on island on the way back (7)

24 Basic details to get down to

DOWN

seclusion (7)

object to (5)

tartan (2.5)

small picture (7)

1 Withdraw to a place of

2 Union notice one may

3 Under control wearing

4 Soft, but will stand up in Hebrew subtitles. Not recommended for children.)

The Portrait of a Lady.'

PROGRAMS 19:30 News flash 19:31 Video Clips 20:00 News 20:45 Popolitica 22:00 The Kingdom of the Khazars - Par one of three-part series on the Khazau empire between the Black and Casplan seas. Parts 2 and 3 will be broadcast tomorrow and Wednesday. 23:00 Mirrors - three generations: the grandmother made aliya from the US, the mother heads Amnesty Israel, and the newly religious-daughter lives in Bnei Brak

23:30 News 00:00 Dally Verse E CHANNEL 2

4:15 Today's Programs 6:30 Sharkey and George 7:00 Breakfast Magazine 9:00 The Third Hour 11:00 A Man of the People 11:30 Five Children 12:00 Doug 12:30 Basic Arabic 13:00 Open Cards

14:00 Just Us 15:00 Super Duper 15:30 Make a Wish 15:00 The Bold and the Beautiful 17:00 News Magazine with Rafi Reshel 17:30 Zehu Zeh adventures of a family in Oregon 19:00 Pacific Blue 20:00 News

20:30 hrs Nothing 21:30 Den Shilon 23:20 Milennium 00:00 News 00:05 Millennium continued 00:30 Night Owis Talk

10 * Lost Highway 7:15, 10 * Kama Stara 5, 7:30, 10 * Star Trak: First Contact EV

House Romeo and JulisteThe CrucibleTwo Days in The Valley 5, 7:30.

9:45 * Lone Star 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 * People vs Larry Flynt 5, 7:15, 9:45 G.G., TEL AVIV = 528:1181 65 Pinsker St. Star Treic

First Contact 5, 7:30, 10 * Seepors 7:15, 10 * The Ghost and the Darkness 5, 7:30, 10 TEL AVIV MUSEUM Little Sister 5, 8,

HAIFA CINEMA CAFÉ AMAMI = 8325755

Breaking the Waves 6:45, 9:30 + Secrets and Lies 7, 9:30 CINEMATHEQUE The

JORDAN TY 14:00 Holy Koran

15:00 French programs 16:00 Nature's Inventions 16:30 Deep Water Haven 17:00 Extra

14:05 Firststones 14:30 Captain Planet

Dimensions 18:00 French pro-OTATIS: 19:30 News headlines 19:35 Roseanne 20:00 Discover Macazine 20:30 Murder She Wrote 21:10 Extreme 22-00 News in English 22-25 Under Suspicion 23:00 Hunter

MIDDLE EAST TV 7:00 TV Shop 14:30 The 700 Club 15:00 Gerbert 15:25 Madigan's Million (1968) - an inept US Treesury agent arrives in Italy to recover money stolen by a matioso. With Oustin Hoffman. (86 mins.) 18:55 Family Challenge 17:40 Family Matters 18:05 Saved by the Beli 18:30 Lerry King 19:30 World News Tonight (Arabic) 20:00 Cosby 20:25 Tormny Coope 20:50 Major Dad 21:15 Diagnosis Murder

Murder 22:05 Mattock 23:00 CNN 23:30 The 700 Club 00:00 Quantum Shooping

CABLE

■ ITY 3 (33) Years 17:30 Panorama about a young man who time-shares his NYC apartment and-schedules get mixed up. With Maithew Broderick and Annabella Sciona. (98 1:15 Lincorrigible (French, 1975) – an incorrigible con artist incompose con artistimakes an easy living by charming women, including his parola officer. With Jean-Paul Belmondo (94 mins.) 250 Excessive Force (1907).

10:45 The Center of Things 11:05 California 11:35 Ital and Friends (rpt) 12:00 Twisted Tales of Felix (mt) 12:30 Hugo (mt) 13:00 Make Believe Closet 13:10 Free Willy Gadget 14:00 The Little Bits

14:30 Alice in E FAMILY CHANNEL Wonderland Things 15:15 Pink Panther 15:50 Ocean Girl 16:15 The Center of Things 16:35 Harry and the Hendersons 17:05 Nature Knows

Best 17:30 Shesh-Tus the Hestless (rpt) 10:30 Days of Our Lives (rpt) 11:15 Zingara (rpt) 12:00 Barnaby Jones 18:00 Hugo 18:30 Berenstein 19:05 Honey Bee Hutch

San Francisco 13:30 Duet 14:00 Dallas 14:50 Days of Our Lives 15:35 The Nanny 16:00 Hercules 16:45 Zingara 17:30 Good Evening with Guy Pines 18:00 Local

Brown 18:30 One Life to Live 19:15 The Young and the Restless 20:00 Sunset Beach 20:59 Married With Children
21:15 Shtock Show
21:40 Seinfeld
22:05 Ned and Stacey
22:30 Love Story with Yossi Siyas 23:00 Friends (rpt) 23:25 ER (rpt) 00:15 BVG

Newsroom 1:05 Barneby Jones III MOVIE CHANNEL

11:30 Dream Date (1985) (rpt) 13:05 New in the Chema
13:20 Penny Serenade (1941) – a marriage is sheken by the death of a child.
With Cary Grant (117 mins.) 15:20 Catch Me If You Can (1969) - a high-school student council

ete is stricken by a degenerative dis-ease(94 mins.)

22:00 The Travele

(1996) - futuristic thriller. (85 mins.) 23:30 The Night We Never Met (1993) -romantic comedy

(1993) - martial arts

gambles on illegal car races (100 mins.) 17:05 Brothers' Destiny (1995) (rpt) 18:40 Trail of Tears (1995) - two wormen whose children were abducted by their hus-bands fight back together (87 mins.) 20:20 Quiet Victory (1988) – a young att

16:00 Carloons 16:30 The Thirst of 16:00 Amores 19:00 News in Arabic

19:30 Doctors Telk 20:00 News 20:45 International Art Magazine 21:15 The Son of Monte Cristo (1940) swashbucking sequel to The Count of Monte Cristo. Sterring Louis Hayward, George Sanders and Joan Bennett. (90 mins.) 22:45 Auto Classics

ETY 2 (23) 15:30 All Together

Now 16:00 Animals of the IL CHILDREN (6) Mediterranean 16:30 Scientific Eye 6:30 Cartoons 9:00 Alice in Wonderland (rpt) 17:00 Fruits of the Earth 17;20 Faces of 9:30 The Center of Culture 18:00 Basic Arabic Things 9:45 Pink Panther 18:30 Family 10:20 Family M

19:00 Computers and the internet 19:30 Vis à Vis 20:00 A New Evening 21:00 Star Treic Deep Space 9 21:45 Video Clips 22:00 Female 22:30 Situation - documentary 23-30 Revolutions in the Modern Era

(3) 7:00 Good Evening with Guy Pines (rpt) 7:30 Love Story with

Yossi Siyas 8:00 Dalias 9:00 One Life to Live (rpt) 9:45 The Young and

12:45 The Streets of

PRIME TIME The Bottle 19:30 Broadcast: Murphy 20.00 Sunset Beach Dispatches Kids on the Quiet Victory 20:35 With Children Rosean Nothing Popolitica Rolfs Indian Walkabout Married With Children Shtock Show (40) pert 2 Dan Shillor The Death in a Year with 13 Kingdom of the Khazars 22:00 i he Traveler Ned and Stacey Yugoslavia Moons Part one 22:30 Love Stor

> 19:30 The Bottle 20:00 Animaniacs 20:25 Married With Children

Mirrors

23:00

21:10 Siders SECOND SHOW-

22:00 in a Yeer with 13 Moons (German, 1978) - a transvestite is deserted by his/her lover and undergoes hardes of Frankfurt society. Directed by Rainer Fassbinder (119 mins.) 00:05 Jeux Interdits (French, 1952) – anti-war drama. Two tarm children build an ani-mal cametery and steel crosses for it (82

DISCOVERY (8) 6:00 Open University: Psychology of Advertising: Marketing: Sales Management 12:00 loeland: Eider

and Man (rpt) 13:00 Beyond 2000 (rpt) 13:30 Blue Wilderness: Shadow on the Reef (rpf) 14:00 Open University

(rpt) 16:00 iceland: Eider and Man (rpt) 17:00 Beyond 2000 17:30 Blue

Wilderness (rpt) 18:00 Open University 20:00 Dispatches, part 1: Kids on the Rocks - London 10year-olds use a vari-ety of drugs 21:00 Rolfs Indian Walkabout, part 2 22:00 The Death of

Safe Area 23:00 Dispatches, part 1: Kids on the 00:00 Open University (m) SUPER CHANNEL 6:00 Frost's Century

7:00 The Best of The Ticket 7:30 Travel Xpress 8:00 Today 10:00 Fixtonean Squawk Box (stocks) 11:00 European Money Wheel 15:30 CNBC Squawk Box (US) 17:00 Interiors By. Design 17:30 Gardening By the Yard

Geographic Television 20:00 The Ticket 20:30 Skling: World Cup, Norway 15:00 Triethion: ETU 21:00 Dateline 22:00 NHL Power Winter Cup, Spain 15:30 Snowboard: ISF World Tour, US (rpt) 23:00 The Best of The Tonight Show with Jay

Friends (rpt)

Vorid Tour, US (pt)
18:00 Skijumping:
World Cup, Norway
18:00 Rugby: World Cup Sevens: The Road to Hong Kong
19:00 Soccer: 1981
FA Cup Finet —
Tottenbarn vs. Man. Leno 00:00 The Best of Lete Night with Conan O'Brien 1:00 The Best of Later 1:30 NBC Nightly News with Tom Brokew fottenham vs. Man. 20:00 Speedworld 21:45 Athletics: IAAF 2:00 The Best of the Tonight Show with Jay Grand Prix II, South

Leno 3:00 MSNBC Africa 23:00 Sumo 0:00 Eurogoals 1:00 Snooker Internight Live ESTAR PLUS PRIME SPORTS

6:00 Rugby: Five Nations 6:00 Anne Willam's Look and Cook 6:30 Video Fashion 7:00 Kate and Allie Championships – France vs. Scotland; 7:30 Oprah Winfrey 8:30 Dynasty 9:30 Santa Barbara Wales vs. England 9:00 Cricket: Indian 10:30 The Bold and 10:00 Badminton: the Beautiful 11:00 Hindi shows

Championships --12:30 Land of the 13:00 Cricket Indian 13:30 Black Beauty Tour of West Indies 14:00 Trans World 14:00 Kate and Alice 14:30 Anne Willam's Look and Cook Sport 15:00 Cricket: Indian 15:00 Living on the Tour of West Indies 18:00 Asia Sport Edge 15:30 Hindi programs

17:30 Star News 18:00 Yes, Minister 18:30 Final Cut -- part Show 18:30 Cricket: Indian Tour of West Indies 23:00 Badminton: 19:30 The Bold and Championships (rpt) 2:00 Chinese League the Beautiful 20:00 Santa Barbara 21:00 Star News Soccer

21:30 Star News 21:30 X-Files (1: """ 22:30 Star Trek 23:30 Fantasy Island 00:30 Oprah Winfrey 1:30 Barnaby Jones BBC, WORLD ws on the hour 6:05 The Money Programme 10:15 The Money E CHANNEL 5 Programme 11:30 Top Gear (rpt) 6:30 Bodies in Motion Motion

(rpt) 15:15 World Business 15:30 National League Soccer 17:15 Women's Report 15:30 Asia-Pacilic Newshour 16:30 Film '97 League Basketball 18:30 NBA Basketball 17:15 The Money - Miami Heat vs. Programme 18:30 The Clothes Houston Rockets (npt) 20:30 National

Show (pp) 19:30 Tomorrow's World (pp) 22:05 The Money League Basketball – Tel Aviv derby: Maccabi vs. Hapoel 22:30 English Soccer Programme 22:45 Building Sights (rpt) 23:30 Holiday ■ EUROSPORT 00:00 World News and Business Report 2:10 News Night 9:30 Cross-country Sking (rpt) 10:00 Snowboard: FIS

E CNN INTERNATIONAL ws throughout

Disp (rpt) 6:30 NBA Week 7:30 Insight (rpt) 8:30 Global View 9:30 World Sport 11:30 CNN Newsroom 13:30 American Edition 13:45 Q&A (rpt) 14:00 Asian News 14:30 World Sport 15:00 Asian News 15:30 Business Asia 16:00 Impact - new current atlairs program 17:30 World Sport (m/0) 18:30 Earth Matters 19:30 Q & A 20:45 American Edition 21:00 World Business

Today 21:30 World News 22:00 Impact 23:00 European News 23:30 Insight 00:00 World Business Today 00:30 World Sport

RADIO

III VOICE OF MUSIC 8:06 Morning

1:00 World View 2:30 Moneyline

Concert 9:05 Contemporary 12:00 Light Classical - excerpts from operettas by Benatzky, Offenbach, Lehar, Oscar Straus and Johann Strauss

13:00 Artist of the Week - Janet Baker sings Mahler 14:06 Encore 15:00 Cycle of Works

- Beethoven's piano concertos 16:00 Early music 17:00 Etnahta - live Henry Crown Auditorium, Jerusalem, Ludmilla Berman (plano).
Beethoven: Sonata in C op 53 "Waldstein";
Arthur Gerburg. 4 Prelucies: Liszt: 5 Fantasy in F minor, 3 Noctumes: Prokofiev: Nocturnes: Prokofiev Sonata no 7 in B flat op 83 19:00 Rainbow of 20:05 Bernstein:

Sonata for clarinet and plano op 1: Rimsky-Korsakov: Capriccio espagnole; Gershwin: Symphonic Picture from Porgy and Bess 21:00 A Matter of

MOVIES

18:00 MSNBC - the

19:00 National

JERUSALEM
CINEMATHEQUE Dragoriheart 5 * La
Note di Sart Lorenzo * 7:15 * Medame
Bovery 8 * Ginger and Fred 9:30 G.G.
Gill. Jerusalem. Mail (Maira) = 6785448
Fierze CreatureelMars Attackst@First Wives Club 4:45, 7:15, 8:45 * The Ghost and the Dwitness@Star Trek: First Contact 4:45, 7:15, 8:45 * Lost Highway
@Sleepers 4:30, 7:15, 10 * Kolya 4:45, 7:16 * Michael Coffee 9:45 ISRAEL
MUSEUM Secrets and Lies 9:15
JERUSALEM THEATER 20 Marcus
St. 5810011 Breaking the Waves 6, 9 *
Portrait of a Lady 6:30, 9:30 RAV CHEN
1-7 = 6792799 Credit Card Reservations
= 6794477 Rav-Mechar Building, 19
Hatoman St., Taiplot People vs Larry Plymt
4:45, 7:15, 9:45 * Jerry Maguira 4:30, 7:15, 9:45 * Roman and Juliet@Ransom 5,
7:15, 9:45 * Scream@The Cruchbe@One Virgin Spring 6 * A Hard Day's Night 9:30 GLOBECTTY= 8551467 Star Trek: First Contact efferce Creaturesellers Attackst 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 * The Ghost and the Dericness 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 * Lost Highway 7:15, 10 MORIAH =6643654 Shine 7:30, 9:30 ORLY = 8381668 The Crucible 7, 9:15 PANORAMA Fierce Creatures 4:30, 7, 9:30 * Star Treic First Contact 4:30, 7, 9:30 * Star Treic First Contact 4:30, 7, 9:30 * Star Treic First Contact 4:30, 7, 9:30 RAV-MOR 1-7 = 8674311 Scream 4:30, 7, 9:15 * Jerry Maguire 4:15, 7, 9:30 RAV-MOR 1-7 = 8416868 Rensom 4:30, 7, 9:15 * Jerry Maguire 4:15, 7, 8:30 * Scream 4:45, 7, 9:15 * People vs Larry Flynt 4:30, 7, 9:15 RAV-OR 1-3 = 8246853 People vs Larry Flynt 4:30, 7, 9:15 * Ore Fine Day 4:45, 7, 9:15 * Poople vs Larry Flynt 4:30, 7, 9:30 * Romeo and Juffet 4:3 9:15 ± One Fine Day 4:45, 7, 9:15 AFULA RAV CHEN = 6424047 Jerry Maguine 8:45, 9:30 ± Breaking the Waves 6:30, 9:15 ± Romeo and Juliet 7, 9:30 9:45 * Normo and Juleuwission 5, 7:15, 9:45 * Screenwithe Crucible@ne Fire Day 5, 7:30, 9:45 MEVASSERET ZION G.G. GIL Star Treft: First Contact@Evite 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 SMADAR Shire 5:45, 7:45, 10 TELAVIV DIZENGOFF * 5101370. Jane

STAR +9950904 Screem 7:15, 9:30 * The Ghost and the Darkness 7:15, 9:30 ASHDOD DIZENGUPP # 5101370. Jane EyretColys 11 a.m., 1, 3, 5, 7:45, 10 * Beyond the Clouds 11 a.m., 3, 7:45 * Mutholtend Patts 1, 5, 10 GAT The Evening Star 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 GORDON Bytes 5:30, 7:45, 10 G.G. HOD 1-4 * 5226228 Hod Passage, 101 Dizengoff St. Flerce Creatures@Mars Attacks! 5, 7:30, 41 at 16 Mars. 7:15 10 * Kams Subra G.G. GIL # 8647202 Kanna Sutra@Star G.G. Gill. # 86472/2 Katha Sturewstar Trak: First Contact @Daylight 6, 7:30, 10 *Lost Highway@Siespers 7, 9:45 G.G. ORI 1-3to 711223 The Ghost and the Darkness@Fierce Creatures 5, 7:30, 10 *Long Kiss Goodnight 5, 7:30, 10 RAV CHEN #8661120 Scream@Extreme 5, 7:30, 10 * Ster Trek: First Contact EV Shine 12 ncon, 2, 4:45, 7:30, 10 * Secrets and Lies 11:30 a.m., 2, 4:45, 7, 9:45 *
Beautitul Triing 12:15 a.m., 2:15, 5, 7:30,
10 * Steeling Beauty 5 * Antonia's Line
7:30 * Lia Ceremonie 11:45 a.m., 2 *
Trainspotting 10 * The Pillow Book G.G.
PE'ER Fierce Crestures 5, 7:30, 10 *
Mars Attacks! 5, 7:30, 10 * Lost Highway
4:30, 7:15, 10 * Poytrait of a Measures@One Fine Day 5, 7:30, 9:45 * Ransom 5, 7:15, 9:45 * Romeo and Juliet 5, 7:15, 9:45 * Jerry Maguire 4:30, 7:15, 9:45
ASHKELON
G.G. Gil. 2 729977 Flerce
Creatures@Star Treic First Contact 5, 7:30, 10 * Kame Sutra@The Ghost and Mers Attacks! 5, 7:30, 10 * Lost Highway
4:30, 7:15, 10 * Portrait of a LadyeMichael Collins 4:30, 7:15, 10 RAVCHEN® 5282288 Dizengoli Center
RansomeRomeo and Juliet **One Fina
Day 2:30, 5, 7:15, 9:45 * Jerry Maguire
2:15, 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 * Scream 2:30, 5,
7:30, 9:45 * Edireme Messures 2:30, 5, 7:30, 9:45 RAV-OR 1-5 * 5102674 Opera House Romeo and Juliet**The

7:30, 10 * Karne Sutre®The Ghost and the Darkness 5, 7:30, 10 * Lost Highway 7, 9:45 RAV CHEN One Fine DayeRansonreScream 5, 7:30, 9:45 * Jerry Maguire 4:30, 7:15, 9:45 * Breaking the Waves 7, 9:45 BAT YAM RAV CHEN Rensom 7:15, 9:45 * Jerry Maguire 4:30, 7:15, 9:45 * Fierce Creatures 5, 7:30, 9:45 * Scream 7:30, 9:45; 5, 7:30, 9:45 * Romeo and Juffet 6, 7:15, 9:45 * One Fine Day 5 7:30, 9:45 *

9.45; 5, 7:30, 9.45 * Romeo and Juffet 6, 7:15, 9:45 * One Fine Day 5 7:30, 9:45 * Extreme Measures 9:45 * Mars Attacks! 5, 7:30 * Star Treic First Contact 5 BEERSHEBA G.G. Gill=644077! Karna Sutra@The Ghost and the Darkgeas@One Fine Day 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 * Lost Highway 7:16, 10 G.G. ORI #610311! Figres Creatures @Star Treic First Contact @Mars Attacks! 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 * Secrets and Lies 7, 9:45 RAV-NEGEV 1-4 #6235278 Jerry

Maguire 4:30, 7:15, 9:46 * The Crucible 5, 7:15, 9:45 * Screen 5, 7:30, 9:45 * People ys Larry Flynt 4:30, 7:15, 9:45 HADERA

World Cup, France

(rpf) 11:00 Alpine Skiing:

World Cup Final, US

(rpt) 13:90 Cross-country

vs Larry Flynt 4:30, 7:15, 9:45
HADERA
LEV Jerry Maguire@Secrets and Lies 7, 9:45 * Shine@Screem 7:30, 10
HERZLIVA COLONY *0902666 One Fine Day@The Crucible 5:30, 7:45, 10 HOLIDAY Portrait of a Lasty 7:15 * Lost Highway 10 STAR * 589068 Fierce Creatures 7:30, 10 *
Mars Attacks! 7:30, 10
KARNMEL
CINIEMA One Fine Day@Screem 7, 9:30
* Jerry Maguire 6:45, 9:30
KFAR SAVA
G.G. Gill. *7677370 Mars Attacks!
@Fierce Creatures 5, 7:30, 10 * Jerry Maguire@Secrets and Lies 4:30, 7:15, 10
* Star Treic First Contact 5, 7:30, 10 * Shine 4:30, 7:15, 10 * Breaking the Waves 4:15, 7, 9:45
KIRYAT BIALIK
G.G. Gill. The Ghost and the Darkness
7:15, 9:45 * Romeo and Juliet 7:15, 9:45 *
Shine 7:15, 9:45 * Secrets and Lies 7:15, Shine 7:15, 9:45 ± Secrets and Lies 7:15, 9:45 ± Ransom 7:15, 9:45 ± Lost Highway 7:15, 9:45 ± One Fine Day 7:15, 9:45 ± Mars Attackst@Fierce Creatures

(FIR) SHIMONA G.G. Gil. Fierce Creatures Jerry Maguire & Star Treic First Contact 4:30, 7, STAR Sleepers 7, 9:45 * Scream 7:15, 9:45 * The Ghost and the Darkness 9:45

* Portrait of a Lady 7 UPPER NAZARETH G.G Gil Kama Sutra@Jerry Maguire@Fierce Creatures 4:30, 7, 9:30 x The Ghost and the Darkness@One Fine Day@Scream @Ster Trek: First Contact 4:30, 7, 9:30

Q.G. GIL 1-4 = 404729 The Ghost and the DerimesseStar Treic First Contacte/First Creatures 5, 7:30, 10 * Breaking the Waves 6:30, 9:30
NETANYA
G.G. Gil. 1-5 * 628452 Mars

Attacks/@Shine@Flace Creatures 5, 7:30, 10 * Secrets and Lies@Lost Highway 7:15, 10 * The Ghost and the Highway 7:15, 10 * The Ghost and the Dericness@Star Trek: First Contact 4:45 RAV CHEN * 8518570 Jerry Maguire 4:30, 7:15, 9:45 * Scream 5, 7:30, 9:45 * Romeo and Judiet 5, 7:16, 9:45 * The Crucible 5, 7:30, 9:46 OR AKIVA RAV CHEN * 6262758 Jerry Maguire 8:45, 9:30 * Breaking the Wayes 6:30, 9:15 * Two Days in the Valley 7, 8:30 OR YEHUDA

G.G. Gil. 1-4 RansomeThe Ghost and the Parkness 5, 7:30, 10 * Kama SurraeStar Treic First Contact 5, 7:30,

10
PETAH TIKVA
G.G. HECHAL Jerry Maguire 4:30, 7:15, 10 * Flore Creatures * Broeking the Waves 7, 10 * People vs Lerry Flynt
5, 7:30, 10 G.G. RAM 1-3 * 9340818 5, 7:30, 10 G.G. RAM 1-3 = 9340818
Rensom@Star Treit: First Contect
ePortrait of a Lady 7:30, 10 SIRKIN
Romeo and Juliet@One Fine
Day@Shine@Shine 5, 7:30, 10 ± Scream eFierce Creatures 7:30, 10; 5, 7:30, 10 ±
Secrets and Lies 7:15, 10
RA'ANANA
CIN-MOFET Breeking the Waves 9:30 PARK Shine@Jerry Maguire @The Crucible 4:45, 7:15 ± Romeo and Juliet 4:45, 7:15 10 ± One Fine Day 10

Lies 4:45, 7:15 * Romeo and Junes 4:40, 7:15, 10 * One Fine Day 10 RAMAT GAN RAY-GAN 1-4 * 6197121 Scream@One Fine Day 5, 7:30, 9:45 * Romeo and Juliet 5, 7:15, 9:45 * People vs Larry Flynt 4:30, 7:15, 8:45 * Jingle All the Way * Spyhard * Homeward Bound Fight 430, 7:15, 8:45 * Jingle All the Way * Spyhard * Homeward Bound BeThe Hunchback of Notre Dame (Hebrew dialog) RAV-OASIS 1-3 = 6730687 Fierce Creatures@Mars Attacks! 5, 7:30, 9:45 * Jerry Maguire 4:30, 7:15, 9:45 RAMAT HASHARON KOKHAV Shine 5, 7:30, 10

KOKHAV Shine 5, 7:30, 10
REHOVOT
CHEN Shine 7:30, 10 ★ Secrets and Lies 7, 9:45 ★ Breaking the Waves 7, 9:45 ★ Lost Highway 7, 9:45 RAV MOR
The Crucible@Romeo and Juliet@One Fine Day@Scream 5, 7:30, 9:45 ★ Jerry Maguire 4:30, 7:15, 9:45 ★ People vs
Larry Flynt 4:30, 7:16, 9:45
RISHON LEZION
GAL 1-5 = 9619669 Ransom@Scream
7:30, 10 ★ Sleeners 7:15, 10 Gil 1-2.3

GAL 1-5 = 9619699 Ransom@Scream 7:30, 10 ★ Sleepers 7:15, 10 GIL 1-3-Fierce Creatures@Shine 5, 7:30, 10 ★ Secrets and Lies 4:45, 7:15, 10 HAZA-HAV Ster Treic First Contact @Mars Attacks:@Fierce Creatures 5, 7:30, 10 ★ Shine 5, 7:30, 10 ★ Breaking the Waves ★ The Ghost and the Darkness RAV CHEN Jerry Maguire 4:30, 7:15, 9:45 ★ Scream 5, 7:30, 9:45 ★ Scream 5, 7:30, 9:45 ★ People vs Larry Florit 5, 7:30, 9:45 × People vs Larry Flynt 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 STAR Jerry Maguired ost Highway 7:15, 10 × One Fine Day@Kama Setra 7:30, 10

YEHUD RAV CHEN Jerry Maguire: 4:30, 7:15, 9:45 ± One Fine Day 5, 7:30, 9:45 ± Two Days in The Valley 5; 7:30, 9:45 ± Scream 5, 7:30, 9:45 Phone reservations: Tel Aviv 5252244 Phone reservations: Haifa 728678 All times are p.m. unless otherwise indi-cated.

Hanegbi to be questioned again

Justice Minister Tzahi Hanegbi is expected to be summoned for the third time for questioning this week in the Bar-On for Hebron affair before police hand over all investigation material to the State Anomey's Office. He is suspected of giving the Knessel misleading information on his consultations with Supreme Court justices before Bar-On's appointment as autorney-general. The police team investigating the case is still try-ing to establish if Hanegbi also made false declarations to the Knesset. The team is expected to present its findings to State Anomey Edna Arbel this week, and sources said that there will probably be at least two recommendations to indict - against Hanegbi and MK Aryeh Deri.

Raine Marc Raine Marcus

Police commander testifies against Ne'eman

Dep.-Cmdr. Ya'acov Grossman yesterday testified for the prosecution against former justice minister Ya'acov Ne'eman in Tel Aviv Magistrate's Court. Ne'eman is charged with obstructing justice and giving false evidence to police in connection with the investigation of the fraud charges for which Shas leader Aryeh Deri is on trial. Ne'eman resigned his ministerial post last August when a petition to the High Court of Justice against his appointment led to a police inquiry. Raine Marcus

Police: Indict Lieberman aide

Police have recommended to the State Attorney's Office that Yaron Zalika, an aide to Prime Minister's Office director-general Avigdor Lieberman, be charged with fraud, breach of trust, and misuse of office, in connection with controversial summaries relating to the Israel Broadcasting Authority.

The summaries of government reports on the IBA were submitted to the cabinet and were the basis for a cabinet discussion of the IBA's future. These summaries portrayed the IBA and its director-general, Mordechai Kirschenbaum, in a more negative light than the original documents.

Man charged with attempted murder

Nuriel Fingel, 48, of Ramle, who allegedly struck his wife Ruth with an ax in the head, face, arms and legs, was charged with attempted murder in Tel Aviv District Court yesterday. Fingel had previously threatened, in front of a social worker, to kill his wife, her mother and himself, the indictment said. Itim

Teenager needs marrow donor

The British Council Presents:

DYLAN THOMAS

RETURN JOURNEY ***

ANTHÖNY HÖPKINS

Magen David Adom will bold an emergency blood testing campaign on Wednesday to find a potential bone-marrow donor for Moshe Sehayek, 15, a pupil at Midrashiyat Noam in Pardess Hanna who suffers from leukemia. Blood samples will be taken in Jerusalem, the Galilee, the Negev, the Sharon region, Judea and Samaria, and the Dan region.

Healthy volunteers aged 17 1/2 to 55 are asked to undergo a test; their tissue type will be listed in the National Bone Marrow Registry to help others needing a donation as well. More information will be available on Wednesday at 050-642-594 or 06-637-7213. Judy Siegel

The winning cards in yesterday's Mifal Hapayis daily Chance drawing were the seven of spades, nine of hearts, ace of diamonds, and 10 of clubs.

KEVIN KNIGHT

BOB KINGDOM

"DYLAN THOMAS RETURN JURNEY". Directed by ANTHONY HOPKINS and acclaimed on both sides of the Atlantic, this thrilling 'roly-poly word binge' stors BOB KINGDOM in the definitive portrayol of the Welsh poet destined for greatness and despair. Kingdom moves us with Thomas's soaring poems and wonderful storytelling, including 'A Child's Christmas in Wales', his return as an adult to Swansea and epic pub crawl with thirty wild, wet Welshmen.

"BOB KINGDOM SEEMS NOT SIMPLY TO BE PLAYING THOMAS, OR

"THE TRUMAN CAPOTE TALK SHOW". From Dylan Thomas

BOB KINGDOM turns the spotlight on another unique and tortured soul, the American outhor of "Breakfost At Tiffany's" and "In Cald Blood", TRUMAN CAPOTE. Adorable, impish and wicked, Capote's life is chronicled from the golden days of early success to his self inflicted fall from grace, ravaged by booze and drugs. Glitzy, bitchy, heartbreoking.

"YOU WILL FIND NO MORE MOVING ACCOUNT OF WILFUL SELF-DESTRUCTION" Daily Mail

JERUSALEM, Jerusalem Theatre, Rebecca Grown Auditorium: Thur. 27.3.97, 8:30 p.m.:

DYLAN THOMAS. Sat. 29.3.97. 8:00 p.m.: TRUMAN CAPOTE. REHOVOT, Elmer

Auditorium, Weizmann Institute: Sun. 30.3.97, 8:30 p.m.: DYLAN THOMAS. KFAR-SABA, Sapir Anditorium: Mon. 31.3.97, 8:30 p.m. DYLAN THOMAS. Bet Gabriel at KINNERET: Toes. 1.4.97, 8:30 p.m.: DYLAN THOMAS. BE'ER-SHEVA,

Ben-Gurion Liniversity, Sonnenfelt Auditorium: Wed. 2.4.97, 8.30 p.m.: TRUMAN CAPOTE.

TEL-AVIV, Suzanne Dellai Center: Thur. 3.4.97, 8:30 p.m., Fri. 4.4.97, 10:00 p.m.: DYLAN THOMAS. Sat. 5.4.97, 5:00 p.m., 9:00 p.m.: TRUMAN CAPOTE. HAIFA, Technion Gnema

BOX OFFICES: TEL-AVIV, Suzanne Dellal Center: 03-5105656, Rokoko: 03-5276699, Hadran: 03-5279797, Kastel: 03-6044725, Lean: 03-5247373-HASHARON: 03-5400551/2, JERUSALEM, Jerusalem Theatre: 02-5610011, Birnot: 02-6234061, Klaim: 02-6256869. Bet Gahriel at KINNERET: 06-6751175.

KFAR-SABA: 09-7649230. REHOVOT: 08-9343207, 08-9467890. HAIFA: Garber

Center: 03-5105656. JERUSALEM, Jerusalem Theatre: 02-5610011. HAIFA, Garber: 04-8384777. KFAR-SABA, BEER SHEVA & REHOVOT, Rokoko: 03-5276699.

Exclusively for Isracard Holders: 70 MS discount per ticket with 150 stars

04-8384777, 8292432. BETER-SHEVA: Ben-Gurion University, 07-6472340. BOX OFFICES FOR ISRACARD CAMPAIGN: TEL-AVIV, Suzanne Dellal

Hall: Sun. 6.4.97, 6:00 p.m.: DYLAN THOMAS. 9:00 p.m.: TRUMAN CAPOTE.

IMITATING THOMAS, BUT BEING THOMAS" Clive Barnes, New York Post

in memoriam

Soldiers attend yesterday's national memorial ceremony in honor of fallen soldiers whose bodies have not been recovered. At the Mt. Herzl ceremony, both Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu and Defense Minister Yitzhak Mordechai told the bereaved families they are making every effort to locate the bodies of the 446 missing soldiers.

Dotan release furor

By ARIEH O'SULLIVAN

It appears that the only way to prevent the release of Rami Dotan, the former chief IAF procurement officer jailed for embezzliog millions of dollars from US military contracts, would be via an injunction from the High Court of Justice.

Defense Minister Yitzhak Mordechai was reportedly furious when be learned of a military parole committee's decision to release Dotan, and ordered the ministry's legal adviser Zvia Gross and IDF Judge Advocate-General Brig.-Gen. Uri Shoham, to check wbether it could be reversed.

But Defense Ministry sources said both Gross and Shoham had ruled that the committee's decision was final, and there was nothing the military establishment could do to prevent Dotan's release on April 21.

The news of Dotan's planned release next month, after having served just half of his 13year sentence, has generated a host of opposition from both civilian and defense officials. His release was decided upon because of his poor health. Dotan has high blood pressure and reportedly suffered two minor strokes in prison.

The impending release is likely to raise eyebrows in Washington during Mordechai's visit there next week, given that most of the money Dotan stole was from the General Electric Corp. Mordechai hopes to win a US commitmeot to participate in the production of the Arrow anti-missile missile.

Brig.-Gen. (res.) Shalom Ben-Moshe, the former head of military police who investigated the Dotan case, was shocked at the decision. He said Dotan caused great harm to the integrity of the IDF and damaged state security by fouling defense business with the United States. President Ezer Weizman also objected to the decision.

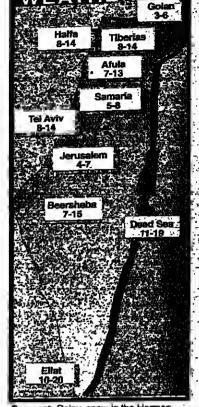

The military committee, in addition to citing

Dotan's poor health, accepted the opinion of IDF field security officers that his release would not harm state security if he promised not to reveal any classified information he remembered and be be forbidden to travel abroad.

The Movement for Quality Government said it is drawing up a petition to the High Court of Justice to prevent Dotan's release. You can't release this kind of man because he bas high blood pressure," said the movement's attorney, Eliad Shraga.

Labor MK Yona Yahav said he had beguo signing MKs on a petition to the president and defense minister, asking that they use any authority they might have to prevent the release. Yisrael Ba'aliya MK Roman Bronfman yesterday submitted a private member's bill that would forbid the IDF's parole committee to release any prisoner who had been sentenced by a military court to eight years' or more imprisonment.

J. J.

4 TO 翻二二 detexted

S warns

100 attibar (*

VINCTO A.

F. 25. 5.

and the same

War i Co

ALL VI

Maria Comme

2020

5:797

37

22.200

磁器、22、

RECOVER OF

10

Passer .... bet trace

es well.

S2. 71: 2:50 SELECT TO

MATE IC DA

great in the co

hilton .

 $\mathcal{M}_{\mathcal{G}} : \mathcal{M}_{\mathcal{G}} \to \mathcal{M}_{\mathcal{G}}$

 $Ab_{\rm MS} + \epsilon_{\rm s}$

Books and and entired to a re-

Carry ...

More 22-

ettection .

arate of

AD:

FEE IN THE S

AROUND THE WORLD

Hanegbi blasted for Arafat threats

By MICHAL YUDELMAN

Justice Minister Tżahi Hanegbi was roundly blasted yesterday by opposition leaders and cabinet ministers alike for his threats against Palestinian Authority Chairman Yasser Arafat. Coalition sources said Hanegbi's belligerence is causing damage to the government's efforts to solve the crisis with the Palestinians, while Labor leaders called for his resignation.

On Saturday night Hanegbi told Likud activists in Or Yehuda that "if Arafat exerts force against us, it will be the end of the peace process. Our reaction will reach Arafat himself. Arafat will not be able to continue living peacefully in a villa on the coast with [his wife] Suha. If it's war, then it's all the way."

. Hanegbi threatened Arafat, saying he would be forced out of Gaza and return to his wandering "between Tunis and Baghdad" with a suitcase. if violence breaks out.

"No one who wants to finish us is immune, neither 'the Engineer' [Yihye Ayyash] nor anyone in any villa," he said, referring to the Hamas bomb-maker killed last year. Foreign Minister David Levy expressed regret at Hanegbi's utter-

Labor leaders reacted sharply to Hanegbi's statements, calling for his immediate resignation.

ance and accused him of aggravating the tension by "adding fuel to the Ion Immanuel adds: Hanegbi's Palestinian counterpart, Freih Abu Meddein, said Hanegbi "drank in terrorism with his mother's [right-wing politician Geula Cohen] milk." Ahmed Abdel-Rahman, PA cabinet secretary, asked, "What is the difference between Hanegbi and Baruch Goldstein? He killed our dignity, he humiliated us today and you know how important dignity is to an Arab. He slapped the face of the Palestinian people."

Reform threatens Israel fund boycott

By HAIM SHAPIRO

If IDF soldiers can't visit Reform synagogues on educational field trips, while being allowed to visit yeshivot where they are exhorted to be religiously observant, the Reform Movement will boycott all Israeli speakers and fund-raisers abroad, an official of Israel's Reform Movement warned yesterday.

Anat Galili, spokesperson for the Reform Movement's Israel Religious Action Center, responded to an item in Yated Ne'eman, the haredi daily, which said henceforth official IDF field trips would not take soldiers to visit mosques, churches, or "Reform temples." The paper said soldiers' visits to mosques, churches, and Reform institutions were stopped following a parliamentary question by MK Moshe Gafni (United Torah Judaism) to the defense minister.

Gafni said some soldiers are unwilling to enter such places.

The paper said Chief of General Staff Lt.-Gen. Amnon Lipkin-Shahak ordered that visits to these institutions be stopped, after Gafni's-

Galili said the Reform Movement could live with a decision which would exclude visits to Reform institutions, if the order also applied to. yeshivot that try to convince people to become observant. If some soldiers object to visiting Reform institutions, others object to visiting yeshivot, she said. If the ban is not a general one, she said, official Israeli representatives : and fund-raisers would be banned from all Reform congregations abroad. The ban, she added could well extend to the activities of lewish federations, since in many of these organizations Reform Jews play a leading role.

The Best Offers for the Religious Public in Ramat Beit Shemesh

Choice of apartments built by the best contractors

at unrivalled prices!

3 rooms, starting at $118,100 3.5 rooms, starting at $128,500 4 rooms, starting at $133,000 5 rooms, starting at $148,500

Grants are to be deducted from the above prices ($15,000).

OF Real Estate, Sarei Israel Hotel, 16 Tora Mizion, Room No. 308, 02-5375161

Listen to Arutz 7 711+1143 AM 105 FM The Jerusalem Post introduces the first

English-language national magazine especially for the Jewish observant public Ba'kehila

Your advertising ticket to enormous purchasing power which no other publication offers!

Whatever your field - travel, real estate, simcha services, fashion; children's activities, books, gifts, toys, computers and more - Bakehila can increase your sales! No kosher restaurant anywhere in the country should be left out

Take advantage of our very attractive rates and reach JP distribution nationwide plus additional readership in specially-targeted religious communities across the country.

FIRST ISSUE: April 11, 1997 For advertising rates and Information, contact your JP ad. representative or Media Plus Communications, Tel. (02) 625- 0477. Positive Health Weekend

3 DAY SEMINAR ON COMPLEMENTARY MEDICINE

Join the Reidman International Center. Israel's leading school for Complementary Medicine, Shorashim and The Jerusalem Post Travel Club, for an English-speaking interactive three days. We'll participate in workshops and lectures on reflexology, massage therapy, herbal medicine, aromatherapy, nutrition, body language, women's health issues, hand diagnostics, and more. On our way, we'll visit the Beduin and learn about their natural herbal cures. We'll be staying at the new Beersheba Hilton with five star facilities.

The dates: Thursday, Friday, Saturday, April 10, 11, 12, 1997

The price: NIS 975 per person in a double room. Includes round-trip transportation from Jerusalem and Tel Aviv, two breakfasts, two dinners, one lunch (Shabbat), participation in all workshops, discussions, lectures, etc., guided tour with the Beduin, use of hotel facilities, etc. Pick-up and drop-off along the route where possible and arranged beforehand.

SHORASHIM: POB 7588, 14 Rehov Abarbanel. Rehavia, Jerusalem 91074 Tel. 02-566-6231 (9:30 a.m. - 2:30 p.m.) (Ask for Michal, Varda or Vered.)

len ...... Degen isani. . Diggi kπ d. . . . . A the tree is tarian ... Xina Gliffer andre . . . ي. بين 194

Book early as space is limited. For reservations and further information: